THANKS.—The committee in charge of the P. E. I. Hospital Pound Party extends its sincere thanks for kind services rendered by the ladies and gentlemen taking part in programme, and those who donated so generously to the Hospital's needs to Miller Bros for piano, to the Press for its kind notices, and the Y. M. C. A. for use of Hall.

STREET CLEANING BRIGADE.—The street-cleaning brigade, the first rank armed with bass-brooms and the rear rank armed with shovels, began under the command of the City Surveyor, an attack upon the Main Street early this morning. Quite a number of men are engaged, and their thorough work is highly commendable. It shows how a little system and push result in improved streets. We hope to see all the streets attended to, as the prolonged mild weather has left them in a very disagreeable condition. Another matter which we suppose our policemen are responsible for is the ice upon the sidewalks that householders have neglected to clean away. If our active police officers would move around and notify all laggards of their duty, we might have clean sidewalks all over the city.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

A birthday social took place in the Bay House, Bay View, on Wednesday, the 9th inst. There were about 150 people present, young and old, who had received invitations. Each person received with their invitations a silk bag in which they were supposed to hand in a sum corresponding with their age. One cent a year was the rate.

The entertainment was provided by the Peak sisters—a family lately arrived—matching in to music in a costume consisting of a tall peak cap, peak kerchief and apron. The sisters were named Charity, Mehitabel, Experience, Jerusha, Thankful, Prudence, Precilla, Joyful, Sophronia, Johanna, Hope and Faith. Miss Ida McNeill as Charity, introduced the family and sketched their history. Miss Jackson as Precilla, acted as mistress of ceremonies and introduced the individual members sketching the life and giving the strong points and peculiar talents of each.

The first number on the programme was a chorus entitled the "World is full of Song." Next an instrumental duet by Thankful and Experience (Miss Janie and Lottie Simpson). Then a vocal duet "Some day I'll wander back again" by (Miss Janie and Bessie M. Simpson) Thankful and Hope.

Practical Sister Faith (Miss Sarah Simpson) then delivered a stirring eloquent address on Domestic Happiness. Elocutionary sister (Johanna), Miss Ethel Simpson discoursed on matrimony, first giving her reason for remaining single and afterward justifying her conduct in changing her mind on the subject. We then had a lullaby chorus which was accompanied by a swaying motion of the line of sisters. The Slangological sister Jerusha (Miss Charlotte McNeill) then gave a thoughtful and animated address on the use of slang words and phrases, illustrating her subject by a very frequent use of the article.

Chorus "Old Folks at Home" was followed by oratorical Sister Mehitabel (Miss Maud McNeill) who discussed eloquently on the qualifications to be most desired in the Young Woman of today. Musical Sister Joyful (Miss Maggie Clark) favoured us with a Scotch song, Jessie's Dream accompanying herself on the organ. Twentieth Century sister Saphronia (Miss Irene Clark) discussed in favor of the New Woman bloomers and all, and ended up by announcing that when she had properly developed into the New Woman she would then turn her attention to finding the New Man. Chorus "Old Black Joe" with variations came next. The last number was a farewell address from Charity, who informed the public that the Peak Sisters were open to engagements to assist in any charitable or humane object, but the invitations must come soon as they intended to start for Klondike as soon as the bridge was built or the subterranean railway was completed. After singing "Auld Lang Syne" all adjourned to the supper table where ample justice was done to the good things provided for the wants of the inner man. The receipts amounted to thirty dollars which will go to provide lamps for the Cavendish Baptist Church. Thanks are due to Miss Jackson who inaugurated and carried through the entertainment so successfully.
