

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BLANCHARD

Two Ring Ceremony Is Held At Holy Redeemer Church

The Church of the Most Holy Redeemer was the scene of an attractive wedding on Monday, April 19th, when Linda Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Myers became the bride of John A. Blanchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Blanchard of Charlottetown.

Father William Cummerford officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The altar of the church was decorated with Easter lilies and daffodils and the guests were marked with white satin bows. The organist, Elmer Power, played appropriate music and accompanied the soloist, Virginia MacDougall as she sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother" and "Ave Maria".

Given in marriage by her godfather, William McInnis, the bride wore a floor length gown of nylon organza over peau de faulle with full skirt trimmed with self fabric roses and pearl and lace applique. The gown featured a portrait neckline with pearl and net applique, fitted bodice tapered to a point at the front, and long fitted sleeves. Her three tiered veil was held in place with fabric roses, and she carried a cascade bouquet of roses.

Marie Murnaghan, maid of honour and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Joseph Cumiskey, were given in street length dresses of blue peau de sole satin with matching shoes, and headresses of flower and net. They carried bouquets of blue and white carnations.

Kimball Blanchard, brother of the groom, was best man and William, another brother, also attended him.

James and David Blanchard, brothers of the groom, ushered the guests to their seats.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Myers chose a two piece suit of blue wool, with white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother was in a three piece chocolate brown suit with brown accessories and she wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Holy Redeemer Community Centre for 110 guests. The master of ceremonies, Desmond Connolly called upon Father Cummerford to propose the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded.

The guest book was circulated by Eleanor Trainor.

For a wedding trip through the Maritimes, the bride wore a three piece navy and white suit with matching coat, white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard will reside in Charlottetown, where the bride is presently employed with Traders' Finance Co. and the groom is on the staff of Birchwood High School.

MARY HAWORTH

Thinks Advice Disregards Strong Human Feelings

Dear Mary Haworth: In my opinion, your advice often is given with complete disregard for human nature or feelings of strong attachment, with which all persons must cope.

I find this especially true when you deal with the problems of teenagers. A case in point is your answer to PP, the girl, 19, who is in conflict with her too-possessive best boy friend, the same age.

Summing up, you say "Close the book on him and keep it closed, to give yourself a chance to get straightened - out and on the right road to real happiness." To tell her to quit him outright is ridiculous. Instead of fleeing the problem (that's what it amounts to), maybe she should examine her own behavior and attitudes.

For example, when she's been out with a group of girls, or after attending some social activity, does she spend the whole of her next date with Joe (as she calls him), telling what marvelous fun she had, who was there, what so - and-so said, etc.?

Also, is the boy sincerely concerned, perhaps, to protect her from undesirable company or something of the sort?

Boys always have been and,

I hope, always will be "the boss" in boy - girl relationships. The greatest loss of femininity is when a girl takes over this role. If PP is going with Joe, she shouldn't be flirting with other boys. He has a right to be angry. His biggest mistake is in coming back after a walkout. But I imagine he feels a special affection for her and hopes the trouble will iron out.

Of course his behavior shows immaturity and PP may have lost some respect for him on that score. But at least he is sticking with his initial stand as ruler of the situation. Maybe they should face their differences squarely, decide whether habit or affection is holding them together, and explore the reasons for his anger.

After nearly four years' dating, surely they know one another well enough to talk sincerely, honestly and openly about their difficulties. R.V.

Dear R.V. Suppose that an inexperienced traveler has lost his way, in growing darkness, in a rocky unfamiliar country. Suppose he is going in circles, getting nowhere, and sending out distress signals for guidance or rescue.

In that situation, obviously he

4-H Clubs Hold Meeting At Morell

The first and second year 4-H Garment Clubs met at the home of their leader, Mrs. Joseph Rooney, for the monthly meeting and Easter Party. The Third Year Class, under leadership of Mrs. Alton Anderson, were presented as guests.

During the business meeting, the leader announced dates of Achievement Day, May 27, and Rally Day at Montague, May 28, for Kings County. It was decided to buy 4H Crests instead of pins to be presented on Achievement Day.

A lively program, under direction of the entertainment committee, consisting of songs, skits, contests, etc. provided much merriment.

Afternoon tea was served by the hostess, assisted by a number of 4H members who are also Girl Guides of Morell 1st Co. and were working to earn hostess badges.

At the conclusion of the program, the meeting closed by singing "The Queen."

BRIDAL BEAUTIES

The season for bridal gowns is just around the corner and an especially romantic one was modelled yesterday in the Confederation Centre foyer when Holman's department store showed a Spring showing of more than 40 garments.

Barbara MacCullough (centre) was a dream come true in a sheath of sheer nylon with a matching just-bitten coat. Gaspere lace outlined the waistline and edged the chapel train. The bridesmaids, Sylvia Worth and Laura MacDonald wore gowns of dainty chiffon in turquoise and pink, with tiered skirts and simply scooped necklines. An identical show was viewed in Summer side on Friday.
