A Market for Farmers.

The population of the United States in 1840 was 17,000,000. Forty years later it had grown to 50,000,000. Meanwhile the farming population has increased from 3,817,000 to 7,000,000. It will be seen that while the population has trebled the farming population has not doubled. This fact furnishes an idea to Mr. Haskell, of Kansas, who in the House of Representatives shows that the trade policy of the United States has given a much wider market to the farmers. For every two persons who went to make up a home market for each farmer in 1840 there are in 1880 three persons. The home market is fifty per cent. better, because of industries which have brought in a crowd of consumers. Mr. Haskell is able to show that of agricultural products only eight per cent is exported, which being true it would seem that it is of the least importance to look well to those elements in the economy of the nation that go to the development of the home market. Our history has been much the same so far as it has gone in this respect as that of the United States. The percentage of the people in the Dominion who are engaged in works other than agriculture has largely increased since 1878. The Factory Commission of Ontario, whose investigations come down to the present time is throwing a good deal of light over this matter. They have found of factories which have been started within the last three years, ninety-six employing 7,242 hands. They also find that in those manufactories which were in operation in 1882, an increase in the number of hands employed of 40 per cent. in cotton factories, 28 in manufactories of organs and pianos, clothing and castings 24, and in miscellaneous manufactories 25 per cent. There are now more than four times the number of men employed in cotton factories than in 1878. The commission also finds that while no factory pays less wages than it did, in the last two years ninety-three factories show an increase of ten per cent. in the rate of wages, and 66 of 15 per cent. An increase of 20 per cent is shown by 42, and of 25 per cent by 21. Several show a still higher advance, while 185 show no change. These figures are interesting to farmers in these provinces. If the agricultural class find the home market for their produce increasing by fifty per cent., it will be hard to convince them that they lose by the change.

British Imports.

The total net imports of wheat into the United Kingdom in the year 1882 were 1,550,999 quarters greater than in 1881, and the farmer's deliveries of home-grown wheat during the year were just about the same as in 1881, (7,600,000 quarters), but as the total stocks of wheat show an increase of only 690,000 quarters the difference is ascribed by the local statistical authorities (and notably by Beerholm's Corn Trade list) to an increased consumption of wheat in the United Kingdom in the past year, which has been induced by the low prices of wheat as compared to other food-stuffs. This increased consumption has been at the rate of from three to four per cent. over that of the preceding year. It is believed in London that this increased consumption of wheat is more largely due to the scarcity and high prices of potatoes than to any other one fact. Prices of potatoes in London are from fifty to one hundred per cent. higher than last year, and throughout the kingdom this is the rule, except in some districts in Ireland, where they are more than double the price of last year. If the scarcity of this one important edible root has caused such an increased consumption of wheat in the United Kingdom it would necessarily have the same effect on the continent, where the potato crop last year was almost a complete failure. It is, therefore, to be reasonably presumed that the consumption of wheat on the continent has been increased quite as much, if not more, than in the United Kingdom, and that, notwithstanding the increased importations of wheat this year by Germany and France, their stocks in store have not increased in even the same proportion as those in the United Kingdom.—U. S. Miller.

Rat Skins Eclipsed.

A reporter interviewed Mr. Earle, of St. John's, Newfoundland, while on a visit to the Upper Provinces. Speaking of the seal fisheries, Mr. Earle said that many seal skins are now sent to London and Paris to be manufactured into kid (?) gloves. "You must know," he said, "it would be very difficult to secure a sufficient number of kids to turn into gloves to meet the demand, and even such a plebeian family as the rat must give out after a time. Some of the very best Paris-made gloves you buy now are made of seal-skin. There is a quite a demand for seal-skins for this purpose." In reply to a question as to whether the fisheries in Newfoundland would be satisfactory this season, Mr. Earle said he thought they would, as the winter had not been very severe there, and there would probably not be much ice on the coast. In this case the vessels would be able to get out from the coast and make a good haul.

Egypt is to have a large police force composed mainly of Europeans. Active recruiting for this body has been going on in Switzerland, Germany and Belgium. Natives of these countries are deemed equally eligible. French and Italians are, for political reasons, excluded. The recruits are not to be under 20, nor over 40 years of age. They are to get from $30 to $60 a month, from which about $8 a month is to be deducted for the cost of rations. The Egyptian Government is to pay the expense of conveyance to Egypt, and there is a special agreement with the Swiss recruits, that in case their country should become involved in war, they are to have the privilege of returning immediately to their homes, at the expense of the Egyptian treasury.

CURRENT NOTES.

Smallpox is raging at Leadville, Col. Oil has been discovered in Saratoga County, New York State.

The English Postmaster General is totally blind, his Accountant-General is totally deaf, and one of the highest officers in the Admiralty is deaf and dumb.

The search after No. 1 continues, but no reliable discoveries concerning him are reported. It seems likely, however, that he will be unearthed ere long.

Denmark's protest against her subjects resident in Schleswig-Holstein being compelled to serve in the Prussian army has resulted in the new regulations being enforced with moderation.

A Halifax Alderman is authority for the statement that over five hundred steamers entered that port during last year, which number was only exceeded by two other ports on the continent.

In accordance with the prayer of a numerous signed petition the City Council of Brantford, Ont., has passed a bye-law by a vote of 12 to 2 compelling holders of shop licenses for retailing liquor to confine their business to that of liquor-selling.

The Roman Catholic church at Riviere du Loup was burned on Saturday. A contract was given some months ago at a cost of $20,000 for the finishing and beautifying of the interior and it is supposed the fire originated from a stove used by the workmen.

Important to bachelors: There seems to be a good opening for the right man in the following, which speaks for itself: "Husband dead a year ago, any gentleman feeling inclined to fill the vacancy address Mrs. Elizabeth Fogl, Comanche, Iowa. My age is forty years, height four and a half feet, weight 275 pounds, complexion dark, dark hair, eyes grey, and I have four false teeth in the lower jaw. I have got money enough to keep two of us the rest of our days, and whip any man that will vote for the amendment."

The smouldering fires of Socialism have broken out anew in Europe. The existence of secret societies in Andalusia has been discovered, and an explosion of dynamite near Brussels is attributed to Socialists. Threats have been made to blow up the Kremlin at Moscow during the Czar's coronation, in consequence of which the edifice is closely guarded, and the utmost care observed in engaging assistants. The proposed visit of the Prince of Wales as representative of the Queen at the coronation is not looked upon with favor in England.

"Mrs. Langtry's husband is a queer sort of a man," said Count Pozenta, Mme. Modjeska's husband, to a knot of friends. "When I was last in London they were telling a strange story in the clubs about him which was very funny. Langtry owns some property in Ireland, and it appears that his agent wrote him saying that the tenants demanded lower rents, and had threatened to resort to the shot gun policy to secure them. Mr. Langtry seized pen and paper and wrote back as follows: 'Dear Sir: You may say to my tenants that any threats to shoot you will never intimidate me.' Quer consolation for the agent, wasn't it?"—Rochester Herald.

On Thursday night last a shocking tragedy occurred at Port Hope. A man named John Bullen, aged ninety, was living with his wife aged seventy. They were supported by township funds and did not live happily. About eleven o'clock the house was discovered by neighbors to be on fire, and rushing to the scene they succeeded in extinguishing the fire with snow and reached the remains of the old man, still unconsumed when it was found his throat was cut from ear to ear. The old woman was not then to be seen but was found afterwards in a neighbor's house about a quarter of a mile away. She asserts that the old man cut his throat and fired the house. The coroner's jury has returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death at the hands of his wife, who set fire to the house to hide the crime. The woman has been lodged in Coburg jail to wait trial for the death of her husband.

There are two orders of men who write for modern newspapers. One composes the class which collects the news of the day and arranges it; the other composes the class which reveals its significance and predicts its results. Both demand peculiar talent of a high order; and few men have an equal aptitude for both. Energy, enterprise, accuracy, enthusiasm, and what is professionally known as a "nose for news," is demanded by the first; insight, knowledge, judgment, readiness, and a faculty of grasping the salient point of a topic, and presenting in the strongest, clearest, simplest and shortest way, is necessary to the second. Both have an equally important work to do; and only men who can fill some of these exacting requirements can succeed as working journalists. If you think you possess the peculiar talent necessary either to report the speeches of a political meeting, or to criticise them intelligently when reported, it may be worth your while to try your hand at newspaper work. The newspaper will find out in a week what your true value is.—Utica Observer to an Ambitious Youth.

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

For the cure of Leucorrhoea or White's Excessive of painful Menstruation, Green Sticks, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh of the Uterus or Vagina, Hysteria, Pain in the Back, or Piles, or for the purpose of invigorating and giving tone to the Generative Organs, two pills should be taken twice daily, or in very enfeebled conditions, one pill three times a day. To effect cures in chronic cases it will be necessary to continue the use of the remedy for some months. A reasonable trial will create sufficient confidence in the remedy to insure its being taken until a permanent cure is effected.
