Soviet Officer Holds Pistol To Head Of Member

The United States army today held two soldiers and a mystery civilian in communicado after their release from long imprisonment by the Russians.

Russia followed up the release of the trio Monday by freeing 20 prisoners from five West European countries.

The two American soldiers were identified as Pte. Wilfred C. Cumlish, 39, missing from an intelligence unitin Vienna since 1948, and Cpl. Murray Fields, 36, missing from the U.S. military police in Neurnberg since 1948.

The third man identified himself as Frederick Charles Hopkins, a civilian from New York city.The army and state department said they had no information on him, and some U.S. authorities said they doubted he was an American at all.

HELD IN CAMPS

Army spokesmen said it was presumed all three had been held in various slave-labor camps for the last seven years.

The three were turned over to a U.S. state department official, A. E. Dubois, at the Soviet consulate in East Berlin. The Russians had said earlier that they would be released at Karlshorst and a U.S. liaison team had gone there to get them.

Dubois, who had gone to the consulate to pick up a visa, was stopped by a Soviet official who said:

"By the way, will you sign this receipt for these three Americans?"

office in West Berlin. They were Dubois signed, and took the three to the U.S. provost marshal's arrested immediately and sent tt an army hospital for examination. Cumish and Fields said they needed medical attention. Hopkins said he was in good health.

WILL BE SCREENED

Al lthree are scheduled to be screened by army interrogators after several days of medical treatment.

The army indicated that both soldiers might be subject to court-martial for desertion.

Authorities also planned to question the three about other missing Americans, especially soldiers who have disappeared from Berlin in recent years.

Austrian prisoners released by the Russians some months ago from Arctic labor camps reported that the three men had been among their fellow prisoners. The Soviet foraign office was asked by the U.S. embassy in Moscow to said Aug. 20 that they would comply.

The European prisoners released by the Russians Monday included eight Belgians, seven Netherlanders, two Frenchmen, two Swiss and one Dane. They were released at the Soviet consulate in East Berlin.

These boys have conducted large classes of Beginners, Juniors, Intermediates, Seniors and Life Saving.

Robert Hutcheson, Life Guard at Stanhope Beach deserves well earned credit for his fine work in this field. "Bob" has had large classes of young swimmers and adults as well and is to be well recommended for his work.

You don't argue with a locomotive. So a manufacturer of rail equipment has developed a lightweight rail inspection car that carries four people yet can be taken off the track by one man.

Since men who design rail cars, aircraft and other transportation equipment regularly use aluminum to cut down dead weight and increase pay load, it is no surprise that aluminum was used to replace heavier materials in many parts of this inspection car. The person who will be surprised is the locomotive engineer who first sees a rail inspector nonchalantly—and single-handedly—hoisting his scooter from the track.
