OUR EXPANDING TRADE.

The authorities in the United States have been making a note of the expanding trade of Canada. In the world's markets, it appears that Canada has become quite a lively competitor with the States. A bulletin lately issued by the United States department of Agriculture, embodying the reports of thirty American Consuls in Dominion ports, shows that the total exports of Canada increased from $89,000,000 in 1885 to $118,000,000 in 1894, or thirty three per cent; the imports from $109,000,000 to $123,000,000, or thirteen per cent; and the total trade from $198,000,000 to $241,000,000, or 21 per cent, during the same period. The largest proportional annual increase was in 1892, when the value of the total trade exceeded that of the preceding year by about eleven per cent. During the year 1888 to 1891 inclusive the trade of Canada with the United States exceeded that with any other country, but since then the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland has taken first rank, with the United States second. An important fact is that a large share of the agricultural products going abroad from Canadian exports are cereals and flour in transit from the United States. Of $27,000,000 of such products shipped last year, $9,000,000 was United States merchandise. The export of cheese has increased notably. While in 1886 it was $3,141,570 pounds, valued at $6,250,543, in 1894 it rose to the large figure of 15,437,480 pounds, valued at $15,488,191. The statistics of the fishery industry and forest products show that the value of the former in 1894 was over $30,000,000 and of the latter over $50,000,000. In wood pulp, in 1894, the United States alone imported from the Dominion to the value of $365,010. So it seems that the country is not going to ruin on account of the N. P.

THE END STILL IN VIEW.

A Boston dispatch reports an interview in that city with Hon. Mr. Langelier, ex-Provincial Secretary of Quebec, one of Mr. Laurier's right hand men. Mr. Langelier is reported to have said that there was a great change in Canadian public opinion on account of the N. P., and proceeding, he said: "The Manitoba school question is another horn in the side of the present Dominion Government which is likely to help cause it trouble and defeat. The Dominion Conservative Government is placed in a very awkward position, as it has been obliged to the duty by the Privy Council of England of compelling the Manitoba legislature to bring down a remedial measure. The Dominion Cabinet cannot please one section without causing mortal offence to the other, so between the two the successor of the late Sir John Thompson finds himself in a very embarrassing predicament. If the truth were known, or openly expressed, the electors would demonstrate by a large majority that they would willingly change their British connection for annexation to the United States. When a change of Government does take place there is not the slightest doubt but that Hon. Mr. Laurier will endeavor to bring about a commercial union with the United States satisfactory to all concerned on either side of the border."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Week.—The logical outcome of Socialism is savagery. It is significant that the United States papers express a desire that the alleged murderer known as Holmes shall be tried in Canada. They say: "He would have a fair trial there, and if he should be found guilty, punishment would be inflicted without unreasonable delay."—Montreal Gazette: According to Mr. Laurier, Mr. Tarte left the Conservative party because of his desire to remain an honorable man. Mr. Laurier, being rather an honorable man himself, should know what an honorable man would do. Does he think Mr. Tarte's taking that $5,000 of Contractor Whelan's money from Mr. Pasand the act of an honorable man?—The aggregate vote of the British constituencies contested in 1895 was 3,613,582; the same constituencies in 1892 gave 3,521,401, a net increase of voters, 91,181. The Liberal vote in 1895 diminished by 84,492, while the Unionist vote increased by 149,630, making a net Unionist gain of 234,122, or rather more than a million and a half of voters. There is a slight additional gain in the uncontested constituencies. Of these there were 109 in England, 2 in Wales, 7 in Scotland, and 61 in Ireland, a total of 189 members elected without opposition. Most of them were fought in 1892.—As to the situation in the United States, Henry Clews remarks that in the industries at large there is no abatement of the sanguine expectations that have developed within the last six months. The rise in raw materials and the continuance of the remarkable recovery in wages from the decline of 1893 and 1894, shows conclusively that manufacturers are anticipating a material increase of consumption; and it is to be presumed that their expectations are based upon facts existing in the conditions of trade. All this is satisfactory and naturally induces a large measure of public confidence.—Mail and Empire: "We all know now the character of the campaign that Messrs. Tarte and Beausoleil are conducting in Quebec. Mr. Beausoleil sounded the note in his parliamentary speech, wherein he practically said that race hatred was to be the principal plank of the platform in the next struggle. Persistently has Mr. Israel Tarte cultivated racial bitterness. We read all fanatics and bigots in the West, and because Mr. Tarte's political companions have passed a school law of which he does not approve, he appeals to our French-Canadian friends to exterminate us, one and all. It might have been supposed that Mr. Laurier, posing as a man of broad views, and having Federal responsibilities, would have endeavored to do justice to men of another race. His speech, however, was completely in harmony with the Beausoleil-Tarte programme. Wanting the courage and the frankness to say how a question which his own friends have raised should be settled, he was nevertheless able to abuse those of us who have thought that Manitoba should solve its problems without Federal intervention."—The Star of Montreal, points out that a call for the withdrawal of the remedial order should not be mistaken for a cry for peace. Such a withdrawal would, on the contrary, be a declaration of immediate war. There are two sides to this coin, and it is by no means guaranteed peace to satisfy one of them. Those of us who care more for Confederation, British connection and the growth of a spirit of Christian charity among our people than for the other side of this Manitoba School controversy, are exceedingly anxious that nothing should be done to set either column in motion. For to move one is to move the other. So far as results are concerned, the Globe might as well urge Sir McKenzie to appoint Archbishop Langevin dictator of the Manitoba school system as to ask that, under existing conditions, he withdraw the "remedial order." In either case, political civil war would ensue with difference of religion as the dividing line; and nothing would so surely be killed as the Dominion of Canada. Let Mr. Greenway say as hard things as he likes about the remedial order but let him propose a reasonable compromise, and he can laugh at Federal interference. No Government dare invade Manitoba after she had done justice. The remedial order is a stain on the honor of the Dominion's present attitude. The Globe should appeal to the Premier of Manitoba to slay it and not to the Premier of the Dominion to hurt its recall as a fire-brand into the face of our Catholic population.

ON THE ATLANTIC IN A SKIFF.

Tossing about on the broad Atlantic in his little skiff, in which he left New York on June 13, is Robert McCallum, the Scotch lad, who thus seeks money and fame. It was only the other day that steamships reached Boston and New York and reported that they had passed the daring boy 1,000 miles out in the latter port. Robert McCallum is only 19 years old. He expected to arrive at Queensown in forty-five days, but he has not done so. With McCallum is his little Scotch terrier, named Jack, the only companion. The principal dimensions of the skiff are: Length of keel, 19 feet; length over all, 22 feet; breadth of beam 5 feet 4 inches; draught, 2 feet 6 inches. The hull is constructed of inch thick spruce planking. It is divided into three compartments. The largest is 6 by 4 feet, and is used as a cabin. The other two contain provisions. Manitoba, the stores consist of thirty gallons of water, an oil stove, ten gallons of oil and canned goods and hard tack enough for sixty days. The sloop carried three thousand pounds of copper and cement for ballast. The ballast is so fastened that the craft will right again if it turns clear over. The young mariner leaves to for six hours during the day and sleeps. A sextant and two watches comprise his navigating outfit. He follows the course of incoming transatlantic steamers. McCallum will get $5000 and a medal if he reaches Queensown.

NEWS NOTES.

It is considered very likely Sir Ambrose Shea, recently governor of the Bahamas, will be appointed governor of Newfoundland. A resident of Minnowquan, Man., states that he has a serpent in Lake Manitoba. The serpent was forty feet long, with a head like a bull dog, and covered with long grey hair. A new steamer of 2,800 tons, to develop 18 knots, has been launched for the Inter-lake and Steamship Company. She will reduce the time between Boston and St. John several hours. Havana is said to be in danger of attack by Cuban rebels, and Spain intends to send some 20,000 or 30,000 more troops to the island. General Campos is evidently not editing the rebels as well as he is the accounts of the struggle he sends out. The Emperor lunched with the Queen on Saturday and paid several farewell visits to friends on board yachts lying in the roads in the afternoon. He entertained a party of friends on the imperial yacht Hohenzollern that evening, and started for Southampton, whence he goes to Cumberland, the guest of Lord Lonsdale. A new contract has been signed between the Columbia-Belgian Steamship Company and the Dominion government. Steamers of the company will probably touch at Halifax, as well as Montreal, as before. The subsidy agreed upon is $50,000. The boats are to be eleven raters and to leave Antwerp and come to French port, the Bruxelles and City of Lincoln belong to that line. James Hall is Halifax agent. Mr. Gould, owner of the Vigilant, has withdrawn the yacht from all races in which the Defender may enter. The reason given is that the Defender does not observe the rules of racing. Such a change is rather a serious one in any case, and is especially bad in the present instance, when the Vigilant has really been racing to oblige the Defender and in discovering her sailing qualities. The rebate is a severe one and its public administration should have a good effect on those who are sailing the Defender. They need to broaden out their minds to the size of the contest they have entered for.

A Miracle in a Frontage Age.

Hitherto a decent wine has been confined to the rich. Middle class people never dreamt of paying the prices asked and did without. Now, by direct and large importations, the Bordeaux Claret Co. are able to offer an excellent wine at $3 and $4 per dozen quarts, which certainly looks like a miracle, for this is just about half the price that has been in the habit of asking for poor wines. A good wine which makes blood, which builds up the system, and which has medicinal properties, can now be had by everybody without any appreciable tax on the pocket. The Bordeaux Claret Co. bottle about 150 dozen in the day, and yet this does not overtake the orders which keep pouring in from all parts of the country. Genuine, old wine direct from the classic soil at a nominal price. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal. 135 w

THAT DAY OF HORROR.

The Massacre Described by one who Survived—Miss Mabel Hartford tells of the Murder of Missionaries. A special cable dispatch to the New York World, from Shanghai, China, says: The statement of Miss Mabel C. Hartford, the only American at Hwasang at the time of the massacre, is as follows: "August 1, at 7 a. m. I heard shouts. They were yells of servants, who rushed in shouting to me to get up, for the Vegetarians were coming, tearing down the houses on the hill belonging to the English mission. A few minutes later a teacher came to my door and told me to run. I put on my clothes and rushed to the door. I was met by a man with a trident spear, who yelled: 'Here is a foreign woman.' He pointed the spear at my breast. I twisted it to one side and it just grazed my ear and head. He threw me on the ground and beat me with the wooden end of the spear. I scrawled the spear away, and then told me to run. 'I jumped down the embankment and ran along the road. A servant came and pulled me along until I got up on the side of the hill. I then lay down to get more breath. 'After resting twice, I reached a secluded spot and lay there. All this time the yells went on and two houses were burning to the ground. After a while the yells stopped. I supposed the Vegetarians had gone away. A servant went to see how matters were. He returned in half an hour telling me to come home, that five of the English mission had been killed and some had been wounded, but that no more were to be killed. I had not been troubled at all. I went home to find Miss Cordington much out about the head and beaten all over. Miss Cordington, twelve years old, the kneed and bleeding very much. Herbert Steer, six years old, cut on the head and almost dead; baby Stewart, with one black and white swollen; the second Stewart girl, Kathleen, eleven years old, with the second boy, Evan, three years old, were beaten and one piece had a spear, but not seriously injured. The boy vomited all day, but we thought it was from fright. Mr. Phillips, of the English mission, who lived in a native house some distance away, escaped all injury, only arriving in time to see the bodies of the dead and hear the Vegetarians say: 'We have killed all the foreigners.' 'At first we heard that some foreigners had escaped and were in hiding, but Mr. Steer did not come and we feared the worst. Mr. Phillips went to the ruins and found eight bodies; five not burned, and three burned so as not to be recognizable. Mr. Gregory arrived at dark and described the wounds of the patients. Coffins were made and the bodies put in boxes. Another body was found, making nine grown people massacred—E. J. Stewart and his wife, a nurse from London, called Lena, Nellie Saunders, Topsy Sawyer, of Australia, who lived in the upper house, called the Stewart house; Hattie Newcombe of Ireland, Elsie Marshall and Lewis of England, and Annie Gordon, of Australia. The first four were burned beyond recognition. Topsy ran out of the house and was killed outside. Hattie was thrown down the embankment with her head nearly severed. Her shoulder, Hansel Gordon's head also was nearly severed. The bodies were put in coffins and we left Hwasang for Sulook about four o'clock, Friday afternoon, August 2. Herbert died about three hours later, just before going. We took the body in a chair and had a coffin made for it at Sulook. We reached Sulook about 8 a. m., Saturday, and telegraphed to Foo Chow for a steam launch. We left Sulook in native boats at 3 p. m., and on Sunday morning met a steam launch going towards Sulook taking soldiers. We engaged it to tow us to Foo Chow. Soon afterwards we met the rescuing party in a launch. The party consisted of the United States marshal and two English bringing full supplies to the sufferers. When I was thrown down my teacher's wife called on some Hwasang men around to save me. There were four men there, but only one, Yehstang, but they would not help me. She came and tried to pull me away as he was beating me. The Vegetarian kicked her. When the Vegetarian who had beat me started down the hill to come to our boat, three others were with him, but they ran off after some Chinamen, so I escaped with only one persecutor. There were about fifty Vegetarians, but I only saw one, the man who attacked me, who shouted: 'Here is a foreign woman.' He had a trident spear. Some had swords. There was at least one gun, for I heard it fired off. The natives say there were more. Uong, the Kuching magistrate, came to Hwasang on Friday afternoon, August 2, with one hundred soldiers. He viewed the bodies, saw the injured, enquired the names of all the places of the injuries, and made an account. He did what he could to help us to get to Sulook." (signed) MABEL HARTFORD.
