JOHN WHITE,

HIS LEG IS STILL GROWING.

It Gets Longer and Longer, and He Can't Stop It.

A man out at Rogers park broke his leg a few months ago, and in the setting the doctor made some mistake, or else the patient was at fault, for when it set the bone joined improperly, and when the man came to walk he found that one leg was several inches shorter than it should be. He was naturally very much inconvenienced and bemoaned the fact that he was to be a cripple for life. One day while he was alone at the house a woman book canvasser was admitted. After she had failed to sell him what she had she asked him what the matter was. He told her and said that he feared he would be a cripple for life.

"Humph!" said the woman. "There is no need of that now since Christian science is doing so much."

"I have heard a great deal about Christian science," said the man, "but I never heard that it could cure a trouble like mine."

"Why not?" asked the woman. "It is doing greater things than that every day. You would better go see a healer."

"But there is none here," replied the man.

"Well," said the woman, "I'm something of a healer myself. I can't stay here, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you the absent treatment. You just stay where you are, and I'll cure your short leg." And she went away.

The man smiled, but he thought there might be something in it after all. So he began to have faith in the healer. In a few days, however, he had almost for- gotten all about it and joked with his wife about the matter. At the end of two weeks he arose to a standing position and discovered to his great aston- ishment that his short leg was nearly as long as the other. He was delighted.

"That woman was all right," he said to his wife, "and I have done her a great injustice in smiling in my disbe- lief." In a fortnight more both legs were of equal length. He left his room for the first time in several months and went to business. He proudly showed his leg to all his friends and told every one of the marvelous means by which he recovered. Everything went well for a time, but presently the man made the astonishing discovery that the cured limb was still growing. In another two weeks it was fully two inches longer than the one which had not been broken and that it was the well leg on which he now limped.

This naturally worried him very much. You see, there was no telling where it would end. Then he recollected, too, that he had no idea who the healer was, or where he could find her. He could not even remember the name of the book she was trying to sell. And that is how the matter now stands. The man's leg is still growing. That woman is still paddling around the country sell- ing books and giving him the absent treatment. If he does find her, she will have to begin on the other leg, and even then the man will only be fit for the dime museum. The man's faith in the new science is still unbroken, but he feels that the healers should be securely anchored and kept within certain bounds.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Shunned Coal Hole.

Down on South Clark street, about 100 feet north of Madison, there is on the west side of the street a coal hole shaped like a coffin. Originally the opening was not different from any other coal hole. It was of ordinary size, and was closed with a hexagonal cover. Then a large piece of the stone was broken off the sidewalk, enlarging the hole to a great extent. When the stone was replaced by a sheet of iron, the hexagonal opening was elongated, so that the shape of a coffin was formed. Then the pedestrians along South Clark street had their troubles.

It is asserted that attention was first called to the ominous hole in the side- walk when a man had his leg sprained by a misstep on the cover. A number of persons witnessed the accident, and at the same time noted the peculiar shape of the cover. It was not long before every- body seemed to be aware of the cas- ketlike figure. Now, any one who watches the crowds that daily pass along Clark street, near Madison, will be attracted by their actions when they walk near the coal hole. All the men keep a safe distance from the awe in- spiring object, while the women care- fully raise their skirts as they walk shyly away from the cover. To the casual observer these peculiar antics are un- explainable, but the men and women who are acquainted with the history of the coffin shaped cover are too wise to place themselves in the power of "the evil eye."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

BEST WISHES FROM JOHN BULL.

I.
You've loosed the dogs of war, lad,
And sworn the end shall be
Of bondage on your borders,
And that Cuba shall be free.
And though I'm "standing by,"
My heart's a-beating high,
To see my kith and kin
To battle on a whing in.
I like your noble pluck,
And I wish you best of luck
In-re your health, lad—take a pull,
With best wishes from John Bull!

II.
And though I'm standing neutral,
With no cause to join the fray,
I'll back you with good wishes,
And I'll see you get fair play.
I must keep the neutral laws,
But I'll give you my applause,
And should bad luck betide,
May be—on'thing more beside.
For who've better right to be
Cheek by jowl than you and me?
Here's your health, lad—take a pull,
With best wishes from John Bull!

III.
Your ancestors and mine, lad,
Three hundred years ago,
Did battle for Old England,
When she fought the Spanish foe,
And King Philip's great Armada
Came looming to invade her,
With thumb-crows stowed aboard,
For the glory of the Lord.
Six score and ten of sail
They came, but came to fail.
Here's your health, lad—take a pull,
With best wishes from John Bull!

IV.
Why we should not be friends, lad,
I could never understand,
It's evil tongues, believe me,
That estrange you from my land.
From the Pilgrim Fathers sprung,
Your speech is England's tongue,
And though proud in power and pelf,
You've set up for yourself,
I never can forget
You're a bit of relation yet.
Here's your health, lad—take a pull,
With best wishes from John Bull!

V.
It's the stranger in your borders,
The alien in your parts,
That seeks to spoil our friendship
And to separate our hearts.
For they know, lad, do you see?
That if comrades' you and me,
All the nations of the earth,
Let 'em try for all they're worth,
Could never victors be,
If comrades, you and me!
Here's your health, lad—take a pull,
With best wishes from John Bull!

A LARGE PILGRIMAGE.—About 800 persons are expected in Quebec on the 21st, on a pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre. The pilgrims come from New York State. The pilgrimage was organized by Rev. Father Larame.

THEY DESIRE PEACE.—The Boston cor- respondent of the St. John Sun says: Not- withstanding the anxiety of a man to rush into war three months ago, the great ma- jority of the American public would wel- come anything that would bring about peace. Business has suffered severely during the past few months, and the levying of war taxes is not pleasant.

Acute Rheumatism

Pains in the Foot and Limb—A Complete Cure Accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For a number of years I was afflicted with acute rheumatism in my left side and all the way down my limb into my foot. I live five blocks from my work and had to stop and rest several times in going and coming. I could get no relief from my trouble and was on the point of giving up my job when I happened to hear of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I purchased a bottle of this medicine and a vial of Hood's Pills and began taking them. Before I had half finished them I was relieved and it was not long before I was completely cured. I never lose an opportunity to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, for my cure meant a great deal to me, as I have a family and must always be at my post." WILLIAM HASKETT, yardman, Grand Trunk Railroad depot, Brantford, Ontario.
