

ROSES & THORNS

I must take this opportunity to respond to the letter which appeared in last week's SUN. The letter which was written by The Society for the Prevention of Stupidity in Society. Although our dear editor responded quite well to your letter I feel that I also must respond to a few of your points. First, however, let me ask you a question - S.P.S.S. does the old saying "people who live in glass houses should not throw stones"? S.P.S.S. if you do not vote you don't have any grounds to complain about what your Student Executive and Student Council does - this includes formulation of policies covering such things as campaigning for elections. Also S.P.S.S. if you don't like what you hear on the radio station there are two very simple solutions: (1) Switch the station, (2) turn it off. S.P.S.S. if you can't handle all the propaganda which is thrown at you during election campaigns why don't you retreat a little further into your own little narrow minded world, or better yet come out of the closet and share some of whatever it is you're smoking with the rest of us so we can at least see your point of view.

Just an aside here for the Engineers who had another letter in the SUN again last week. Thanks for writing (you're great to get involved) but you just don't have a case. Face it, your column "View From the Top" was offensive last year and should have been edited as it had been this year. Also I have been informed that neither the Barn nor the SUN office has been over-run with complaints about the absences of "View From the Top"

BOUQUET of THORNS

Those individuals responsible for removing the Big Brothers' jelly-bean machine from the Barn. It was later found smashed in Marion Hall. Really low!

BOUQUET of ROSES

Marsha Smith and Darren Craswell; Head Bartender and Chief C.P. Their jobs are open for application for next year but they've done a great job this year!

PANTHER NOTES

- Exams are rapidly approaching....
- So is Senior Week.
- Duncie Pub tonight at the Barn! (Duncie Pub??)
- Spring is here!
- Senate Elections & Business Society elections were this week. Wonder who won?
