Ernest Morrison and Police Chief S.D.A. Wannamaker last night inspected an installation period. Here Mayor Morrison (right) and Chief Wannamaker (left) inspect a seat belt with Gerald Enman, president of the junior chamber of commerce, while Paul Baxter sits in the car to fit the belt. Much interest has been shown in the important project and president Gerald Enman said yesterday that appointments for installation at nominal fees may be made with any Jaycee member.

THE SUMMERSIDE pee-wee all stars yesterday morning received a royal send-off as they left for Natick, Mass., where they will be guests of the local pee-wee team there. Next year the Boston team will visit Summerside on a return visit. Some of the young hockey players are seen here as they prepare to leave yesterday morning.

S'side Pee-Wees Leave For Natick

SUMMERSIDE — Four carloads of pee-wee hockey players left Summerside yesterday morning, enroute to Natick, Mass., where they will continue the annual hockey tournament commenced two years ago between these communities.

A large number of parents, spectators, and well wishers were on hand to see the caravan off for the international games.

The cars were descorated with signs and banners identifying the Summerside pee-wee team, and advertising the Summerside Lobster Carnival.

Gordon Kelly, who first suggested the idea of the international hockey annual exchange visit, was among the escorting adults accompanying the group.

Last night the boys had their first workout away from home when they play the Sussex peewees in an exhibition game, and this morning will continue on to Natick where they will be met in the evening by the mayor and a delegation from the Natick Comet pee-wee team.

While in the Boston area the Summerside boys will play two games, and among other interesting highlights of their American visit will be their attendance at a National Hockey League game between the Boston Bruins and the Detroit Red Wings, Sunday night.

The boys will leave for home Monday morning and are expected to arrive here Tuesday evening.

Diefenbaker To Visit S'side Next Thurs.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, national leader of the Progressive Conservative party, will visit Summerside on Thursday, March 14.

The announcement was made yesterday by G. Lorne Monkley, MLA and Prince County Progressive Conservative candidate in the April 8 election.

TO ADDRESS MEETING

Tentative plans indicate that the prime minister will arrive in Summerside on the morning of March 14, and will address a public meeting.

Mr. Monkley, Summerside representative in the provincial legislature, said he intends to retain his seat in the legislature until after the house meets, in order to introduce amendments to the Town of Summerside incorporation Act.

These amendments cover several sections of the Incorporation Act, and involve those having to do with credit borrowing on capital account, as well as clarifying the boundaries of the town.

It is understood that Mr. Monkley is required to resign his seat in the provincial legislature by nomination day, two weeks prior to election date.

City Hospitals Launching Campaign For $200,000

By NEIL MATHESON
Provincial and Farm Editor

The Prince Edward and Charlottetown hospitals are today launching a joint campaign for $200,000 in funds, which these two centres of health care in this city need to carry on some of the most important and necessary work in the entire province.

The joint appeal for community support has become necessary because both institutions have found, as have others elsewhere, that the hospital insurance plan which was mooted by many as a cure-all for all hospital financial problems, does not cover many things that require financing.

The insurance plan was never intended to cover the provision and maintenance of the hospital accommodations, and it does not do that. This is still a community responsibility.

The hospital insurance plan was designed primarily to relieve the individual of most of the otherwise crippling costs of hospital care, but it does not pay for all of them, and thus the hospitals still have to find funds for some of their operating or running expenses.

Though both hospitals have reached an enviably high standard in the past, they warn that they cannot continue that standard of care and service unless sorely needed financial help is received. Medical spokesman from both hospitals have told this paper recently they are worried about their ability to maintain the standard of care and service necessary to retain accreditation.

FACE SERIOUS PROBLEMS

Board Chairmen P.A. Murnaghan of the Charlottetown Hospital and William A. Hayward of the P.E.I. Hospital emphasize their institutions are facing increasingly serious problems through lack of enough proper equipment and sufficiently trained technical staffs.

The Charlottetown Hospital is terribly in need of expansion in its accommodation for children. "It is the first consideration and is the biggest single reason why we want to get some capital in reserve", a hospital spokesman emphasized last night.

The need of a new roof for the Charlottetown Hospital is becoming greater with each passing month, certainly with each snow storm as the melting snow causes leaks that have to be caught by tubs, or some other type of receptacle.

These are things that are normally referred to as "capital costs" but "capital is something we don't have any more and there is no way to get it except through the community", the spokesman explained.

Hospitals here have to pay higher salaries for highly skilled help than the hospital commission will allow, and this extra money has to be found somewhere. This applies to both hospitals.

SHORT OF SPACE

The Charlottetown Hospital is so short of space that parts of the corridors have to be used for laboratory and x-ray equipment. This was reported as early as 1959 in the survey made by the hospital consulting firm of Agnew-Peckham, but nothing has been done about it because necessary funds have not been available

Up to recently the P.E.I. Hospital was using bonds and other reserves to cover recurring deficits, but that money has been used up and there is nothing further on which to draw for such emergencies, board spokesmen have explained.

Though the appeal is a joint one, subscribers may direct their assistance to either hospital as they see fit, or they may, subscribe to the joint hospital fund and the money will be divided equally between the two hospitals.

S'side Trade Board Plans Brief On Centennial Park

SUMMERSIDE — At last night's regular meeting of the Summerside Board of Trade held on the premises of the P.E.I. Bag Company, it was decided that a meeting would be held among interested groups for the purpose of drawing up a brief on the proposed Centennial Park for West Summerside.

Those invited to attend this proposed session with the council of the board are representatives from the Summerside Town Council, the centennial committee, the Village of St. Eleanors and the service clubs of the area, who wish to be associated with the project.

This meeting, which will be chaired by Edgar Cannon, president of the board, will discuss and draw up the brief which it is intended to present to the provincial government.

The decision to prepare the brief was reached after Mr. Cannon reported that the board's centennial committee, headed by himself, had met with the executive committee, where it had been decided that "the project was quite feasible, and that the construction of the park would be proceeded with."

Mr. Cannon pointed out that among other things, the brief would contain a request for an investigation of the properties the proposed park would take in.

"Some of the land taken in will be donated free of charge by the town council," he said.

GRANT SUGGESTED

Another aspect of obtaining assistance in the construction which come in for considerable discussion was the possibility of obtaining a grant under the ARDA program.

With regard to some of the harbor problems, Mr. Cannon said that he was certain that dredging will be undertaken this year. This despite the fact that he had received a letter from the department of transport that present harbor conditions were relative to depth.

These are, in the channel 22 feet and at the end of the Marine Wharf, 20 feet, both at low tide. The letter indicated that under these conditions dredging was not necessary at this time.

During the evening the president extended congratulations to Laurie Coles, local engineer, who had submitted plans for the proposed new sewage disposal system, which have been accepted by the town council.

LETTER READ

Secretary Alex Campbell, read a letter from P.M. McCaull, chairman of the West Point ferry committee, acknowledging the generous support given that project by the Summerside board.

Other business included the making of plans for the forthcoming Chamber of Commerce Week, April 22 to 27. For this it decided to arrange for a special speaker for a dinner meeting during that week, and also to hold a seminar similar to the one held a few years ago.

At the conclusion of business the members were taken on a tour of the bag company plant by manager Horace MacFarlane, and staff members, Clifford Ramsay, Frederick Folland, Les Shields and Miss Sally Basler, following which refreshments were served.

New London Laymen Meet

KENSINGTON — The New London Parish Laymen's Association met in St. Mark's Hall, with 10 members present. The meeting opened with prayer led by the president, Harry Sudsbury, and the lesson read by John Bernard.

It was moved by John Pillman that the laymen would send treats to members who are hospitalized or under a doctor's care, with the sick committee to have the treats sent. Motion seconded by Earle Carrier. Appointed to the new sick committee were Keith Harrington, MLA, Robert Jollimore and Elmer Moase.

It was moved by Robert Jollimore, seconded by John Pilman that the secretary contact the department of fisheries for a speaker for next meeting.

The St. Stephen's men served lunch, and the balance of the evening was spent with discussion of church business.
