Teacher Training Students Entertained

Sixty teacher training students arranged a nicely appointed afternoon tea at Prince of Wales College in honour of the staff members with whom they are associated in their studies.

Other honoured guests were Dr. L. W. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Education and Mrs. Shaw, and Mrs. J. Walter Jones. The Premier was unavoidably absent.

The students in Home Economics attend each class for one period every week as part of their regular course. There are six male students in the group.

The recent installation of a home freezer unit as part of the kitchen equipment made it possible for the students to prepare all the food used at yesterday's function more than a week ago.

The guests assembled in the sewing room where the students served after the necessary preparations were made in the students' kitchen, where instruction is given by Mrs. William Reddin and Miss Doris M. Anderson.

A lively sing-song followed the tea hour which was conducted by Mr. Everett Harper at the piano, concluding with a dance.

Provincial Red Cross Executive Monthly Meeting

Lt.-Col. L. F. MacDonald presided over the regular monthly meeting of the campaign committee headed by Brig. W. W. Reid revealed that to date $19,000.00 has been collected for the 1953 Appeal. While this amount is still far short of the objective it is encouraging in that it shows a slight increase over the results for the same period last year.

Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan stated that 13 of the 40 cases reporting at the recent clinicis for handicapped children were new ones two of whom will require treatment over a long period of time, one with a wry neck, the other with severely deformed feet. He also told of two little girls now under treatment, one aged 3½ with both hips dislocated and other aged 1½ with one hip dislocated, and four other children who were put in plaster casts for various other conditions. Arrangements have now been completed for the admission of four children — two with cleft palates who will require extensive surgery and two with cardiac conditions for investigation — to hospitals in Montreal immediately.

Reporting for the women's work committee Mrs. E. A. Foster, chairman, said that 20 cases containing over 5,000 towels and face-cloths for flood victims in Holland are now being made ready for shipment due to the splendid co-operation received from many different women's groups.

Mr. Fred A. Large, chairman of the blood donor committee announced that blood donor clinics will be held in this province during the first week of June, August and December and said that in June clinics are being planned at Charlottetown, St. Peter's Bay, Kensington, Summerside, Tyne Valley and the R. C. A. F. Station with an objective of 1100 donors.

Reports were also submitted by Miss Katherine MacLennan, for the nursing committee and Mrs. H. L. Palmer for the corps committee.

S. D. U. Cadet Corps Inspected

The annual inspection of the St. Dunstan's College Cadet Corps was held yesterday morning on the College rugby field and the inspecting officer Brigadier G. G. Peake, D.S.O., E.D., paid warm tribute to the corps and its instructors following the inspection.

A. MacDonald was the physician present, assisted by Miss Marguerite MacMillan, public health nurse for the Souris area, and Miss Roma Preece.

The mothers were very much pleased with the new departure of combining the smallpox vaccinating with the inoculating which is to be the future policy at the clinics. In the past the Department has held both vaccinating and inoculating clinics at separate times every three years in every school in the province. For the series of Regional Clinics to be held in 78 centres this spring, vaccination will be done along with the second inoculation for young children commencing inoculations and at any clinic for those getting a re-inforcing dose.

Overfinishing Hogs Costly, Swine Breeders Reminded

The danger of over finishing hogs was pointed out last night by various speakers at the annual meeting of the Swine Breeders Association held at Birch Court, Experimental Farm. Mr. H. W. Clay, senior livestock fieldman of the Federal Department of Agriculture, said that at least 30 percent of the hogs being marketed were outside the prescribed weights.

The regular weights range from 140 to 170 pounds and Mr. Clay stated that 72 percent of hogs over 170 pounds were "degraded" because they were over finished. At that stage, he said, it took from 5 to 7 pounds of feed to put a pound of lean on the animal and pointed out to the breeders present that this was an expensive proposition. He also said there was too great a tendency among breeders to crowd the 170 pound weight limit in order to take advantage of the additional weight.

He predicted that there would be a 20 percent decrease in hog production this year. In referring again to the tendency to overweight hogs Mr. Clay noted that it resulted in heavier hams and shoulders and said it was apparent right across Canada. He thought it might be necessary to change to weighs of 135 to 165 pounds as neither packers nor customers were pleased with the heavier meats.

Referring to feed costs Mr. Clay said that the smaller the pig the less it cost in feed to put a pound of weight on him. When the pigs got upwards of 200 pounds the cost of feeding became too high.

Several speakers taking part in a general discussion agreed that heavy hogs were of no value as the hams weighed too much.

Feeding Methods

Presiding last night was Mr. Wylie Gibson, president of the Swine Breeders Association, who introduced Dr. George Fisher, veterinarian, who told the breeders present of what is considered the best feeding method to bring hogs to the proper finishing point. He emphasized the importance of keeping sows clean, especially just prior to farrowing, in order to hold down the incidence of round worm. He said that though erysipelas is on the wane it could flare again.

In advising that hens and other birds be kept away from hog pens he stated that though avian tuberculosis was not transmittable to humans it was to hogs and resulted in a greater cost to feed the animals. He stated that breeders should guard carefully against the association of hens and hogs.

He also stated stated that a swine survey of the Province would be undertaken this summer. The veterinarian also asked that crows and game birds shot or captured be sent to him so he could determine the incidence of tuberculosis. He stated that it was already known that crows and pheasants could carry the disease.

Both Mr. W. W. Clay and Dr. C. K. Gunn, of the Fox Experimental Station, Summerside, spoke on the value of linebreeding as maans of determining the possibility of recessive charcteristics. Mr. Clay stated that though other problems were being met it was in breeding that the great problems exist if this Province is to maintain its place and hold the present high standard of type and carcass quality.

Famous Sires

He spoke of two famous boars in this Province, Bowerhill Duke 7v and his son, Woodstock Duke 14A, as having a greater impact on hog breeding than any other sires in Canada. Their progeny, he stated, could be found in all parts of the country and in all Northern States as far west as Colorado.

Mr. Clay warned against judging a boar on his first generation of progeny and said that only when a sire had been mated back to his own daughters were any defects discoverable. Due to the care taken to weed out weaklings the Province had been able to improve the percentage of Grade A hogs from 35 per cent in 1941 to 53 per cent just ten years later, at the same time the overall Canadian average had remained stagnant at 31 per cent.

The success obtained here, he said, was apparent in the great demand from other parts of the country for Island type Yorkshires for breeding purposes. For this reason he said it would be a calamity if outside breeding of unknown stock were thoughtlessly introduced here.

Line Breeding

Dr. Gunn presented those present with charts detailing the linebreeding theory and illustrating the types of progany which might reasonably be expected to result from the practice. He also pointed out the difference between straight inbreeding and line breeding. The later, he said, brought to the fore the characteristics of the sire, while inbreeding resulted in emphasizing the favourable or unfavourable characteristics of both parents.

Those attending the meeting held some discussion on the advisability of making the spread between Grade A and B hogs wider by changing it from 40 cents to $1. Mr. J. Lincoln Dewar said he favored the plan but thought it should be done on a national basis rather than locally. However, he said there would be opposition from Western Canada breeders who are producing more Grade B hogs and Grade A.

Mr. R. C. Parent, superintendent of the Experimental Farm, told the gathering they were more than welcome to use the available facilities at any time they wished. He called to the attention of the meet that this was the only Experimental Farm in Canada which had a pig testing station.

At the conclusion of the meeting the president, Mr. Gibson, said that after hearing the views of so many trained men he was sure the breeders would go on to produce better hogs than ever before. He also expressed his appreciation of the large attendance and noted that many of those present had to travel long distances to be present.

The Provinces hit hard at the grounds, which they linked together, of percentage increases and the effect of increases on producers, shippers and consumers and the general economy of Canada.

The Board, the governments said, erred in "failing to take into account" the burden placed on various interests by post-war increases running up to 98 per cent now on the types of traffic to which they apply.

Effect on Long Hauls

They declared the Board has failed to consider the effect of rate increases on persons and industries dependent on long rail hauls and upon industries developed on rate set-ups that have developed over a period of years.

"The effect of the application of the horizontal percentage increase," the Provincial submission said, "has been to accentuate inequalities that existed in the rate structure."

Particularly, the Provinces said, this would "increase the burden on the long haul, where the railway has a relative monopoly on traffic."

The Western Provinces and the Maritimes have been stressing the long-haul aspect before the Board for some years, on the ground chiefly that percentage increases in rates add a larger dollar charge to those paying for long-distance shipments to and from markets and supply centres.

Ignored Alternatives

In the Board judgment under appeal, the Provinces said, the Commissioners failed to consider alternatives to uniform percentage increases such as various types of limitations proposed by the Provincial Governments in hearings last winter on the rate increase proposal.

On the question of the economic effect of rate increases on the country, the Provinces struck at a part of the Board's seven-percent decision saying that no one seems to be able to say when the "saturation point" in rate increases may be reached.

"It is incumbent upon the Board in discharging its duty," the appellants said, "to exercise its judgment in a manner that will relieve the Canadian economy from the excessive burden of transportation costs which now has been imposed upon it.

"When the Board states that no one appears to be in a position to say when the saturation point may be reached, it is avoiding its obligation to the public."

Too Circumspect

The Provinces said the Board must be directed to make a "definite determination" on how freight rates bear on different groups.

"The Board has been too circumspect in its attitude towards this vital problem," the submission said.

It has discouraged persons and individuals from making representations on the impact of rate increases. It has placed the onus on the shipper to get relief from rates considered too high. This was an 'almost intolerable" burden on shippers. The Board itself should act before the fact.

"Surely," the Provinces said, "it is the responsibility of the Board to study this situation, develop a realistic solution and afford an opportunity for representations prior to final disposition."

Deputy Claims Commissioners Are Appointed

OTTAWA, (CP)—The state department today announced the appointment of four deputy war claims commissioners to examine claims made by Canadians arising out of the Second World War.

The new deputies are Hon. Henry Ian Bird of Vancouver, judge of the British Columbia Appeal Court; Hon. Fernand Choquette, Quebec City, judge of the Quebec Superior Court; Hon. James D. Hyndman, Ottawa, retired judge of Appeal of the Alberta Supreme Court, and James Francis, QC, of Ottawa.

The appointments bring to six the number of deputy commissioners named to assist the chief war claims commissioner, Chief Justice Thane A. Campbell of Prince Edward Island.

The state department announcement said that with these appointments, it is expected the commission "will be in a position to expedite the adjudication of war claims," which started two months ago.

U. S. Would Back France In Appeal For Aid In Laos

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The United States has assured France it would strongly support any appeal to the United Nations for help in resisting the Communist invasion of the Indo-Chinese state of Laos. No decision has been made on whether such an appeal would be launched, however.

American diplomats and French officials have been consulting in Paris on the dangerous Indo-Chinese crisis.

The appeal to the United Nations, as understood here, would cover two main points:

1. A denunciation of the Communist invasion which is considered here to have the direct material support of Red China and to be part of the Kremlin's master pattern for conquest in Southeast Asia.

2. A call on member nations to aid French and native Indo-Chinese forces in resisting the aggressors.

Reports from congressional meetings this week said State Secretary Dulles had disclosed the United States is planning additional emergency aid to Indo-China to strengthen the anti - Communist forces in Laos. The nature of this aid has not been disclosed, but one thing the French in Indo-China always seem to need is aircraft.

Mayor Wires Protest To The Prime Minister

The following telegram, which is self explanatory, was forwarded yesterday to the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister, by His Worship Mayor Stewart:

"The citizens of Charlottetown view with dismay the marked lack of interest on the part of the Federal Government in their allotment of public work to this City as demonstrated by the vote in Main and Supplementary Estimates. Our main industry engaged in the repair of naval vessels is now faced with a lay-off of hundreds of their employees due to lack of work of this nature from the Federal Government. This is happening while other centres in Canada are being handed more than their share. Would bespeak your personal interest in rectifying this most marked discrimination."

Gov.-General Supports Mental Health Week

"May 3-11 is National Mental Health Week. This gives us the occasion to show our sympathetic interest and our willingness to help this most deserving cause," said His Excellency the Right Honourable Vincent Massey, C.H.

"The Canadian Mental Health Association, for thirty-five years, has been the only national voluntary body working in the field of mental health in this country. Through its provincial branches and affiliated societies, it provides an opportunity for all of us to help fight mental illness. Let us join together in the struggle for good mental realth."

Criminal Code Revisions Likely Delayed Year

OTTAWA, (CP) — It likely will be another year before Parliament passes a voluminous bill consolidating and in some cases changing Canadian criminal law.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Friday that if an extended debate shapes up on the 700-odd sections of the proposed new Criminal Code it would not be in the public interest to have it so late in this session.

He indicated that the government will not press for passage of the code before Parliament adjourns to allow members to attend the Coronation June 2. He also said no post-Coronation session is being considered. The current session is expected to prorogue in a week.

That makes it a virtual certainty that a new Parliament will take up the five-year-old job of changing the code. Mr. St. Laurent said earlier this session that an election will be held "before the snow flies."

Brethour Trophy Is Presented

During the annual meeting of the Swine Breeders Association held at Birch Court last night the Brethour Trophy, won at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, was presented to Mr. Andrew Bain, French River, by Mr. J. Lincoln Dewar. Mr. Dewar in handing the beautiful trophy to Mr. Bain recalled that it was the third time it had come to this Province and said this emphasized the value of the close attention to hog breeding done here.

Hope of Obtaining Employment For Some Laid-Off Men

Some of the ninety-odd men who will have been laid off by the Bruce Stewart Company by May 9th, will possibly find new employment very soon.

National Employment officials in Charlottetown believe that some of the more highly skilled men will be engaged by Maritime Central Maintenance, and others may be given work with the Saint John, New Brunswick, Drydock Company.

Local Employment officials were in touch with the Airport people yesterday and it is understood that a small but undetermined number of skilled tradesmen can be taken on by M.C.A. These men definitely must be well qualified, and no laborers or helpers will be included in the number.

The National Employment Office in Saint John, N. B., following a telephone conversation with the local employment office is preparing a list of tradesmen required by the Dry Dock Company, and a considerable number of the idle men have expressed willingness to accept employment in the New Brunswick capital.

Of the ninety men involved in the layoff a good proportion are engine fitters, electricians, pipefitters and plumbers, carpenters, and painters. The most efficient and experienced of these, it is hoped can be placed in employment without a great deal of delay, but the laborers, helpers, and learners will present a bigger problem.

Construction work locally is at the lowest level in several years and more than the usual number of carpenters are idle for the time of year, and in view of the favorable weather.

The only job of any size underway in Charlottetown is the extension to the Salvation Army Sunset Lodge.
