

Puzzle adopt design of famous paintings

Santa Claus' assortment of jigsaw puzzles is full of novelty flavor. Famous art is an increasingly popular base for jigsaw fans.

"The Last Supper" in 1000 interlocking pieces is a new arrival. A new Devon series of octagonal puzzles features works of James Constable and Rembrandt in 675 pieces each.

In the puzzle category, James Bond, Thunderball and Goldfinger provide a series of scenes based on the secret agent's adventures, each with 600 interlocking pieces.

The extra challenge of solving a mystery is added to the usual exercise of fitting picture parts together in a series by Milton Bradley. These include jigsaws keyed to action from "The Man from Uncle," and the Addams Family.

The conventional rectangular puzzle, is still the top favorite, but a variety of octagonal and round shaped jigsaws are also being featured this Christmas.

Hobby kits scope for imagination

Toyland beams a wide variety of play kits to the junior artist and the young hobbyist. Imaginative additions to the junior painter's repertoire of art materials provide a wide range of creative scope. Gitter Color Kit, for example, features Gitter one, which combines tiny metallic sparkling particles suspended in a clear water soluble solution.

This co-stars with Silk-Tone, a poster paint that dries to a silken finish. A non-drip feature for poster paints is a boon to the juvenile painter.

For modeling adventures, there is a fine textured clay introduced by Milton Bradley which is antiseptic and retains its plasticity indefinitely.

For young fashion designers are a variety of kits that make it easy to fit costumes perfectly to the doll.

Magic Mary, for example, has a concealed magnet that holds costumes in place without tabs or glue. Patty Duke sponsors a kit with a Patty and look-a-like, Cathy doll and a "magic" crayon that achieves perfect fit.

Stocking gifts doubly right

Fill her stockings — with stockings. This Christmas finds the stocking high in importance as a fashion accessory, so that the "gift she always needs" can be doubly pleasing.

With hemlines rising, a little or a lot, special styles in stockings for shorter skirts make timely gifts. Short-well or no-well seamless stockings assure added inches of sheer elegance.

Festively right for holiday giving are glitter stockings that reflect the glamour of her costumes. One such style is a crochet stocking that intertwines gold and black or silver and white. Textures, casual or festive, continue in the new.

Many stockings come in special gift boxes for Santa's greater giving ease.

ALMOST a must now for the slide maker is a good viewer which is wonderfully helpful to him in editing his shows. Some models are equally useful for individual viewing because its automatic and in addition it is cordless.

ANOTHER instant loading still camera equipped to use the four-shot flash cubes, and with automatic exposure is modestly priced.

GIFT WRAP - MURALS

New in the shops this year are panoramic prints, suitable for Christmas gift wrapping or decorating. The enchanting images of a child's Christmas are beautifully translated in these delicately colored murals that tell well-loved Christmas stories on a single sheet. Subjects include "Santa's Workshop" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas," by Norcross.

home might be a Christmas tree. In flame-resistant vinyl, new "permanent" trees come with musical rotator stands and choice of traditional or hand-made ornaments.
