O'Leary Resident Killed In Crash

TATAMOGUICHE N.S. (CP) — Traffic on highway 6, near here was detoured to side roads Sunday following an early morning accident which claimed two lives and severely damaged a highway bridge.

RCMP said traffic was rerouted on a 1-1/2 mile mud and gravel detour to a secondary bridge across the French River. It was expected it would take two days or more to repair the main bridge.

A transport truck smashed into the main span after going out of control early Sunday morning. The vehicle plunged into more than 10 feet of water, trapping Lloyd George Silliker, 50 of O'Leary, P.E.I., and Sheldon Neil Buchanan 31, of New Glasgow, in the cab.

A third occupant, Earl Thomas Cotton of Mount Pleasant, P.E.I., was expected to be killed or free himself. He was not injured. No decision has been made on a magisterial inquiry.

Mr. Silliker is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ruth Silliker, O'Leary; his wife the former Jeanette Ellis, Hildeford; sons Hazen, O'Leary, Ralph, Toronto; Virginia, married to Sheldon Buchanan, New Glasgow, N.S. (whose husband was also killed

BUDDHISTS

At Da Nang, one of the three battalions of Vietnamese Marines sent there by Ky last week because of the political demonstrations, was flown out of the air base Sunday to an undisclosed place in the northern, 1st corps area. The other two battalions remained at the base.

American and South Vietnamese military operations slowed to a near-halt over the weekend, as though reflecting the civil unrest and the uncertainty of the Saigon government's tenure.

An American spokesman denied any relation between the political unrest and the slackening of military efforts, although he conceded there were no new operations and those already in existence stirred up virtually no contact with the Viet Cong.

A statement read by Thich Ho Giac, a leader of the Buddhist forces organization, said the key government's target date of late 1967 for general elections "is too far distant."

"They say democracy can't be built in a year or two." It went on: "We know this. Then why not start building it right now?"

The troop withdrawal from Da Nang followed a pledge by Lt. Gen. Ton that Dinh, on taking over Sunday as the new commander of the northern military zone, to restore order to the agitated area. He told reporters he would not need the aid of the Marines.

The anti-government agitation in the northern zone was sparked by the ousting a month ago of the popular former area commander, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi.

His successor, Maj. - Gen. Nguyen van Chuan, was replaced Saturday by Dinh, 40, after he failed to move against the growing tide of opposition to the Saigon regime, though counselling calm and non-violence.

It was not known officially why Chuan was replaced after only two weeks in office but observers pointed to his hardy concealed disapproval of Ky's decision to send troops to Da Nang.

MONTREAL (CP) — Hawker Siddeley Canada Ltd. reported today that in 1964 consolidated net sales rose nine per cent to $267,307,442 from $245,256,837 in 1963.

T. J. Emmert, president and chief executive officer of the company, said operating profits declined because of a drop in operating results in Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. Ltd. which is 77-per cent owned by Hawker Siddeley.

Net profit increased to $3,420,144 from $3,030,436 in 1964. This was equivalent to 32 per cent per common share, an increase of five cents per share over 1964.

The improvement in profit resulted from the company's share, amounting to $2,553,465, of a sale by Dosco of the shares of Seaboard Power Corp. Ltd. to the Nova Scotia power company. The year was heaviest in Dosco's history.

Capital expenditures during the year were heaviest in Dosco steel operations due to continuing plant construction and modernization.

and announced the inquiry would be held.

The inquiry was set-up three days later.

The government's handling of the Spencer case and the opposition criticism of it led to the Munsinger affair. In the Commons, Mr. Cardin threw out the name Munsinger to indicate the former Conservative government's handling of security matters was not all that good.

He later expanded he was talking about Olga (Gerda) Munsinger, the German woman who subsequently said she had been associated with more than one Conservative cabinet minister.

At another stage it was reported, and later denied, that the schism within the Liberal party over the Spencer affair had put Mr. Pearson's job in jeopardy.

Spencer, meanwhile, appeared on a nation-wide television program March 6 and denied ever having spied for the Russians.

"I don't think that I've betrayed my country," he said. "He admitted being guilty of being 'friendly' to Russia, being a member of the Canada-Soviet Friendship Society, and having the desire to travel to Russia."

He said he welcomed the judicial inquiry and said he "would like the mystery to be cleared up."

Thousands Of Pilgrims Worship In Jerusalem

By ELIAS N. ANTAR — JERUSALEM (AP) — Christian pilgrims from near and far knelt in Jerusalem on Easter Sunday, worshipping in many different ways but united in faith in the resurrected Christ.

Some prayed in humble chapels along the old city's twisting alleyways while others paid homage in ornate Byzantine churches. A few Protestants knelt in a field near a bus station.

Church bells pealed their message echoing across the hills of Palestine which witnessed Christ's life, death and resurrection.

Sunday climaxed the Easter week celebrations and thousands of pilgrims crowded the narrow streets of the bazaars. Some shopped for souvenirs, others retraced the steps of Jesus along Via Dolorosa to Calvary.

Jerusalem awoke to the sound of gunshots. They were fired by Greek Orthodox worshippers rejoicing after a resurrection mass at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in the first hours of the day. Their children also set off firecrackers in the church's courtyard when the service was over.

HOLDS HIGH MASS — Later a pontifical high mass held in the rotunda of the Holy Sepulchre by Latin Patriarch Alberto Gori was attended by members of the consular corps. Preceded by dragons carrying curved swords and beating on the floor with wooden staffs, the patriarch and other clergymen held a slow procession three times around the ornate marble tomb where most Christians believe Christ was buried.

A few hundred yards outside the city, in an open field, Protestants prayed before a cleft in a rock, which they believe is the spot where Christ was buried. Across the valley, on the Mount of Olives, Lutherans held services in the Church of Mary Magdalen near the Garden of Gethsemane.

The orderly Sunday observances were in marked contrast with the near-hysteria which developed Saturday at a ceremony of holy fire at Christ's
