THE OUTLOOK FOR CHEESE.

(From Farming, April 26th.)

The outlook for cheese has greatly improved during the past few weeks. Recent reports from England indicate a largely increased consumption. The consumption of cheese in Liverpool alone during the month of March amounted to 87,000 boxes, which is considered unprecedented. The low prices, as was intimated some time ago, have induced an enormous consumption of cheese in Great Britain the old stocks are fast being absorbed. English fine Cheddars are reported to be getting quite scarce. The prospects at the present time are, that unless there is a large quantity to go forward from this side than is anticipated, the season's wind-up will be much better than those in the trade expected.

Though it is difficult to estimate exactly the quantity of cheese on this side we are inclined to the opinion that the bulk of last year's has gone forward, and that the stocks on hand here will not be sufficient to affect the upward turn which the market is now taking. Besides, the very small make of early fodder cheese will help the situation considerably. Compared with last spring the make of early cheese is very small indeed. A great many of the large factories will make butter till the first of May, while others intend to make butter till the middle of May if prices will warrant it. It would be well if all factories would make butter as long as possible. It would help the situation wonderfully and cause prices to go still higher. No doubt the present low prices for cheese and high prices for butter will cause many dairymen to withhold their milk from the factories even if they do start. A year ago finest Canadian cheese were selling at Liverpool for 56s. and 57s., and now they are 37s. and 38s. per cwt., a shrinkage of 19s. cwt., or about 40 per cent. Since last September the price in Liverpool has dropped from 47s. to 37s., which must show considerable loss on the part of those who invested largely in last fall's make of cheese.

Though the prospects for the present season have greatly improved, our dairymen should bear in mind that there was an unprecedented large make of cheese last year, which, if repeated, during any season must inevitably overload the market and bring lower prices. We have reached our maximum limit in the production of cheese unless we are willing to accept lower prices, and any movement towards a further increase of the output would only tend to overload the British market with more than it could conveniently take. The energies of our dairymen, then, should be directed more to improvement in the quantity of the product. Though we see every other country exporting cheese to Great Britain in the quality of our goods, there is still room for improvement. Improvement in quality has not kept pace with the increase in quantity during the past ten years. Then, again, there is ample room for the surplus energies of our dairymen in developing the export butter trade. The average consumption of butter in Great Britain is much greater than that of cheese, and affords a much wider scope for the energies of our dairymen.

A Voice From Mount Albion.

Sir,—Now that the war is on, we still more feel the need of a daily mail and trust the Post Office Department will soon see their way clear to give this flourishing settlement their due in this matter.

Your correspondent was much pleased to see that the House of Assembly had introduced a bill for the better protection of our partridge, which of late years have become very scarce, covers which in former years I have flushed 10 or 15, last year I noticed it was a rare thing to see one,— partly due to the sportsman's gun, and I think also to the horned owl, which is now quite numerous and destructive to game birds and also to our rabbits and squirrels.

At a future time I may have something to say about the wanton slaughter of our rabbits by sportsmen from the city.

I wish the bill now before the House had gone a little further and shortened the time in which game could be taken; say for two months in the fall of the year, or from about 15th of Sept. to the 15th of Nov. Young birds are then at a good growth and fat. They are now often shot before their feathers are grown and scarcely worth picking up. If our game laws are not amended and properly enforced in a few years sportsmen may dispose of their guns as our game will be nil.

The habit, also, of shooting blackduck in the spring of the year so common with our sportsmen, should be stopped if possible. As every female bird destroyed means in all probability a brood less in the fall.

I would say to our men in authority bring pressure to bear on those men who so heedlessly destroy the laws of our land, by appointing fearless men in authority who will see the law respected whether in reference to our game or fisheries neither of which laws are properly carried out. It is no uncommon sight in the spring of the year to see large heaps of smelts along our brooks ready to be carted off for manure. Nor is it an unusual thing to see our trout fed to the hogs in the fall of the year. I am credibly informed that this custom of seining trout and feeding them to the hogs prevailed on some of our best brooks last fall. The people in this section, of all parties would like to see the surveyed road leading from Mount Albion to Village Green, and thus giving an outlet to Vernon River bridge opened this summer. I trust our representatives will do their duty and give us this road which has now been promised for a number of years.

A WORD TO THE CARELESS

Many persons do not value their teeth. If they have the toothache their first and only thought is to have the tooth extracted. Just a few words on that point, they go and have it taken out, that is the last of that tooth; they cannot get it back again. Another tooth will begin troubling; out it goes, too, and soon after a while the person cannot masticate food; consequence is their health becomes impaired; then they pay doctors bills, buy medicine, etc., and as a last resort they get artificial teeth. Now look at the question from a business standpoint. In the first place what would be the cost to save the tooth and keep it good for a lifetime? Perhaps $1.00, and you will have your own teeth in your head, and they were most certainly put there for use. Now think of this—if you had a wart on your finger, that troubled you, would you have the finger cut off to remove the wart? Why certainly not Well, why loose a tooth to remove an ache. We can stop toothache and save the tooth, and guarantee them never to ache again.

Artificial Teeth

must be good to be satisfactory. We guarantee satisfaction or we don't want your money.
