LARGE MEETING AT DUNDAS.

MACDONALD AND MACLEAN

ARE THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

On Saturday, 21st inst., the Court House at Dundas was filled with the electors of that vicinity to hear the political questions of the day discussed by the candidates for King's County at the ensuing Dominion election.

Mr. John A. Cameron was appointed chairman, and conducted the proceedings impartially. Mr. Arch'd Currie acted as secretary.

Mr. A. C. Macdonald opened the debate and scored many good points against the opposition; and his appeal to the elector for support for himself and Mr. John McLean was heartily responded to by those present.

Dr. McIntyre next took the platform, and asserted that men should only be loyal to their country so long as it was loyal to them. He blamed Sir John for interfering with the trade negotiations between Newfoundland and the United States. He said that the American Senate and House of Representatives would be in accord in 1892, and that the Liberal party would then be able to get reciprocity with that country—if they were successful at the present election. Dr. McIntyre does not enthuse his audience by his speeches.

Mr. John McLean followed him, and had not been speaking over ten minutes when the meeting was most enthusiastic in its applause. His exposure of the folly of the grit platform and its apparent inconsistencies was crushing, and before he was done the grits were in despair. For half an hour—the time allowed to candidates—Mr. McLean held the audience's riveted attention, interrupted only by applause when he made some telling hit at his opponents.

Dr. Robertson tried to offset the effect the effect of Mr. McLean's brilliant address in his usual appeal to the sordid feelings of his hearers; but the doctor was not in as good form as he had been at Souris As the grit candidates go south their hopes of victory diminish.

Cyrus Shaw, M. P. P., then made one of his excellent speeches and was constantly greeted with "Good boy Shaw." His touching allusion to the death of his late colleague awakened sad feelings in the breasts of all present, many of whom were warm personal friends of the late Hon H. L. Macdonald.

The discussion was continued by John G. Scringe ur, Thomas Kickham, E. H. Norton and A. Currie, of Souris, on behalf of the opposition, and by Geo. F Owen and John Nichols on behalf of the Liberal-Conservative party.

Mr. Macdonald concluded the debate and refuted the many erroneous assertions put forward by the grit speakers. Mr. Macdonald's gentlemanly manner and loyal sentiments commend him greatly to the people.

This meeting was fully two thirds in favor of the Liberal-Conservative candidates, and is only an indication of how the voters of Dundas, Narrows Creek and adjoining settlements will vote on March 5th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Lobster Fishery.

SIR,—At a meeting of the different branches of the Fishermen's Union, held at Murray Harbor South Hall on Feb. 16th, I was requested to call upon the fishermen of this Province, through the columns of your paper, to pledge the candidates who are now out in the different Counties of this Province seeking to be elected to represent us at Ottawa, to agitate and contend with whatever Government may be in power after 5th March, for the repeal of a very obnoxious and useless law which is now on the Statute books, prohibiting us from selling or having in our possession lobsters of a certain size or kind, which every fisherman in this Province knows to be impracticable and impossible for us to comply with,—therefore we are under the painful necessity of breaking the law of our country every day while we are in the business. And we are prepared to prove to any reasonable man that all the protection necessary for the preservation of the lobster industry is a close season of nine or ten months. We are sending petitions from this part of the Island in accordance with resolutions passed at a meeting of packers and fishermen held at Charlottetown, on Dec 30th, and would advise fishermen from all parts of the Island to do likewise. It has also been decided by a unanimous vote in the fishermen's Union that we pledge candidates to use their influence against the selling of water grants or license privileges for fishing purposes

PUBLIC MEETING

AT IRISHTOWN HALL.

What was doubtless intended for a great Liberal demonstration—though it wofully failed of its purpose in his respect—was held in Irishtown Hall, on Wednesday night, 18th inst. Local grit orators being presumably doubtful of their powers, two speakers had to be imported from Charlottetown for the edification of the faithful. Hon. A. B. McKenzie and Hon D. Laird occupied the platform—the feeble exponents of a feeble cause.

Mr. McKenzie was the first speaker. For over an hour he held on untired to his own visible and perfect satisfaction, and to the equally visible and less equivocally displayed discomfort of the large audience assembled

Messrs. McKenzie and Laird are adepts in the useful art of "padding out" a speech. By endless repetitions, by allusions which are altogether foreign to the matter, by diluting what by extreme courtesy might be allowed to occupy twenty minutes till it swells to three times its proper bulk, they succeed in making what they chiefly value a "long speech."

It was fortunate, however, that on this occasion that Mr. McKenzie spoke so long, inasmuch as in the second half hour of his discourse he succeeded in demolishing whatever arguments he had advanced in the first.

He was followed by the Hon. William Campbell, who was greeted with cheers and listened to with attention. He spoke for half an hour with vigor and effect. In one point his task was easy. Mr. McKenzie had left him nothing to answer.

Mr Laird began his address by remarking, in a very defiant manner, that he was not afraid. Inasmuch as no one as yet meditated violence towards him (though before his hour and a half oration "dragged its slow length" to a close, who knows what dire thoughts may have filled the breasts of a much suffering people), this assertion was altogether uncalled for. His speech was spun out to an unpardonable length by the arts already indicated. All that he said might have been said in half an hour at most, but for thrice that period he prosed on. Indeed, so tiresome and long-continued was his speech, that a large portion of the audience had to seek deliverance by withdrawing from the building and waiting outside till it was over. Nor is this to be wondered at. One would need to be inoculated with the very virus of Gritism to listen patiently while he made, by repetition and iteration [illegible] already dark. Egyptian [illegible] speech was not, indeed, the "long, [illegible] gallop which can tire," etc. The forced gait of a shuffling nag can tire also.

But there were some portions of his speech which were simply exquisite He attempted (horresco referens) to perpetrate some jokes. Think of all that is light and sparkling and graceful; think of all that is genial and lively, and then think of—David Laird.

As a joker he is not a success. As a performer in pantomime he might reasonably expect eminence.

But the character of a joker he persistently affects. Laboring with a jest which tell still born-from his lips, writhing like Laocoon in the folds of the serpent, he furnished a suggestive object-lesson on what must have been Burke's meaning when he spoke of the "Contortions of the Sibyl without the inspiration."

Dr. McNeill followed and spoke briefly, for the hour was late, but convincingly and in a fairminded and intelligent manner. To the complaint of Mr. Laird, who frequently interrupted the Doctor in a manner which did him no credit, that he was not replying to his (Mr Laird's) arguments the Doctor replied with the well-merited sarcasm that his "arguments were their own sufficient refutation."

The meeting was a large and orderly one, and though both parties were well represented the sentiment of the meeting was decidedly in favor of the Conservative speakers. "Long River Polling Division" will give a good account of itself on election day.—COM

The Grit Leader of the Maratime Provinces.

[Halifax Herald, Feb. 20]

Mr. L. H. Davies, of Charlottetown, P. E I, is a great man, so we learn from his own speeches We had no idea he was so great a man. But at a recent grit meeting in Charlottetown he addressed the assembled throng as follows:—

"Eight years ago I went to Ottawa and fought my way up to a certain position in the party I have the ear of the leaders, Laurier, Cartwright and others, and these men know that I would not advocate anything unless it was reasonable. Another reason why I stand in a good position to advocate this is that during last autumn when attending public meetings through Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in company with Hon. Wilfred Laurier, I had the honor of being elected leader of the Maritime Province Liberals, and that is an honorable position to hold."

Mr. Jones has hardly been candid with his followers in this constituency. In all his 12 column manifesto there is not a hint that he is a follower of L. H. Davies. Why this scandalous attempt to ignore his leader?
