ADVERTISING RATES

For small advertisements which are ordered for only one or two weeks the charge is 50 cents per inch for the first insertion, and 20 cents for each continuation. Rate cards are furnished on application at the office. Special contract prices at a reduced rate are quoted for advertisements four inches in size or larger, which are to run for three months or longer.

No special notices inserted unless paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line, and under no circumstances will such paid notices appear in the local column.

Special discounts made on all advertisements connected with Church Fairs, Bazaars, Picnics, etc. No notices will be inserted with the same unless the regular rate of 10 cents per line is paid.

That THE EXAMINER is considered by our Merchants and Manufacturers to be the leading newspaper in P. E. Island, and consequently the most valuable advertising medium through which to make their announcements public, is abundantly proved by the fact that in order to accommodate our advertisers we have been compelled to enlarge the paper to its present size.

THE DAILY EXAMINER is for sale by the following agents :—

R. H. Mason, Post Office, Charlottetown
J. McIntyre, Malpeque Road, "
C. Paul, Lower Spring Park Road, "

The consecutive weekly parts will be mailed to any address, or delivered to persons calling at our office, at the uniform price of TEN CENTS EACH, and ONE COUPON. Don't miss the greatest and best of all the World's Fair histories.

THE AMERICAN
$8.00 Typewriter.

This is a well-made, practical machine, writing capitals, small letters, figures, and punctuation marks (71 in all) on full width paper, just like a $100 instrument. It is the first of its kind ever offered at a popular price for which the above claim can be truthfully made. It is not a toy, but a typewriter built for and capable of REAL WORK. While not as rapid as the large machines sometimes become in expert hands, it is still at least as rapid as the pen, and has the advantage of such simplicity that it can be understood and mastered almost at a glance. We cordially commend it to helpful parents and teachers everywhere.

Writes capitals, small letters, figures and marks—71 in all.
Writes just like a $100 machine.
No Shift Keys. No Ribbon. Prints from the type direct.
Prints on flat surface.
Writing always in sight.
Corrections and insertions easily made.
Takes any width of paper or envelope up to 8½ inches.
Easy to understand—learned in 5 minutes.
Weighs only four pounds—most portable.
Compact, takes up but little room.
Built solid and simple; can't get out of order.
Capital and lower case keyboard alike—easily mastered.
More "margin play" for the small letters which do most of the work.
Takes good letter-press copies.

Packed securely in handsome case and expressed to any address on receipt of price, $8.00, in registered letter, money order or certified check. We guarantee every machine, and are glad to answer all inquiries for further information as to this machine and also the "Yost."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

THE QUEEN OF SHALIMAR.

[Apropos the disparaging remarks of Mr. T. J. Dillon as to the breeding and merits of the P. E. Island hog, which has been so ably defended by our genial friend, Mr. J. W. Hughes, of Ottawa, in a recent letter to the Patriot, our "devil" has laid upon our table the following beautiful tribute to the "Queen of Shalimar," which, he says, flourished on the plains of Kinkora long before Mr. Dillon found his way to the "Garden of the Gulf." At the urgent request of our inky friend, we publish the "tribute" for the benefit of Mr. Dillon and the information of his Ontario friend :]

Ye farmers all, both great and small,
Around Kinkora may combine
To sing the praise in tuneful lays
Of your well-bred hens and thriving swine;
But there's a swine of lineage fine
Surpassing all both near and far,—
The one I mean is the reigning Queen
In the classic stye of Shalimar.

No ill-bred hog, in field or bog,
With my swineship grand can at all compare.
In Shalimar stye she first opened her eye
And breathed the pure and balmy air;
Her ancestors, 'tis said, were all high-bred,
And came from climes and lands afar;
And the story goes, they followed their nose,
Till they came to the walls of Shalimar.

Her swineship fat, and proud at that,
And dignified as a Queen should be;
On hill or dale the curl in her tail
Proclaims her a pig of high degree;
She's so genteel that e'en her squeal
Sounds like a violin or guitar;
And when she sings her wild note rings
Through the classic halls of Shalimar.

George at the Station bought a near relation
Of the famous Queen of which I sing;
He treated it well, and to make it a swell
He placed in its nose a diamond ring.
'Twas so well treated it grew conceited
And would strut about with hoggish pride,
Even go to the wicket and ask for a ticket
To Charlottetown or to Summerside.

It grew so fast and so fat at last,
George wished it back in Shalimar stye,
For he feared a disaster; 'twould be Station Master
If it kept on growing till the Fourth of July.
So to end the strife he took a knife,
And, like Great Cæsar, it fell and died.
For your edification read the funeral oration
In the people's Journal of Summerside.

HAYSEED.

Hogville, Nov., 1880.

Our "devil" spent the greater part of last night wooing the Muses, with the following result:

If Shalimar's Queen was yet on the scene,
And a stranger sneer at the pedigree,
Or slight the name or well-earned fame
Of the hogs down by the sea,
She'd send a call to her kindred all,
"Fling out your tails to the breeze,
And root out Dillon, the waggish villian,
And wade knee-deep in his butter and cheese!"

Proud D. would yield when he'd view the field,
And, like an "Assemblyman," smirk and flatter,
And on his knees swear that he met nowhere
No braver hogs or fatter.
Then on demand, with a trembling hand,
He'd sign a full retraction,
While each hog would seize a "gilt-edged" cheese,
And march home grunting with satisfaction.

RED POINT NOTES.

On the evening of the 13th inst. a goodly number of the farmers and young men of the place assembled at Red Point schoolhouse and formed a debating club, with the talented John J. Campbell as president. The subject proposed for discussion, viz., "Can we improve our methods of farming so as to give employment to our young people without going to other countries?" was ably discussed pro and con. With such noted personages in our midst as our M. P. P., a Laurier, and other persons of talent and ability, we may expect a lively time this winter.

The members of the Farmers' Association are also putting forth some efforts towards the improvement of their stock, which goes to show that there are at least some enterprising farmers in this place. They also have their regular meetings and discuss the various subjects in connection with farming and stock-raising; and, although surrounded by many disadvantages are bound to succeed.

Our enterprising farmer, T. S. Robertson, is erecting a windmill, which, if it proves a success, will be a great advantage to him in connection with his other farm machinery.

Mr. Cyrus Stewart, of this place, is busy preparing to enlarge and improve his already commodious barns, and, notwithstanding the severe winter and great depth of snow, has already secured a large amount of fine lumber for that purpose. The most of our farmers are now putting forth an effort to get their firewood, which, in many cases, is no easy task this season.

Our school is doing fairly well under the able management of our genial and talented young teacher, Mr. Keays; but as many of our pupils are getting up in their figures and their teens, some are anxious for securing the service of a high grade teacher at no distant day.

While we are moving along in these lines aiming at improvement and advancement, we have not forgotten the much needed breakwater at Red Point, and the promise given of at least a survey, some nearly two years ago. We trust that our representatives will not overlook this matter before the eve of another Dominion election. SAGWA.

Deafness Caused by Catarrh.

Capt. S. F. Belyea, of Greenwich, King's Co., N. B., suffered from an aggravated form of catarrh which had in his case induced serious deafness, closed the nasal passages so that he could scarcely breath and caused him great pain and trouble. He tried many remedies, but all failed until he got Hawker's Cattarrh Cure, three 25 cent packages of which effected a cure. "I can honestly say" says capt. Belyea "that I am practically well, and I take great pleasure in recommending Hawker's Catarrh Cure to those who may be suffering from this very troublesome disease."

THROUGH THE MAIL.

Some of the Very Curious Packages Postmasters Sometimes Get.

Postmasters not infrequently come across queer looking parcels. Perchance the torn wrapper of a suspected bundle reveals a cylindrical box covered with tin foil, inside of which a ticking sound is audible. The sender, if known, is notified that he may have the article returned to him if he likes by express. Otherwise it is put where it can do no harm.

One day not long ago a box frankly labelled "Dynamite" reached the Dead-Letter Office. A messenger was ordered to open it gently, and outdoors. The package proved, as had been imagined, a "sell."

Of articles suspected to be explosive many are fluids. They are promptly disposed of, even innocent liquids being "unmailable" under the law. The postmaster, after destroying the contents of a parcel, forwards the wrapper to headquarters, where it is placed on file for record. Thus, if inquired about, the fate of the inclosure can be determined.

However, no amount of suspicion would warrant a post office official in breaking the seal of a package on which letter rates are paid. It is absolutely sacred. Accordingly, the proper way to send explosives by mail is at full postage. Law cannot prevent that, though every year large quantities of firecrackers and torpedoes shipped as fourth class matter are seized, as well as numberless boxes of cartridges, percussion caps, etc.

In the packages they have found such things as rattlesnakes, centipedes, tarantulas, Gila monsters and alligators from Florida, all alive and squirming. They classify with composure such inclosures as petrified frogs, stuffed gophers, Tolteo idols, gold nuggets, spirit photographs, skulls, Indian scalps and human ears.

A common occurrence is a bundle of old letters tied with a ribbon, usually containing a finger-ring and a last note, saying: "I return herewith your letters; all is over between us." This excites no sentimental feelings on the part of the hardened postal employee. Rather will he pause for a second to tickle the horned toad found in the next parcel.

Once upon a time a girl sent by mail to a friend a peculiar moss-agate ring as a Christmas present. The gift never reached its destination. Three years later, while visiting another city, she stayed at a boarding house. On the opposite side of the table at dinner she saw a man who wore his necktie through a ring. It was the missing moss-agate.

She asked him where he got it, and he explained that he had bought it at a Dead-Letter Office sale.

Thousands of articles are found every year in the mails without wrappers. Not very long ago a handsome gold watch was thus discovered in a post-box. Possibly it was dropped in by a pickpocket anxious to get rid of spoils that would betray him.

Most numerous among the articles disposed of at postoffice auction are handkerchiefs. Next comes men's neckties. Third in point of number, strange to say, are Catholic medals and rosaries.

Among other things listed for the sale were razors, dark lanterns, packs of playing cards, poker dice, cigars, poker chips, stogies, hair-curlers, wire garters, pads, bunion plasters, trusses, dental forceps, electric belts, hypodermic syringes, abdominal supporters, dolls, artifical whiskers, coffin-plates and Hawaiian stamped envelopes. All of the things thus gathered at the dead-letter office are kept for two years before being sold.

Poor Charmed Snakes.

The secrets of snake-charming are much simpler than most people imagine. The snakes to be handled are gorged with food until they become drowsy, or else they are drugged so that their senses are dazed. Sometimes they are kept in ice boxes, and the cold puts them in a semitorpid condition. In either case the snakes are only half alive. In handling the reptile the hand must always grasp it at certain places where the head can be guided and held from the body. This is the hardest thing to learn, but, like everything else, it comes with practice. By dint of dexterity and strength the snake is easily passed from one hand to the other and is allowed to coil about the body. The snake charmer, however, must be always on the alert. When the snake becomes too lively it is put back into the box. In handling a reptile with the fangs in—which ought to be prohibited by law—one requires great strength, as the strain on the system during the performance is very considerable. The grasp and movements must be precise and accurate. There is no room for hesitancy and uncertainty. Most of the snakes handled, however, are harmless, so far as poisoning is concerned.—Charles Robinson in Lippincott's.

Tale of the Two Monks.

"I need oil," said an ancient monk. So he planted him an olive sapling.

"Lord," he prayed, "it needs rain that the tender roots may drink and swell. Send gentle showers." And the Lord sent a gentle shower.

"Lord," prayed the monk, "my tree needs sun. Send sun, I pray thee." And the sun shone, gilding the dripping clouds.

"Now frost, Lord, to brace its tissues," said the monk. And behold the little tree stood sparkling with frost. But at even song it died. Then the monk sought the cell of a brother of his order and related his strange experience.

"I, too," said this monk, "have planted a little tree, and see! it thrives. But I intrusted it wholly to God. He who made it knows better what it needs than a man like me. Hence I lay no condition nor dictate ways and means to God, but only say: 'Lord, send it what is best for it—storm or sunshine, wind, rain or frost. Thou hast made it, and thou dost know.'

Choice in Guns.

In guns the old-style flint locks, with stocks carved and painted in colors and with the barrels painted in peculiar hieroglyphics, are sold to the Arabs and African tribes in quantities. The South American takes a dainty barrel of the smallest gauge, with the stocks elaborately carved and ornamented. The European buys a gun exquisitely finished and inlaid in tracings of gold.

J. F. Raymore, 17 Holborn St., Roxbury Mass. says:

After a careful examination of

Skoda's German Soap,

I find it composed of ingredients of a chemically pure and healing nature. It cannot be too highly recommended, both for medicinal and toilet use. I also find perfectly pure and possessing high medicinal qualities. It can be used with perfect safety on the most delicate skin, and is an excellent ointment for general every-day use.

Mr. Raymore, whose picture appears above, and who for many years, was employed in the manufacture of toilet soap, writes under date of Feb. 4, 93: "I am surprised at its soft and purifying qualities. It is pure, unadulterated, and free from alkali, which most soaps contain."

Miss Alice L. Welton, a graduate of the Victoria General Hospital Training School for Nurses, Halifax, N. S., says: "I find Skoda's Soap is soft as velvet and pure as gold. It makes the skin soft, white and beautiful."
