D. W. Henderson, P. W. P., occupied the chair. Stirring temperance addresses were given by Mr. J. J. Chappelle, Rev. J. Balderson and Mr. John Edwards. Several well selected temperance dialogues and recitations were rendered by members of the Division. A dialogue entitled, "The Liquor Sellers Meeting," created much amusement, and was regarded as a good hit. The proceedings were interspersed with temperance music.—C.M. OBITUARY.—The demise lately of John Walker, Esq., Elder, of New Annan, deserves more than a passing notice. At his decease he was aged 87 and 2 months. He left a widow and twelve of a family to mourn their loss, besides seventy-five grand children and twenty-five great grand children. He emigrated from Dumfriesshire, Scotland, to this Island in 1822. He was a pioneer settler in New Annan when it was an unimproved forest wilderness. By a strong constitution, industry, perseverance, sobriety, and above all, the blessing of God on his efforts, he succeeded in amassing quite a large amount of property. His hospitable house, if full and plenty, was always a refuge for the poor and needy, and especially a welcoming home to ministers of the Gospel. He was long acquainted and association, and was regarded for his true, honest, unassuming piety, earnestness, cheerfulness, good judgment, and other natural abilities. He was a favorite of his minister, the late Rev. R. S. Patterson, whom he generally accompanied in his pastoral visitations. He was a loving husband, an affectionate father, a good neighbor, and kind and obliging to all within the reach of his beneficence. During his last illness he had a pious advice for everybody who approached his dying bedside, and his death was most happy and triumphant.—Presbyterian.

The American Minister at Rome gave a grand fete on Thursday, the 22nd, in honor of the birthday of Washington. Over a thousand invitations were issued. The coronation of King Kalkaua took place on the 12th instant, at Honolulu. Seven thousand persons witnessed the ceremony, which passed off without interruption. The Pope, in his letter replying to Emperor William, of Germany, announces that he has permitted Bishops while waiting for the complete revision of the May laws to notify the Government of the election of new curates. The Pope asks that in addition to the revision, measures be taken to mitigate impediments to the exercise of the clerical duties and the training of the clergy. Irish Notes.

Twenty-one of the prisoners have been committed for trial to answer to the charge of murdering Cavendish and Burke. Joseph Smith has turned informer. Whelan has been liberated on bail. In the House of Commons, on the 19th, Mr. Trevelyan said that the poor law guardians were able to cope with the distress in the County Clare, and that nobody had died of starvation there. The Government has approved the calling out of the Irish militia this year for the usual training. They have not been called out for several years past owing to the disturbed state of Ireland. Marines are guarding the house of Mrs. Carey, wife of James Carey. It is believed when she saw her husband's case hopeless she told the authorities of evidence he was able to give. It is known she often visited the Castle. Thomas Brennan, who was alluded to by Carey in his testimony on Saturday as having been concerned in the conspiracy against the lives of the English officials, and who was thought to be in America, was in London as recently as Friday last. It is stated that the name of "No 1" is Oliver Walsh. He is known to be at Cannes. Mr. Parnell, in the House of Commons, on the 19th, announced that he would offer an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. He also gave notice that he would severely criticize the administration of the Crimes Act, jury packing, iniquitous sentences, etc., when the discussion regarding English affairs was finished. The London Times says the suspicions raised by the evidence given by Carey on Saturday, can only be allayed by a thorough disclosure of the accounts of the Land League, subject to independent audit. Until this is done the League will be under suspicion of maintaining secret relations with criminal conspiracies of the foulest type. The Frank Byrne residing at Cannes is the man mentioned by Carey. The French police have been communicated with in order to prevent his escaping into Spain. It is thought probable he will return immediately to London and give the authorities an opportunity of arresting him, if they so desire, and if not arrested, he will assist in his wife's defence. She is a consumptive. The hearing of the prisoners charged with conspiring to murder Government officials was resumed on the 19th. All the prisoners were again placed in the dock amid hisses. One prisoner shouted "Future Lord Mayor Carey;" the latter shook his head menacingly at his former comrades. His examination was then resumed. He spoke more confidently than on Saturday, and replied to cross-examination sharply and testily. He deposed, amid hisses by prisoners, that he belonged to Fenians, but not to supreme council. The object of the Fenians was to separate Ireland from England, the former country being then harassed by coercion. He had no idea Lord Cavendish was to be murdered when Burke was attacked. He was surprised when he heard of the former murder. Being cross examined, Carey said he gave information regarding the murder two days ago; when everybody else did he was the last person to do so. Mr. Gorst, in the House of Commons on the 19th inst., in moving his amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, declaring that in view of the confessions of Irish assassins, no further concessions should be made to the lawless agitators, said it was generally believed that the employing of persons engaged in the outrages to suppress them was forced upon the Government by Mr. Chamberlain, president of the Board of Trade. He believed Mr. Gladstone, when engaged in the Kilmainham treaty negotiations, was made the dupe of the inner circle of the Cabinet, which, like the "Invincibles," had a 'number.' He pointed to the fact that the outbreak of outrage always accompanied the accessions of Liberals to power. Lord Randolph Churchill gave notice, on behalf of Mr. Gorst, that in view of the confession of the assassins in Ireland, he would move an amendment to his address, in answer to the speech from the throne, that no further concessions be made to lawless agitators. Justin McCarthy, in an interview on the 19th, said that Sheridan was known to Parnell merely as an active league organizer and that his relations with Parnell were only in this capacity, the latter knowing nothing of his character. Frank Byrne, McCarthy said, is a man in constant ill health. He has held a position in the land confederation ever since the time of Butt and Shaw, and was known to all the members of the Irish party, with whom he was in constant intercourse, as a quiet, respectable man. McCarthy said he had spoken to many members during the day, and all agreed it was inconceivable that Byrne could have had anything to do with the murders. His last act before going to France was to refuse a testimonial which his friends had raised on account of his feeble health. He said he could not accept anything while the country was in its present miserable state. The only time when Byrne was left any discretion, was while Parnell was imprisoned, but it was hardly conceivable that he then listened to any advances on the part of fanatics.
