TURN YOUR DIAL TO C.F.C.Y.

In order that all the voters of Prince Edward Island may be granted the privilege of hearing from their Progressive Conservative Candidates—a privilege which has been deprived them due to the calling of a snap Election at a time when the condition of the roads in a great many districts is impassable—the following times have been obtained over CFCY:—

FRIDAY, APRIL 13—
6:35 to 6:40 P.M.—R. R. Bell, M.L.A.

SATURDAY, APRIL 14—
7:15 to 7:30 P.M.—J. A. Gallant.
10:30 to 10:45 P.M.—Walter McKenzie.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

E N A P H C D H M V J L F V E A R O A O A
E A D D U A E N A T H K H J C K E W T U H K
J H C N — M T H W T.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

DAINTY BUT NOT FUSSY

Too often fussiness in taste
Proves costly in its needless waste.
—Old Mother Nature.

Big Claw the Land Crab is a dainty eater. His table manners, if you may call them such where there is no table, are perfect. He never gobbles his food. He never crams it into his mouth. He never bites off more than he can chew, or tries to swallow his dinner whole. He never drops his food. Dainty people never do, you know. He never tries to stuff his mouth full with both hands at once. It is no wonder Farmer Brown's boy called him Mr. Dainty.

Now one may be dainty in table manners without being fussy about one's food. It was just so with Mr. Dainty. Long ago when he was small, a very small Crab indeed, he had learned that the Crab who fusses over what he has to eat usually goes hungry, and that nothing is more uncomfortable than going hungry. It was a lesson that every Crab who would live to grow up must learn early in life, very early indeed, and Mr. Dainty had learned it. He had learned it very thoroughly.

Big Claw, the big, blue Land Crab

At the same time he had learned something else of equal importance. This was that if he didn't get his own food no one would get it for him, and because the things he liked best to eat were not always easily found, it didn't do to be fussy about what he ate. It didn't do at all.

"A fussy crab will be a hungry Crab, but a hungry Crab is never a fussy Crab," is one of Big Claw's favorite sayings, and he proves the truth of it himself by never going hungry long at a time.

"A Crab should always be dainty about how he eats, but never be fussy about what he eats," is another favorite saying of Big Claw the Land Crab.

Of all his neighbors in feathers, fur, shell, or just skin, none is more independent than Big Claw, the big blue Land Crab whom Farmer Brown's boy called Mr. Dainty. He was born independent. From the time he had hatched from a tiny egg he had looked out for himself. No mother or father or nurse ever had taken care of him. It hadn't taken him any time at all to know that no one was going to take care of him. He must find his own food, feed himself, and watch for and hide from hungry enemies who seemed always to be looking for him. So he ate what he could find and never allowed likes and dislikes to interfere with filling an empty stomach.

He early learned that down in the ground he was safe, and had little if anything to worry about, but above ground he never could be absolutely sure that he was safe. So when he was still very small he learned not to be afraid of work as, alas, so many folks

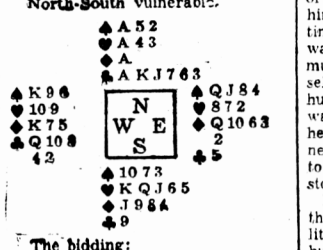
Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

GOOD PLAY NEEDED

The opening lead was helpful to today's declarer, but he still had to exert himself for the slam contract.

North dealer.
North-South vulnerable.



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

Apparently, West did not want to lead away from his spade or diamond king, or perhaps he refused to guess between those two suits — in any case, he opened the trump ten. Such a lead often gives up a "tempo" (time unit) and so is rarely to be commended. It certainly smoothed declarer's path in this deal

South won the first trick in his own hand and studied the situation. A cross-ruff was "out," because (among other reasons) the opening lead had reduced dummy's ruffing power. Besides, it was far more propitious to set up the long club suit. Thus, the only question was how to establish that suit.

Obviously, South could lead to the club ace and ruff a low club, then return to dummy and ruff another club, with a good chance of running the rest of the suit. But declarer did not want to shorten his trumps unnecessarily—he might run up against a 4-1 trump break. So, on the sound analysis that a finesse in clubs would be highly advantageous if it succeeded, and not fatal if it didn't, South led to the club jack.

This finesse gave South a good start, but he still had to be careful. He did not make the mistake of trying to cash a high club then and there — instead, he led a low club, and when East "refused", South ruffed. He then led to the diamond ace, ruffed a second low club, and ruffed a diamond with the heart ace. The 5-1 club break had made him depend on a 3-2 trump break, but this existed, and when South could then draw the outstanding trumps, he had only to go back to dummy's spade ace and cash the established clubs to collect his slam.
