

FOR SHAME!

See—A number of men and grown up boys make a practice of daily bathing on the west shore, known as "The Ladies' Shore," without clothing of any kind and in sight of young girls and children. There are a number of families living near the shore, some of whom come from town to spend the summer months away from the heat and demoralizing influence of the town. Have our men and boys no sense of shame or decency or propriety? Why not provide themselves with a bathing suit or garment of some kind? and if they cannot afford to let them go to a less popular place or to the early morn for their hour of bathing. If this is not done the families living near the shore will be compelled to keep themselves indoors and pull to the corners. It would be a good plan for the men of that vicinity to form a band, armed with a horse-whip, try what effect the application of that weapon will have upon the bare backs of those shameless men. Dr. Warburton, a resident of that locality, has raised a placard to the effect that both men and women be suitably dressed while using the shore for bathing purposes. But this has not been heeded.

A COLONIAL SOLDIER.

Tells What He Saw While in London—The Canadian Troops Lacked a Distinctive Uniform.

The Kingston, Ont., Whig publishes the following excellent letter from Serg. Major Cannon of the P. W. O. Rifles with the Canadian jubilee contingent. It gives a view of the parade not hitherto published:—

"A memory, such only the great day now is, yet it may interest some of the people of Kingston to know what was the duty of their own corps during the celebration.

"The whole contingent formed in Chelsea barracks and moved out at 7 a. m. to join the procession at Buckingham Palace; the day was beautiful; slightly cloudy, yet decidedly hot. With shining helmets, glittering steel and waving plumes the corps was quite in keeping with the day—the last epithet excepted.

"After passing the barracks' gate the usual mistakes were made at intervals by the populace. For instance, the New Zealanders and Australians, in their distinctive uniforms and feather-bedecked hats, were immediately recognized as colonials, as were also the bronzed, turbaned Sikhs, the Dyaks, the Hussars, and all others having any individualizing mark. Not so with the Canadians. A bystander as one of the first-comers passed, gazing at the Canadians in their apparently imperial uniforms, remarked to another: "Those men march splendidly." "Why shouldn't they," returned his friends, "they are some of our regulars," and immediately he turned to view the more picturesque dress of the other colonials. They were accustomed to seeing regular troops at all times of the year and, therefore, were little interested in them on this occasion. Frequently, however, along the route some one would shout the name of Canada, and then the so-called "regulars" got a rousing reception.

"Our uniforms were misleaders—and still are. There is nothing about them which is distinctly Canadian. In many places the sombre-coated riflemen were cheered as the "Royal Irish," as Ceylonese and other corps, all very estimable in themselves, but as we were none of these, it was none too pleasing. Again the "thin red line" of infantry, with eight sturdy Highlanders in their ranks, and the pipers of the London Scottish regiment leading them, received round after round of cheers, rising above which rang the shout, "Well done, Scotland!" The Canadians present, and others who referred more closely to their programmes, knew us for what we were, and poem-like amidst the din, "God old Canada! Bravo! Bravo!" hailed us as we passed. These shouts, and the deafening enthusiasm of thousands of throats, somewhat soothed the sting of sailing under false colors. With the pipers ahead and a brass band following close at our heels, yet during the greatest part of the march the drums alone could be heard, such was the roar of throats below those lanes of faces. All the colonial troops were formed up in four ranks on either side of the street, and the queen and procession passed between, thus giving us all a full view of the pageant as well as the service in front of the cathedral. Just as the royal carriage was passing our company, the Princess of Wales leaned forward and whispered to the queen. Her majesty immediately turned her face towards us and smiled sweetly. We thus had a full view of her and knew that for one instant at least Canadians had awakened the interest of Britain's greatest queen; the most womanly woman who has ever ascended the British or any other throne.

"Many times have I heard it said that Canadians make more exhibitions of loyalty in Canada than do the people here in England. If it be so, the present is a grand exception to the rule. A band playing God Save the Queen is immediately accompanied by hundreds of voices; everything is the Queen! the Queen! Crowds collect in all the routes along which the numerous royal carriages—always distinguished by their scarlet-coated drivers—may pass; and the approach of an occupied one is heralded by enthusiastic cheering. At one o'clock this morning (June 24), the Strand was crowded from side to side, save a lane down the centre, kept clear by two lines of policemen, just sufficient to allow a carriage to pass. Here, under the glow of the illumination, the crowd jostled along, viewing the decorations and cheering their "pet" carriages as they passed. At the present time London is certainly patriotic.

"The great pageant, however, is over. The Canadians have swept round the line of march with the steadiness of steel and yet the impression is not so effective as could be desired. All London and her visitors were out to see the Queen and the "colonists." Everything distinctly colonial was rapturously received and applauded, and still is. Even the sturdy fellows of the First Life Guards are determined to see all they possibly could of these black, yellow, brown and white troops which guarded the outer corner of the Empire, for, as they swept by on the march it was noticeable that they had their eyes fixed on the line of bayonet which bristled on either side of the line. Had the Canadian contingent appeared here with the mounted police in their regular prairie outfit and a special uniform for the soldiers, the people of London could not have done too much for us.

82nd Battalion Inspection and the Result—No 3 Co Has First Place.

We have just received the efficiency returns of the 82nd Battalion for drill and training, 1897-98. This grand old Battalion marched out of camp last week after having completed one of the most successful year's training in its history. We voice the sentiments of the community when we say that if General Gascoigne, the commanding officer of the Canadian militia, had been present at the inspection which took place on Victoria Park on Thursday week, he would have seen one of the best regiments of infantry in Canada. For physique, smartness and soldierly bearing it would be hard to find their equal. We congratulate Lt.-Col. Dogherty on the very efficient state of his regiment, as the movements in battalion drill showed that all the officers, non-commissioned officers and men had a thorough knowledge of the field manoeuvres in the different formations. Eight companies were drawn up in line at open order and received the inspecting officer with a general salute. They then formed quarter column by the right and marched past according to the drill of 1895. The different companies as they passed the saluting base showed the careful training they had received. Regularly-trained soldiers could not have marched better than they did, notably No. 3 Co., under command of Captain Stewart. We never saw such steady marching as this company did both at the company inspection on Wednesday and during the review on Thursday afternoon. Quarter column was again formed on command of the Major, ranks changed, bayonets unfixed and in quarter column passed the saluting base again, with arms at the trail. Fours right was given on the march. The column again wheeled to the right and resumed its original alignment without a mistake in any particular. Bayonets were again fixed, arms shouldered and the line advanced in review order. The band played the general salute. The lines retired and column on No. 1 was formed. Then the order to form battalion square was given and it was one of the finest movements we ever saw performed on the field, every company getting into place without a hitch. Column was again formed and after several other movements the inspecting officer seemed satisfied that the 82nd Battalion was all in every respect.

The returns of the inspecting officer show that Captain Stewart's Company, Charlottetown, won first place with 146.28 points out of a possible 150, and that No. 2 Company, Pownal, was a good second, with the other companies well up in the aggregate. The standing of the several companies will be found below:—

Pts. No. 3 Co., Captain D. Stewart.....146.28 No. 2 Co., Captain Jones.....146.07 No. 4 Co., Captain Crockett.....144.44 No. 6 Co., Captain Allen.....142.77 No. 1 Co., Captain Hooper.....134.81 No. 5 Co., Captain Beaton.....133.93 No. 8 Co., Captain Sheriff.....131.75 No. 7 Co., Captain Maxfield.....128.44

The battalion figure of merit was 161.56. The highest last year was 114, made by the 8th Royal Rifles, Montreal. Col. Dogherty and the captains of the different companies are to be congratulated upon the excellent work they have performed and the results noted above.

WEBSTER-CUM MISKEY CASE.—This case was today further postponed for one week.

OLD BANK BILLS.—Five dollar bills of the defunct Bank of Prince Edward Island are in circulation in Moncton.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC.—Large numbers of passengers are arriving from the States by the Plant Line steamers. The steamer "Halifax" on her last trip from Boston had four hundred people; some two hundred of those landed at Halifax and the remainder proceeded to Cape Breton and Prince Edward Island.

WHERE IT'S WARM.—The heat has been intense in the United States during the past few days and the people are suffering greatly. In Chicago on Wednesday there were three deaths from it. In Cincinnati on Thursday eight persons died of sunstroke, making fifty-five fatalities in five days. There were 145 deaths in Chicago on July 5, the largest that ever occurred in that city in one day.

HAVING BAD LUCK.—The owners of the barkentine Herbert Fuller, the scene of the tragedy for which mate Bram has been adjudged guilty, seem to be followed by relentless fate. The Boston Traveller states that another murder on one of their ships has been committed on the high seas. This time it is said that two seamen killed the second mate. The vessel is the bark Justice H. Ingersoll, bound from Montevideo to New York. Her arrival is watched eagerly by the United States marshalls, who have been notified of the alleged crime.

WHEELS WILL BE CHEAP.—According to an exchange, the man woman or child who is anxious to ride a bicycle and who has been deterred by reason of the expense need no longer hesitate on this account. Men who have been studying the matter state that a good wheel may be obtained next year for $25 or $30. Already many of the leading manufacturers have made a reduction of 25 per cent.

A COOL RECEPTION.

Premier Peters Feels the First Wash of the Wave of Public Indignation Which Will Overwhelm his Government on the Twenty-first.

(By Telephone.) Premier Peters' flying visit to Murray Harbor and Montague was a complete failure. At Murray Harbor the privilege of a free discussion was denied; and the Premier had the opportunity of addressing a large number of empty benches. At Montague Bridge there was a very large meeting. The Premier's address was very coolly received, after which Cyrus Shaw, Esq., made a very able reply and with killing effect exposed the double dealing, duplicity and deception of the Peters' Government. As point after point was scored against the government, the applause was unbounded. It was clearly manifested that a wave of indignation is sweeping over the Province and that the electors are determined to "hurt from power" the party of broken pledges and incapacity.
