

THE DAILY EXAMINER

JULY 4, 1898

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—Montreal Gazette: Mr. Warburton, the Liberal premier of Prince Edward Island, has taken a judgeship, too. The whole party is going in for making hay while the sun shines.

—The canned lobster exports from Halifax last week amounted to 13,915 cases. The shipments from that port for the season previously were 82,127 cases, making the total to date 66,042. Estimating these at $10 per case, the value of the export so far is $560,420.

—This is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the elevation to the priesthood of Bishop Macdonald, and THE EXAMINER adds its congratulations to those already received by His Lordship on the interesting occasion. Rev. M. J. McMillan, who was ordained at the same time and place as His Lordship, has been very ill for some time past and cannot long survive.

—The St. John Sun points out that the Dominion day rejoicing was not universal in Canada. The shirt and collar manufacturers of the Dominion employ 8,000 hands, of whom 50 per cent. are women. On Friday a ten per cent. cut in the pay of these operatives went into effect. Shirts and collars are among the articles on which the protection has been largely reduced.

—Residents of the Yukon country are looking for a big crush up there within the next six weeks, as reports from the interior have been very encouraging. There are five steamers running on the lakes. It is daylight there the whole time. There are not ten minutes in the whole 24 hours in which you cannot see well enough to read and write.

—The Ottawa Journal rises to remark that "to anybody who thinks it surprising that the Premier of Prince Edward Island should resign to become a county judge, it may be remarked that the salary of the Premier of Prince Edward Island is $1,305." But Mr. Warburton did not get even that. He merely took the Premier'ship and the chances connected with it, but he had no salary as Premier.

—The common idea that theatre managers cannot profitably produce Shakespeare's plays, is answered by Sir Henry Irving, in a letter to the editor of the Weekly Post, Birmingham, as follows:

"The popularity of Shakespeare on the stage is pretty well attested by the fact that at the present moment he is being played at three theatres in London. There are superior persons, I believe, who say that he is popular only with playgoers who never read him. My experience is that a Shakespeare production is always a stimulus to the reading as well as to the playing public. There is no symptom that the double interest in Shakespeare is likely to decline in any calculable period."

THE MILES COMPANY.

The Miles Ideal Stock Co. was greeted with a good house on Saturday night to witness the great Russian Military Drama "Michael Strogoff." Mr. John E. Miles appeared to great advantage in the title role and scored his usual success. His support was excellent. Miss Mildred Hyndman made a beautiful and pleasing "Sengaree" and is a decided improvement on the Zengaree of Miss Swift of last year's company. Tonight the company will produce a strong comedy-drama "New York by Day," which is said to be one of the best. The company gave the piece in Summerside on their way down and the Pioneer speaks in the highest terms of the production. The company will give a special matinee on Thursday, repeating by request, "Under the British Flag." Ten cents to all parts of the house.

LETTER FROM DR. BLANCHARD

SIR,—The report made by the Grand Jury regarding the Hospital for the Insane is an unfair and misleading one. If the Secretary of that body had been possessed of the courtesy usual on such occasions he would have informed me of their proposed visit, and I should have arranged to meet them, and answer such questions as they may have a right to ask.

I may say that I have a record in the Hospital of every case admitted since the building was opened in 1879: a daily record of each case from the time of admission to that of discharge or death.

This record shows the daily condition of each patient, whether excited, ill, on extra diet, taking medicine, out for exercise, at work, and when and for how long, etc., etc., in fact it contains a succinct but comprehensive history of every patient who has come under treatment in the asylum.

For the information of the Grand Jury and also for that of THE EXAMINER, I will state that I visit once and occasionally twice a day, with very few exceptions even in the worst of winter weather. I seldom visit on Sunday unless called by telephone.

I am yours truly,
E. S. BLANCHARD,
Medical Supt.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

SOUTH RIVER, July 2.

The delightful weather brought together a large number of the delegates of the Baptist Association. The meeting began at 10 a. m. by a devotional half hour, led by S. J. Cann.

The first item of business to engage attention was the digest of church letters prepared by Rev. J. C. Spurr. There are twenty-seven Baptist churches on the Island, divided into 13 fields which are at present all occupied. A new church, that of St. Peter's Bay, was received into the association, the right hand of fellowship being extended through the pastor, Rev. A. C. Shaw, by Rev. David Price. The number of baptisms this year is not up to the average, but the reports on the whole did not indicate a retrograde movement. The report seemed to have a strong hope of a forward movement on the part of Baptists throughout the Province. This thought of a forward movement was vigorously taken up and discussed by the Rev. J. A. Gordon. He thought that no place in the whole territory under the Confederation was so fertile for home mission work as P. E. Island. It has sent out in days past some strong and shining lights in the denomination and the future will produce as great if the effort is strong enough.

Rev. A. Cahoon, Secretary of the Home Mission Board, reviewed the work of Home Missions and the prospects of the future. The Board have never left a field that they have once taken hold of, and they intend to hold the ground now taken.

The next report taken up was on Denominational Literature. In discussion of this Geo Macdonald, manager of the Baptist Book Room, spoke on behalf of that institution, and it was heartily recommended to the Baptists of the province. It is an excellently equipped book store and a grand medium for the circulation of literature.

Rev. Dr. Black, Editor of the Messenger and Visitor, spoke on behalf of that paper. This paper has grown into a very strong religious journal and is doing a work that can hardly be estimated having a circulation second to only one denominational paper of Canada.

The report on systematic beneficence was presented by C. W. Jackson and spoken to by Messrs Howatt, McDonald, Scott, Jenkins and Jackson, Revs. Brown, Corey and others.

At the evening session the spacious church was crowded to its utmost capacity.

The subject of the meeting was Education. Rev. J. C. Spurr presented the report on education. The report of work at Acadia for the first year of Dr. Trotter's presidency was most encouraging. The number of students in attendance at all the institutions was 321. The freshman class was the largest in the history of the College. The forward movement was advancing. Of the $60,000 to be raised pledges have been given for $40,000. Several changes have been made during the year. New men are entering upon their work.

Prof Sawyer, of Acadia, followed with a most lucid speech. He thought that in the first place we must look upon the different institutions as making a complete body—the college, seminary and academy as one institution. He said that the work which Acadia was attempting was not a cramming system, it was the finding out of the latent power of the student and the drawing out of these powers. But the development of intellectual power was not the only phase of work undertaken at Acadia. The social life at Wolfville is good. The value of the social intercourse cannot be estimated. The gymnasium and athletic training is also another element of value. Prof. Sawyer is to remain upon the Island for some weeks in the interests of Acadia.

The next speaker was Pastor Corey, of Ch'town. His subject was "The Value of a Denominational Institution." He claimed that without the intellectual power which comes from Acadia the denomination would no longer exist. Not that it created a sectarian feeling. He believed that the less of sectarianism the better for the world. But it develops the intellectuality of the denomination. It is not simply valuable as an institution to help to develop the intellect of the clergy, but as a discipline for life, no matter what may be the calling of the student.

The last speaker was Rev. J. A. Gordon. His subject was "The Forward Movement." He made a most effective appeal for increased financial support on the part of the churches.

A resolution of sympathy with R & D Simpson, of Br'wick, who was to have been present in behalf of the forward movement fund, but was prevented by the sad accident of breaking his leg.

Before the meeting closed, Mr. John Nichol, of Annandale, promised $400 in behalf of the forward movement. $1,002 was taken in pledges from the congregation.

HYMENEAL.

The house of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Ross, Stacey, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday evening, June 28th, when their eldest daughter, Edith E., was united in marriage to Mr. George F. Found, of Fountain Mills. The ceremony, which took place beneath a decorated arch of evergreen, was performed by the Rev. G. C. Robertson, assisted by Rev. A. Sterling, Clifton, in presence of a large number of invited guests. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Margaret J. Ross, and Mr. Harlan P. Found supported the groom. The bride was attired in a dainty gown of cream sequot cloth with chiffon and pearl trimmings. She wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms. Her only ornament was an opal brooch, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid wore a very pretty dress of silver over pale blue. Her gift from the groom was a gold watch guard.

After the ceremony, upwards of seventy guests sat down to a sumptuous repast, which, like the meal and oil of scripture, was replenished from ample stores, and all were made to feel the abundant hospitality of the host and hostess. In the midst of the evening's jollity, strange sounds of pibrochs and "horns from eldland blowing" came wafting over hill and dale until a motley crew of merry masqueraders drew up before the house, where they afforded some amusement to the spectators. On being presented to the bride and treated to refreshments they went on their way rejoicing. The large number of valuable gifts bear witness to the high esteem in which the favored couple are held by their many friends. Special mention deserves to be made of an elegant rocker presented by the C. E. Society of Clifton, of which Mr. Found is president. The night was far advanced when the newly-wedded couple set out for their future home, and the guests took their departure having experienced once again the reality of those joys that make the world grow young. Congratulations.
