

MR. AND MRS. GERALD FRANCIS GALLANT

Young Couple Pledge Vows In Ceremony At Grand River

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Patrick's Church, Grand River, recently when Mary Myrtle Doreen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus MacNeill, Grand River, became the bride of Gerald Francis Gallant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvain Gallant, Howland. Rev. Pius Murnaghan performed the nuptial mass. The church was decorated for the occasion with baskets of autumn flowers and the pews were marked with pink and white satin bows. Mrs. Harold MacIntyre was organist and accompanied Grand River Girls' Choir as they sang appropriate wedding hymns. The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her floor length wedding gown of two tiers of lace over satin, featuring a high neck line with seed pearl trim, long tapering sleeves, a fitted bodice and a bouffant skirt worn over hoop. The shoulder length veil fell from a shirred bandeau of tulle with sequin trim and she carried a nosegay of red roses with lilies of the valley and satin streamers. Miss Lillian MacNeill as bridesmaid, was gowned in tangerine nylon, with full shirred skirt, fitted bodice, round neckline and short puff sleeves. She wore a matching headband and veil and a corsage of yellow roses. Mr. Melvin Gallant was best man. Mrs. MacNeill chose for her daughter's wedding a navy dress with white and navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother wore a rose dress with yellow accessories and a corsage of white carnations. A reception for forty guests was held at Birch Hill Lodge where Rev. Pius Murnaghan proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. For the honeymoon trip to Halifax, N.S., the bride travelled in peacock blue with black and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Previous to the marriage, the bride was tendered showers in the Community Hall, Grand River and in the West Devon Hall. Photo by Heckbert

Well-Seasoned Hash Entree Is Starter For Hearty Meal

"There sometimes comes a time when a good dish of hash for dinner is in order," remarked the Chef. "Two methods of making canned meat and potato hash are used. One, the least expensive, is one in which fine minced meat and cooked potatoes are mashed together; the second method is when both meat and potatoes are chopped into small identical pieces. It costs a little more, but this method is approved by all good chefs. "If the ham is to be sauteed in slices, chill it in the can and slice with a sharp knife. But if it is to be browned family style in a frypan, do not refrigerate. Use only a film of corn oil and brown the hash slowly and thoroughly. STARTER FOR MEAL. "When hash is the main meal dish at dinner, Chef," I commented, "I often open the meal with a good cooked vegetable salad. Then the hash for a wonderful taste blend, is accompanied by my Cheese - Onion Souffle."

ELLEN'S DIARY

Granddaughter, a lass of thirteen years, received today her first invitation to attend a wedding. On several occasions before this she has witnessed the rite itself. At the "Old Kirk" at the corner, and she also was among those present, thought not as a guest at that of her cousin Barbara more than a year ago, now in the village Church of our childhood years. A babe, Barbara mothers now. A son, a bright, happy fellow, blue-eyed and fair. She mothers him well, giving him that love which is every small one's birthright, be it babe of lambkin or kit-cat, and all so forlorn if they lack it. It is interesting to see how well those like Barbara—the once-carefree business girls trained only to their note books and "pot hooks" and typewriters have, because of that moment of time which brings them motherhood, put an arm instinctively

HAPPENINGS

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of Prime Minister, John Diefenbaker, and Senator F. Elsie Inman were special guests at a Sorority pledge dinner held at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, on Nov. 25. Both Mrs. Diefenbaker and Senator Inman are honorary members of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. The fifth regular meeting of Beta Sigma Phi was held on Wednesday night, Nov. 25, at the home of Mrs. Sidney Stead. The president, Mrs. Don Wonnacott presided. A program on "Prose" was presented by Mrs. Charles Trainor and Mrs. Walter LePage which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Don Wonnacott. Thirteen tables of bridge were in duplicate at the Charlottetown Hotel on Monday evening when the Duplicate Bridge Club held its weekly meeting. Winners were: North and South: 1. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Senn; 2. Dr. L.H. Killorn and Dr. J.H. O'Hanley. East and West: 1. Mrs. Ella Connolly and Mrs. Leo MacDonald; 2. Mrs. Alban Farmer and Mrs. Carl Green. Dr. and Mrs. C.A. Coady entertained at a mixed bridge at their home on McGill Avenue Monday evening. Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tulle and young son, George Daniel, of Dalhousie, N.B., were weekend guests of Dr. Tulle's father, Mr. George Tulle, City. Wayne Hamm, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hamm, Mt. Herbert, left yesterday for Children's Hospital, Halifax, where he is scheduled to undergo heart surgery. Wayne was accompanied by his parents. Miss Ann MacDonald, City, returned home after spending a brief holiday visiting friends in United States. On return, she visited her sister, Mrs. Alphonus Flynn, Mr. Flynn and family of Bilack's Harbor, N.B. Mrs. Catherine Praught, has returned to her home in Summerside on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Vance Harris who have been living in Charlottetown, have taken up residence in Summerside. Mrs. Garnet Ross and Mrs. Hilbert Johnston presided over the silver services on Friday at an afternoon tea held in the Summerside Presbyterian church hall. The tea table was most attractive with its floral arrangement of bronze and yellow mums. Receiving the guests were Mrs. J. Donald MacKay and Miss Martha MacFarlane, while soft background music was furnished by Mrs. A.H. Hubley. Assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. J. Lloyd Gorrill, Mrs. Maurice Mill, Mrs. Keith Compton, Mrs. William Morrison and Mrs. Cleve Whalen. Convening the party table was Mrs. Ernest L. Walker and Mrs. Daniel MacLean. Mrs. Frank MacNeill, Mrs. Harold Hall and Mrs. Alfred Simpson were in charge of the fancy work table. about the babe that is theirs to cherish and help rear. "Now where did you learn that?" we asked a young matron not long ago, who deftly lifted her small one from her basket and hushed its wailing like magic. "Why" she smiled "I never learned it! I think" she nodded "mothers just know." So Granddaughter's eyes shone happily over the invitation received today. And then with that concern which is eternally feminine wondered "Now, what in the world shall I wear?" "I'll either" she said having weighed the question seriously "wear a dress I have, and get new shoes, or else get a new dress and make do with the "best" shoes I have. "Isn't that it!" Mack commented with some disgust. "If it's not a dress, it's shoes—or it's made believe he was primping before a mirror "my hair" or, well, if it's not one thing, it's another there's always something to fuss the girls! Now boys—they're different!" Granddaughter commented with a meaningful chuckle "boys are different, we know!" Nevertheless for Granddaughter's cousin, Phyllis, a clever, capable and pretty miss, and other brides-to-be, their wedding in the near future or in the offering will be in the nature of a fond dream come true. For naturally in every girl's heart, back of all else, there is, we think, that wish expressed by the heroine in a book we once read when her mother voiced some regret that her profession might, at length, claim her too well. "Don't you worry" she laughed heartily "I won't be an old maid." Suddenly her voice dropped to a husky sweetness. "I have too many dreams for that. Mother, I sometimes think it is as though I am weaving at a loom with a spindle of hopes and dreams. And no matter Mother, how lovely the pattern—no matter how many gorgeous colors I use—always the centre of it is—you know—just a little house in a garden, and red freight and—the man I love—and children—and happiness. For me, Mother, that's the end of all dreaming."

MARY HAWORTH

Wife Tires Of Many Years Of Husband's Oral Abuse

Dear Mary Haworth: I feel it is almost useless to ask help for my problem at this late date. My husband, to whom I've been married 34 years, has, from the beginning, reproached and harassed me with accusations of infidelity and soliciting men; and called me vile names. Also, he has sometimes named my alleged conspirators, persons I've never seen or spoken to; or even heard of. In the early years I overlooked a lot; and later, with four children to care for, and being so busy, I hadn't much time to think seriously about it. Life went on. Now we are older. Our children are married and live far from us. I want to feel settled and live peacefully and quietly; but it is impossible. I can't bear up any longer under his constant plaguing me with obscene names and ugly remarks and accusations. He shows no regard for me; and no respect for anyone. He doesn't care where we happen to be, or who hears his loud voice. Any little thing brings on a tirade and storm. What type of insanity is this? I know it must be some sort of sickness, and must have a name. To whom can I go with the problem? Doctor? Clergyman? Lawyer? I realize it may be too late for me to live in peace with him, but I am hoping I can still do something besides run. I shall watch for your answer. Thank you. L. B. MAN IS SICKENED Dear L. B.: Physically we are what we eat, to a great extent. Spiritually and emotionally, it is comparably true that we are what we think. It is as Scriptures tell us: "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Your husband is the perennial re-infected, desperately diseased victim of his own habitual ugly thinking—which festers with evil, suspicious, hate-filled imaginations. Or, in plainer language, he is a mean, ornery, twisted fellow. Going way back to the roots of his trouble, he probably was born into a loveless, hard-up family situation, which might explain his wrong start in the field of character-formation. But nowadays, and for many years past, his origins can't rightly be blamed for his insufferable nastiness. He is completely responsible and guiltily accountable for his present and long-term badness. CALL HIM CURSED If you want a medical term for his balefulness, most diagnosticians probably would say he is psychopathic. Another term for which is: a cursed person. A psychopath is a willfully vicious individual who morbidly en-
