13-YEAR OLD BUILDS ROBOT

Awaiting the orders of his creator is "Robertson," a six-foot electric robot, built by Donald Rich, 13, of New Gardens, New York. His "mechanical man" can "see" with electronic eyes and picks up objects magnetically or automatically while moving about on wheels powered by electric motors. Here Donald holds a computer which enables the robot to do mathematical calculations.

Says Illiteracy Is Obstacle To Unity In The West Indies

By GEORGE McNEVIN Canadian Press Staff Writer SACKVILLE, B. (CP) — Assistant Secretary Stephen Moosaj-Maharaj of the Trinidad ministry of culture and education said Saturday illiteracy is one of the chief obstacles to unity among the territories of the West Indies federation. The British Caribbean colonies of Barbados, Jamaica, Leeward and Windward Islands, Trinidad and Tobago will vote for their first federal government in March. The merger has been approved by the British colonial of-

Reject Offer For Fish Plant

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland said Friday night the government has turned down an offer by Booth Fisheries Corporation of the United States and Canada to purchase a fish plant at Fortune, Nfld., for $305,000. Premier Smallwood said in a prepared statement "there appears to be little doubt that Booth Fisheries would like to acquire the Fortune plant and dragger properties, but there is considerable doubt as to the nature of the means whereby they propose to do so." The company offered to buy the defunct plant for less than 1-3 their original cost. The Fortune operation cost $1,000,000. The plant cost about a year ago.

Young Prince Claims He Was Not Driving An Automobile

LONDON (AP) — A young prince broke traditional royal silence Sunday by answering his critics. Fifteen-year-old Prince Michael of Kent firmly denied he drove an automobile. He is two years under the legal age for licensed drivers. "It wasn't me at all," the young prince told the chief of police on the Isle of Wight. Michael, the son of the Duchess of Kent and eighth in line to the throne, was at the Isle for the Cowes Regatta all last week with Prince Philip. Some islanders said they saw Michael driving the car of Uffa Fox, noted yacht designer who is a close friend of Prince Philip. Police chief P. A. Paldon told reporters: "Prince Michael was interviewed on board the royal yacht Britannia. He denied he had driven a car." Fox added: "To my knowledge my car has never been driven by Prince Michael." Meanwhile, Queen Elizabeth maintained her regal silence to criticism of her and the royal court.

The Queen's courtiers are gathering at Balmoral for their annual hunting, shooting and fishing holiday—the same as always. Camouflage nets have been put up on the Braemar Road leading to the royal castle in Scotland to discourage sightseers. Prince Philip and Prince Charles took the overnight train from London to join the Queen at Balmoral for a rest before the royal visit to North America in October.

The grouse shooting season opens today and the nobility and rich seemed as gay as ever. Any drastic reforms of court life—at least on vacation—seemed far from their minds. While the rumors over royalty and their manners still bubble like champagne throughout the British Isles a token of chivalry arrived from Italy—a red rose for the Queen. Renato Marmiroli, an Italian ex-artillery officer, sent the rose in a special container by plane to show his "unshakable devotion to Her Majesty." In a more serious vein, Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express suggests reforming British aristocracy by having future peerages awarded for life only. "It would mean that apart from the lingering scions of the older families every title would belong to someone who had really earned it," says the empire minded newspaper.

Paralyzed 5 Years, Comes Home Walking

MONTREAL CP — Paralyzed by polio from the waist down for five years, David MacCallum, 40, left hospital here Friday for his Springhill, N.S. home-walking.

"Son, I can't believe it—it's a miracle," said his father, coal miner Graham MacCallum, 45.

"I've been walking nearly two weeks now," said David, who uses crutches and leg braces. He had been brought to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children after treatment elsewhere proved futile.

"Our surgery, care and physiotherapy can do much to help a crippled child," said Flora Lamont, director and head nurse at the hospital, "but most of all the child must want to be helped. David had that determination."

David said he was glad to be going home but he wanted assurance he could catch the world series on radio from there. "I want to listen to Brooklyn play the Yankees."

LEAVES HOSPITAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Marilyn Monroe, who lost her baby by miscarriage and an emergency operation Aug. 1, left hospital Saturday, smiling but showing the strain of surgery. Heavily made-up, Miss Monroe said: "I'm feeling wonderful I have lost weight but I don't know exactly how much." Earlier it had been reported that she was 15 pounds under her usual weight of 125.
