Large Crowd Thrilled At Kinsmen Carnival Opening

Young and old last night were thrilled when they crowded into the Forum to see Bugs Bunny come to life under the magic pencil of cartoonist Les Barker who originated the long-eared comic strip character. The internationally known artist is the main attraction of the annual Kinsmen Carnival, which opened its customary three-day showing here.

The Carnival was officially opened by Councillor F. J. Storey, representing Mayor J. D. Stewart who is out of the Province. He told the large gathering that today there are many avenues for service in a Christian community and asked what a place would be without the unselfish service given to great and small causes by the people who earnestly desire to help.

He told of the great work done by the Kinsmen here and recalled the vast amount of equipment presented to the Playground Commission by the club, and the radios and speakers in the schools. To this he added the splendid record of service in sending underprivileged boys and girls to summer camps and the many picnics and parties provided.

Chairman for the evening was club president Dr. Frank MacMillan who introduced the Mayor's representative and also called on National President of Kinsmen Walthen Gaudet. The latter said that perhaps Kinsmen were not as well known as other service organizations because they did not have a national project to attract attention to them.

Communty Projects However, he mentioned many of the great projects carried out on a community basis and on this point said few clubs have a service record equal to that of the local Kinsmen Association.

The evening began with a parade through the city by Sea Cadets of

R. C. S. G. C. Kent who were led by their own band and were in charge of Cadet Leading Hand Arthur Cauty. In the parade were the complete files of the corps which is commanded by Lieut. J. W. D. Smallwood. In the Forum the band played as the Cadets lined up to form an aisle for the speakers to pass through.

Inside the Forum were all the usual carnival attractions ranging from crown and anchor wheels to a home cooking booth. Two of the booths caught the eyes of the women. They featured in one an array of finely sewn baby clothes and in the other an equally splendid showing of tiny dolls' clothes to delight the little misses. A majority of the men took keen interest in the automobile show which displayed the latest models of the principal cars.

However, cartoonist Barker literally stole the show on his two appearances as he wrote down the letters in the names of world famous characters and then with a few lightning strokes changed them into excellent likenesses of the persons named. Among them were Churchill, Truman, Stalin, Uncle Sam and finally a sketch done upside down which when finished proved to be Abraham Lincoln. To wind up his act he had two local youngsters come on the stage and quickly sketched them as they would appear in bathing suits. When the sketch was completed he handed it to the young girl who had posed for him.

The carnival will continue tonight and tomorrow night.

Following were the door prize winners: First, men's sport shirt donated by Hamby and Innis, won by Bobbie McInnis, 57 Hillshore Street; second, six pair ladies' nylon stockings, donated by S. A. McDonald, Ltd., won by George Trainor, 219 Water Street; third, large thermos bottle, donated by Rogers Hardware Ltd., won by Fred Duncan, Jr., 48 Bayfield Street.
