

Fined For Making False Statement

A party, who appeared before Magistrate Gilbert A. Gaudet, charged with making a false statement in connection with a claim for unemployment insurance was found guilty and fined $25.00 and costs. The defendant had made a statement to the Unemployment Insurance officials in Charlottetown in connection with his claim for benefit stating that he had been unemployed for five days. But for these five days it was proved that he had actually worked and received pay. The accused, in addition to being assessed $25.00 and costs, repaid the money drawn through the Unemployment Insurance Commission amounting to $15.25. At the conclusion of the case, Unemployment Insurance officials let it be known that cases of attempted fraud are detected from time to time, but prosecutions are not always prosecuted, if the case is not serious, and if the monies are repaid. In many cases, the Unemployment Insurance Commission is satisfied to recover the money obtained fraudulently, and to give the offender a warning. Quite often cases are reported to the Commission by indignant citizens, but in many cases action is already under way, and the case is cleared up. It is not the practice of the Commission, say the local officials, to notify those who have made complaints, of the outcome of each case, since these matters concern the courts and the Commission itself, rather than the informant. It can be said, however, for the general information of the public, say the officials, that very few fraudulent claims escape notice, although, some months may elapse between the commission of the fraud and the recovery of the money.

Baptist Men's Association Meets

The Baptist Men's Association held their first supper meeting of the Fall season in conjunction with the evangelistic campaign being held in the church, with president Harper MacNeill in the chair. Reverend Lawrence Atkinson told the men how they might experience the real adventure of serving Christ fully in the work of building His church. The speaker was introduced by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Davison. A report of the summer activities in connection with the Sunday School was read by Secretary-Treasurer S. W. Willis. A feature of the evangelistic service which followed in the church was the male choir made up from members of the Men's Association. Mr. Atkinson brought the message of the evening, assisted by Rev. George Bell who led the singing. Also taking part in the worship service were the pastor, Messrs. L. H. Simmons and Vic Runtz. Mr. Robert A. Crooks was organist, and Mrs. J. D. Davison pianist. The services continue throughout the week and a portion of the following week, with different features each evening. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Addresses Rotarians On Traffic Accidents

"The human factor, that is, the driver, was the greatest single cause for traffic accidents," was the contention of Mr. R.W. Harris of Toronto, in his address before the Rotary Club at their regular weekly meeting at the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday. "Bad roads, poor driving conditions, and mechanical failures fall far behind in the analysis of traffic accidents." Seventy per cent of last year's traffic deaths in Canada were attributed to four major causes; in the order in which they are named, speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road, drinking and driving and ignoring the right of way to others. Thirty thousand persons were killed during the last 20 years in Canada as a result of car accidents. Births on the Island in 1950 were 100 less than the number of persons killed in Canada during the same year. Walter Hyndman occupies the chair and introduced the speaker who was on concluding, thanked by Tom Davies, co-chairman. The club agreed upon December 2 as the date for the annual Rotary Auction. Brig. Reid explained the success with which the King Reid Shows had been carried on at St. John during the summer in co-operation with the Shriner and the directors were requested to look fully into the matter of having them come to Charlottetown next July as a fund raising effort on behalf of Crippled Children, and Boy's Work.

Cueists were Major J.A. MacDonald, Gerald D.A. Saunders, Jerry O'Brien, Morton Dew and Rev. J.A. Davison of Charlottetown, Wm. Kroemer, Riverhead, Long Island, N.Y., and Rotarians W.B. Sawdon, Sackville and Dr. W.B. Howatt, Summerside.

New Telephone Link Between N.B. And P.E.I.

The first phases of improved telephone communication with the mainland through the use of the radio link between Abrams Village, P. E. I. and Lutes Hill, near Moncton, was put into use on Saturday when two circuits were opened for telephone traffic between Summerside and Moncton via this system. Two more circuits are expected to be put into use later this week which will handle traffic by this route from Summerside to Saint John and provision is provided for an additional two more circuits between Summerside and Moncton if they are needed at a later date.

The other six circuits in the system will be used by Charlottetown and these, three will be to Saint John, two to Moncton and one to Amherst, but it is thought that it may be a month or so before these are all in operation.

When this new radio link is in full use, along with the one at Tea Hill at Charlottetown, it is thought that the submarine cables between Prince Edward Island and the mainland will be done away with. Maintenance at this new radio link at Abrams Village will be looked after by the Summerside staff of the Island Telephone Company who will make periodic visits to check the equipment in the windowless, air-conditioned building.

Abbott

porters who want to see the government take a hand in forcing the Canadian dollar from its high premium perch.
Inflation would follow if the government tried to force down the dollar, but it may tumble of its own accord some time in the future, Mr. Abbott said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Vancouver Board of Trade.

He wasn't "one of those who takes undue pride in the present strength of the Canadian dollar," nor would he be "unduly alarmed" if at some future date the external value of our dollar dipped below equality with the United States dollar.

"With the international situation as disturbed as it is," he said, "and with our unusual exposure to movements of capital originating in the U. S., fluctuations in our exchange rate have to be accepted."

Sometimes in the future the government might again consider placing a fixed rate of exchange on the dollar, freed in 1950, but the puzzle would be to determine just what the rate should be.

As in previous speeches recently, Mr. Abbott reiterated that the higher production was the only way in which the current high level of taxation could be reduced.

Half of the current $4,500,000,000 annual budget was for defence and part of the remainder for social programs.

"What then is our hope for relief from high levels of taxation? It seems to me unlikely that the necessary defence expenditure will soon disappear or that we shall be willing to give up the progress we have made in the fields of social welfare.

"Our real hope, therefore, for substantial reductions in tax rates lies in the prospect that increased production will make the burden of taxation less—that the annual product will go in increasing amount to improve our standard of living.

"This, I believe, we can confidently expect."
(Total output of goods and services is called the gross national product, estimated for 1952 at a peak $22,500,000,000. Some Ottawa analysts estimate it may climb by $1,000,000,000 in 1953).

Enjoyable Performance Given At Parkdale Hall

From the moment the curtains opened on "Up She Goes" at the Parkdale Hall last evening it was obvious that the community had a definite "hit" on its hands. A rollicking, carefree production, with entertainment as its sole purpose, "Up She Goes" kept the large audience wondering what was going to happen next from the moment the curtain went up. Ranging from hilarious to a beautiful ballet number, it is a show which will be talked about for some time to come.

Sponsored by the Women's Institute of Parkdale, who adopt each year this means of raising funds for their new hall, the production was staged and produced by Mr. H. Barry Bugden, with Mr. Royston F. Muggford as the worthy able and enthusiastic accompanist.

Featured as guest artists were Miss Maureen Blake and Mr. W.S. McMurtry who contributed greatly to the success of the evening. Miss Blake was heard in four numbers, her lovely soprano voice being heard to best advantage in the beautiful "Chiribiribi." Mr. McMurtry contributed both comic and straight numbers, and also appeared in the "grand opera."

Effective Setting
The evening started with an unusual introduction of the cast, the curtains then opening to show a stage setting which was very cleverly arranged. Entirely draped in black, the stage looked much larger than usual, and sprinkled with twinkling stars, made a very fitting background for the gay and colorful costumes of the large cast.

Appearing twice in the program were Lorne and Betty Arsenault who stepped in front of the curtains with two clever dialogues, depicting the change in attitude of a young couple before and after their marriage.

Fast talking Connie Edgett brought gales of laughter from the audience as she portrayed a salesgirl endeavoring to sell "Spunko" to Mary Hennessey as a shopper. When fed to Frank Burke as the woman's husband, this amazing product brought fantastic results.

Also appearing in one of the short skits were Sadie Livingstone and Elmer Paquet who depicted life on a bus line.

"Clelio Lindo," sung by Miss Blake and danced by the Chorettes, Ernest MacKay and Barry Bugden and his daughter Sharon, proved to be an outstanding number of the evening. Appearing in star-studded white ballet costumes, the Chorettes, making their first appearance on a stage, were completely charming to watch. Ernest MacKay, in a short ballet dress, burlesqued the dance to the enjoyment of the audience, and Barry and Sharon Bugden then appeared in an exhibition waltz.

three diseases. Any one of its three types of virus—lanzing, brunhilde or leon—can cripple. A preventive must be aimed at all of them.

Dr. Howe warned that the vaccine isn't ready for use—that he isn't even sure it will be the vaccine to be used in large trials. Further testing will be necessary to improve it.

The children, all two to five years old, were low-grade imbeciles at Rosewood State Training School. Their parents agreed to the experiment. No child was in danger at any time.

From Stricken Monkeys
They were inoculated with a vaccine brewed from the spinal cords of monkeys stricken with polio and a chemical rendering the polio viruses harmless but still capable of producing antibodies.

In 1950, Dr. Howe had found that he could immunize chimpanzees. Eleven bedridden children at Rosewood, in good physical condition despite their handicaps, were chosen for the human trials.

Blind tests showed only one of them had antibodies against more than one type of polio virus, before the vaccination.

Dr. Howe decided to give six of them the vaccine, and nothing to the other five. If the vaccine took, the inoculated six would develop antibodies in their blood. The other would have to invest extensively to buy up big chunks of American currency, where there is no "idle cash" in the Federal Treasury for such a purpose, it would mean either heavier taxes or extensive borrowing from the public.

It was also agreed that the Council would supply workers for the Charlottetown Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic to be held on November 4th. The date of future meetings was agreed upon as the first Monday of every month.

T.J. Probe Charges Of Cruelty To Horses
LONDON, Oct. 20 — (Reuters) — The government today appointed a committee to investigate charges of cruelty to horses sold for slaughter.

The inquiry, ordered by Prime Minister Churchill, will investigate the horse trade in England, Scotland and Wales and, if necessary, recommend safeguards against cruelty.

The Manchester Guardian forced government action by exposing a powerful post-war racket run by men cashing in on the meat shortage. There was little human consumption of horseflesh before the war.

Patrick Keatley, a Canadian newspaperman who wrote the Guardian article, travelled through Britain and Ireland investigating cases of cruelty. He was offered a £1,500 bribe to drop his investigation.

Keatley astounded Britons by describing some of the 20 cases of extreme cruelty he witnessed in slaughter houses. He also exposed the torturous journey by road and sea that Irish horses are forced to undertake on their way to English and European abattoirs.

current basis. Now, the C. P. R., with the concurrence of the other railways, asks that the board take into account the money invested in the Canadian Pacific's Railway enterprise and set a rate of return that the company should have on this investment.

The company's suggested investment base is about $1,140,000,000. It proposes a return on that of 6 1/2 per cent, or about $68,000,000 a year. This compares with a return of $7,700,000, estimated by the company as what it will now have left yearly under current conditions to meet fixed charges, dividends and surplus.

In this application for setting the "rate-base, rate-of-return" system of setting charges, the rationally rates should jump to the ways do not specify that automatic suggested to bring the C. P. R. earnings to what it regards as "reasonable."

But this is implied in the application, which says the C. P. R. will be getting less than is "just and reasonable" if it does not obtain a fair return on its net investment.

Claim Principle All Wrong
The provincial governments fighting freight-rate increases will argue first that the rate-base principle is all wrong.

Secondly, they will challenge the C. P. R. figure for a rate base. They will claim that much of the money now invested in the Canadian Pacific's rail enterprise came out of the public purse.

A third point will be that the 6 1/2 per cent suggested rate of return is too high.

Beyond that, the provinces are likely to ask for a complete delving into the records of the Canadian Pacific back through about 70 years before any such system should be considered.

brings into still sharper relief the stark challenge which must be faced if we are to hold the vital British and other overseas markets.

The survey says the "spectacular" strength of the Canadian dollar is an index of external confidence in Canada.

"There has been an unprecedented inflow of investment capital attracted not only by a belated recognition of economic opportunities, but also by our reassuring political institutions—and the highly-publicized budget surpluses.

Premium Causes Problems
"The premium on the Canadian dollar, however, is beginning to provoke trade problems, while budget surpluses are more appealing to non-residents than to resident taxpayers.

Local Official On National Executive

Mr. George W. Cheverie, Supervisor of the Insurance Branch National Employment Commission in Charlottetown, was elected 2nd National Vice President of the National U. I. C. Association at their Triennial Convention recently held at the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa.

More than 100 delegates were in attendance from every centre in Canada including Newfoundland.

Mayor Charlotte Whitten, of Ottawa addressed the convention at the opening meeting and the guest speaker at the closing banquet was Hon. Milton P. Gregg, who later in conversation with Mr. Cheverie recalled with satisfaction the brief visit he made to the Island during the summer, and the pleasure he derived from a day trout fishing.

The convention was also addressed by Frederick Whitehouse, President of the Civil Federation of Canada, which is composed of National affiliates including National Postal Employees, Railway Mail Clerks, Federated Letter Carriers, and Dominion Income Tax Staff Association. The speaker stated that a survey of Canadian industries indicated that they were paying eight per cent above the salaries now being paid by the Government on comparable jobs.

He also said that the association is pressing for a universal five day week.

Mr. Norman MacLeod of the Summerside staff of the U. I. C., also attended as a delegate.

Trinity Men's Association Meets

Rev. A. Frank MacLean, recently inducted minister of Trinity United Church was guest speaker at the supper meeting of the church Men's Association held in the Recreation Hall last evening. The session marked the re-establishment of monthly meetings for the winter season.

The speaker dealt with what he described as "Pages from my personal library" and stressed the need of the Minister being assisted in his parochial work by the laity. As Aaron's Rod was held before the Children of Israel by Moses only with the assistance of two Allied who thus contributed to the winning of the battle, so must the clergy of all denominations be supported by the Elders and stewards who have been chosen as stewards for exacting and important work in the churches organization. Mr. MacLean traced his personal experience as a young man and later as a minister, in which he described many incidents bordering on the miraculous, where vigorous, inspired laymen had created order out of chaos. "A man who thinks of his family, his neighbours as himself and the payment of 100 cents on the dollar, is dealing with things on the same level," said the speaker. "He must look above and gain altitude, fighting to keep the Rod of God before the people striving to reach the Promised Land." Dr. M.I. Lowrie, President of the Association, who occupied the chair, thanked the speaker.

The directors were requested to look into the matter of providing a bus service for the children of Mr. Herbert Orphanage to attend the morning service each Sunday in future.

Among the guests present were Rev. J.M. Fraser, Moderator; Rev. Mr. Sproule, York; William Vickers; Clive Cudmore, Walter MacKenzie, Leroy Vessey and K.A. Parker.
