THE DAILY EXAMINER

MAY 10, 1900

FIRST TRICKERY—

THEN FORCE!

The forcible ejection of Mr. Wise from the Legislative Chamber was essential to the success of the Government's trick, whereby the second district of Queen's (as well as the third) is deprived of its full representation on the floor of the Legislature and the Government has a bare majority. Force was used before any enquiry was made concerning the legality of the resignation, the condition attached to it, the circumstances under which it was signed by Mr. Wise, or where it has lain since the beginning of March. It is certain, at all events, that there has been, either a gross breach of trust and faith on the part of the Premier, or a gross breach of the law on the part of the Speaker or Lieutenant-Governor. At least two of these gentlemen ought to be anxious to have the truth of the matter exposed. But instead of explanation, the strong hands of the Sergeant-at-Arms and Mr. Richard Elliott were invoked to drag him from the seat for which he was elected.

It is said that Mr. Wise will begin an action at law on account of the outrage. However this may be, it is certain that Mr. Wise made a mistake when he entrusted his resignation to the Premier of the Province. He has since done what he could do to hold his seat, and his constituents in the West River district will, ere long, have an opportunity to deal with the man who first tricked their representative and then forced him out of his place in the Legislature. Not the people of the West River district only, but those of the whole province will, without doubt, make note of a transaction in which the first principles of honesty and honor were abandoned, and contempt has been thrown upon our representative institutions. Every franchise voter in the Second District of Queen's County is, for the time, practically, disfranchised.

DON'T BE TOO HASTY!

NEITHER party should be hasty in drawing conclusions from the fact that Mr. Pineau was introduced to the Legislature by members of the government. Mr. Pineau had never before taken a seat in the Legislature, and it is possible that he did not know that it is customary for new members to be introduced to the Speaker and the House by members of the party whom they were elected to support. We all know that Mr. Pineau was elected to support the Opposition, in spite of the strenuous exertions, fair and unfair, of Premier Parquharson and his followers; and until he shall actually vote with the Government, it is to be presumed that he will vote with the Opposition. If he should go to the rescue of the Government in their last extremity, the fact will be held as proof positive of the truth of the rumors concerning the attempts of the Government to undermine Mr. Pineau's loyalty to the opposition and to the trust placed in him by the majority of his constituents; whereas, if he should vote as he was elected to vote, it will be seen, that the Government's corrupt attempts have been in vain.

The poem published in another column, headed the "Black Watch," descriptive of the battle of Magersfontein, will be read with the greater interest from the fact that it was written by one of the Black Watch—one of the soldiers actually engaged in the battle. A copy of the poem was forwarded to THE EXAMINER by Mr. Charles Hine, of the First Canadian Contingent.

IN THE HOUSE, YESTERDAY.

AFTER prayers, yesterday, Mr. Shaw rose to a question of privilege. Mr. Shaw was in order, and he acted in conformity with a practice constantly followed in Canada and England. Indeed, according to the authorities, he did the right thing at the right time. Sir John Bourinot, states the practice of the Dominion House of Commons, as follows: "It is the practice in the House of Commons to bring up a question of privilege after prayers and before the House has taken up the orders of the day." Yet Mr. Speaker Cumiskey refused to hear Mr. Shaw and ordered the public out of the House until after the forcible ejection of Mr. Wise, refused even to listen to the authorities which Mr. Shaw was prepared to quote. The Speaker often calls for "a precedent," and he usually ignores the precedent when the purposes of the Government party require that he should do so.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

The popular ferment of the past few days, the extraordinary scenes in the Legislature, the absence of order and decorum, the failure of the Leader of the House and the Speaker to control the conduct of business, all the unprecedented scenes and incidents, are so many proofs of the fact that the Government has lost the confidence of the people. Honour, dignity, adherence to the established usages of Parliament, have been lost (for the nonce) in the struggle of the Government to hold on to office and power—until after the Dominion election shall have been held—in spite of the well understood wishes of the people. The refusal of the Speaker to read a copy of the speech delivered by the representative of the Crown at the opening of the Legislature, until compelled to do so by the Opposition; the refusal of the Speaker to take off his hat and of the whole Government party to stand, while the speech was being read, are cases in point, showing the demoralization of the Government party and the debasement of the Legislature under the auspices of men who have forfeited the people's confidence.

—Mr. Speaker Cumiskey is fond of asking for a precedent. Can he cite a precedent for his extraordinary action of yesterday in ordering the Sergeant-at-Arms to forcibly remove a member from his seat without a resolution of the House? Mr. Cumiskey's name will be mentioned long after he is dead, and it will not be mentioned with respect.

INTERESTING LETTER,

FROM MISS GEORGIE POPE,—NURSING OUR SICK AND WOUNDED SOLDIERS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

GENERAL HOSPITAL, Rondebosch, April 9, 1900.

My Dear Mrs. Gardiner—Prince Edward Island's most generous gift arrived two days ago, and contains most welcome articles. If it had only come one day sooner I could have made two Canadian Tommy's hearts glad and bodies warm with one of those pretty dressing gowns each, to wear going home on board ship; one is a convalescent enteric, the other a surgical case covered with wounds and honors from Paardeberg, where, instead of looking for the bullets that went through him, he says he "hunted for his four missing teeth"! Then I gave a night-gown to a convalescent going down to Cape Town to do garrison duty, and his thanks were unbounded. He is a gallant French Canadian with a bullet wound in the shoulder which he says is "nothing to get for the Queen." Few of the gifts sent will prove of greater value than those pretty and very comfortable things. I have divided them in four, and we shall each give out to those that come under our care. One lovely blanket I am keeping for a very bad case of enteric that I have at present belonging to Co. "C," such a nice man and so ill that I fear he will have a hard struggle to pull through; his temperature is unusually high, only being brought down to 103° by "cold packs" etc., and often running over 106. I am oh, so glad to be able to take care of him, but my heart is sad that nursing and treatment have so little effect. He is my greatest anxiety just now, and yet we have over 60 enterics. He is such a fine boy and so patient under the horrors of ice baths, ice caps, obnoxious mixtures etc. I am writing this in the tent beside him where I am waiting to see the effects of a powder before going to our quarters for the night. As yet, I have had no one from P. E. Island, and only one man from Company G., but rest assured I shall hold some things in reserve until I do. The surgical dressings, etc., will prove very useful and most acceptable, while the "billet doux" are especially unique. I have looked to find the "Absent minded Beggar" in some. Tommy loves him so. We are, I fear, on the verge of the rainy season and are daily hoping for orders to go up country.—Bloemfontein we hope. This camp is a most delightful spot in sunshine but with three days of consecutive rain, this week, one begins to feel a little melancholy, and that one's "field allowance" is earned. We are in a camp of 700 beds, containing the Duke of Portland's Hospital which is attached to us, and where Mrs. Bagot (whose husband was A. D. C. to Lord Stanley) and Lady Henry Bentinck are nursing. Every few days a convoy of about 100 comes in, and about as many go out; very few back to the front, generally to do garrison duty at Cape Town, and the convalescent enterics and fracture cases, to Netley Hospital, England: Thus the scene brings changes, and still we wait in vain for the relief of Mafeking and peace,—though we have made a rhyme of "Who killed Paul Kruger?"

I said Lord Bobs, for I'm used to such jobs, I killed Paul Kruger! etc., and ending thus:— All the Boers in the Vaal, can be heard as they squall,

And loudly lament for Poor Oom Paul. We sing it to a dirge, and it is very enlivening. I have written this letter in three different efforts, and as many days and numerous interruptions, as are in order on active of service.

I hope you are all well. Please give my love to any inquiring friends, and tell them, there is nothing Tommy's "sister" loves so well as letters from home. Believe me,

Yours affectionately,
GEORGIE POPE.

Obituary.

The many friends of Mr Isaac B Jenkins will hear with regret of his decease which took place at his residence on Bayfield Street on Thursday morning. The deceased was a well and favorable known contractor who will be greatly missed in this community. His death was quite unexpected. Two weeks ago he was busily engaged preparing for the erection of the new wing to the Falconwood Asylum, today he has entered into his final rest, leaving a widow and eight children to mourn the loss of a loving husband and kind father. For a great number of years the deceased was a consistent member of the Methodist Church.

—It is said that when the Lieutenant-Governor was leaving the Legislative Chamber on Tuesday afternoon he did not doff his hat to the Speaker. This is thought to be the reason why the Speaker would not take off his hat when reading the Governor's speech yesterday afternoon.
