Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet Wednesday may sign the order committing 1,200 Canadian troops to Middle East duty with the United Nations police force.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and his colleagues will hold their regular monthly meeting then, one day earlier than originally scheduled.

If the order is signed Wednesday, Parliament likely will be called into special session next week and asked to approve funds for stationing the Canadian troops in the Middle East.

command are preparing to airlift the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, from Calgary to Halifax. The battalion comprises the major portion of the Canadian contingent and will be moved to the Middle East by the aircraft carrier Magnificent.

The C-119 carries some 45 men with their equipment. The air force expects to fly more than 50,000 miles eastbound on the ferrying job.

The Magnificent is scheduled to arrive at Halifax Tuesday night from Glasgow and is expected to sail with the troops within a week. Parliament may meet to discuss the commitment of the troops while they are on the Atlantic bound for Egypt.

The defence department has handled the movement of the contingent on a top-priority basis. Officials said the urgent planning and execution of the operation indicate some of the problems which would arise in the event that Canadian troops had to be moved to Europe to help meet aggression.

NO FOREWARNING
Circumstances are different, however, because the defence department in the current case has no forewarning that Canadian troops would be needed in the Middle East.

The department has long had plans for movement of Canadian troops to Europe in event of war. For instance, the 1st Canadian Infantry Division would be expected to arrive in Europe 14 days after the declaration of mobilization. Civilian transport would be employed.

However, officers of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade group in West Germany say candidly that in case of a lightning Russian ground assault on western Europe, the brigade would be on its own and that the 1st Division would not reach there in time for the first phase of operations at least.

Discussed

isions which illustrated progress being made in Canada and offered several suggestions which might be useful to workers in this Province.

Upon conclusion of Mr. Campbell's address, Hon. Dr. M.L. Bonnell, Minister of Health, arrived to take in some of the conference discussions. Called upon by the chair, the Minister made a few brief remarks in which he welcomed the delegates to the meetings and stated that his departmental officials would do all possible to further the cause of Rehabilitation.

INFORMAL DISCUSSIONS
During the balance of the forenoon the conference entered into a series of informal discussions on the following topics: medical and social aspects of rehabilitation case finding and referral, medical and vocational assessment, vocational guidance, counselling and training, employment of the disabled, organization and co-ordination at community level, inter-agency relationship and future planning.

Delegates leading off and taking part in discussion of these varied topics were: Dr. J.H. Shaw, Dr. P.A. Creelman, Dr. Burton Howatt, Dr. T.A. Laidlaw, Don Curran, Charles Kelsey, Mr. Hill, Miss Hunter, cerebral palsy centre; Miss I. Arsenault, Red Cross; Mrs. Johnston, retarded childrens group; Miss M. Wilson, Eldon Green, Dominion Department Health and Welfare; Walter Baker, Protestant Welfare Bureau; Rev. Sister Mary Henry, Catholic Welfare Bureau; Mr. Ian Campbell, Dr. L.W. Shaw and the Chair man.

From the various discussions of the day it became apparent a co-ordinating council to look after rehabilitation of disabled in the Province was needed. Before adjourning, the meeting unanimously approved organization of the Prince Edward Island Council for Rehabilitation of Disabled Civilians. Membership in this council is to comprise the representatives of the various groups in attendance yesterday, and representatives of any other interested groups which may wish to become active in the work. The meeting also instructed the Chairman to appoint a committee to prepare a slate of officers and an agenda for a subsequent Council meeting to be held in the near future.

Upon conclusion of the business of the day, the Chairman called on Dr. L.W. Shaw, Mr. Ian Campbell and Hon. Forrest Phillips, who all remarked upon the success of the conference and complimented the delegates on the action taken.

Nursing Sisters Annual Dinner

The Prince Edward Island Unit of the Nursing Sisters Association of Canada held its ninth annual dinner at the Charlottetown Hotel Saturday evening, Nov. 10.

Seventeen Nursing Sisters from various parts of the province were present and following the dinner the annual meeting was held.

The President, Miss Verna Darach reported that the Agnes C. Neill Memorial Fund is now to be used for educational purposes for nurses, and that a national committee has been established to set up regulations regarding its use.

Miss Barbara Smith, Summerside is the newly elected president and Miss Bea Rankins, Secretary Treasurer.

DRAEGERMAN EXPLAINS RESCUE AT BENEFIT DANCE

Listening closely to an explanation of the rescue equipment used in the recent disaster at Springhill are left Jean O'Brien and Joseph Mooney, Charlottetown, two of the large number who attended the benefit dance held at the Ross-Burner Electric last night, at the proceeds of which will be devoted to the relief of distress in the Nova Scotia town.

Demonstrating the working method of the complicated apparatus strapped to his body is Draegerman Cecil Holden, who captained the team of draegermen who located the final fifty-two trapped men. Watching the demonstration are James Thompson, and Wilfred Brown, two of the miners who were rescued. Thompson was a member of the shift working at the 6,000 ft. level when the explosion occurred. He did not reach the top until three o'clock Monday morning. Brown, a draegerman himself reached the surface around 2.30 Saturday.

CAR-TRUCK COLLISION YESTERDAY

A car-truck collision occurred shortly after noon yesterday on the Marfield Road. Very few details were available from police sources, other than that no one was seriously injured.

Parking Problems

Mayor Stewart said the City would be doing most of the employees a favor by having them leave their cars at home. The most of them sit around an office all day and the exercise would do them good," he added.

His Worship objected to the Police chairman's suggestion that parking meters be placed in front of the Post Office. The Mayor said it would prevent people who wanted to use the Post Office from getting near it.

He suggested instead a 15 minute parking area. He reminded him that this was the arrangement at the old Post Office and it seemed to work out satisfactorily.

LACK OF SPACE
Councillor Haslam complained of the lack of space being offered by the Esso Service Station on Grafton Street. He said the City had made concessions in allowing the service station so much frontage and it was understood that the parking area in front of the building would be given. As it was now he said, only four cars could use the area just off the street.

Councillor Haslam agreed that there was a free parking area behind the station but claimed that it was in very bad shape and usually contained water enough to fill for the wearing of rubber boots. He felt the Oil Company was not co-operating in accordance with the original agreement made with the City.

Councillor Gormley reported that the present Police patrol was in very bad shape and brought a resolution calling for tenders for the new patrol. Councillor Gormley said he would like to pay tribute to Mr. Carl Burke for the splendid work he had done in remodeling the skating arena. He observed that not only did Mr. Burke make the place more attractive and safer, he also reduced the admission price so that a larger number of children could enjoy the benefits of the ice skate.

BY-LAW AMENDMENT
An amendment to a by-law to establish a re-letted building — is was agreed to without amendment and will be given third reading this morning at 9:00 o'clock. The amendment became necessary when the Episcopal Corporation of Charlottetown made application to build a school on Longworth Avenue on the former McClure property.

Before the amendment was taken under consideration by the Council a letter from Jean and Doris Gill was read in which they expressed amazement that the Council would consider making

Dr. Kit Entertains Capacity Audience At PWC Auditorium

On stage in the Auditorium of Prince of Wales College, last night, after spending the afternoon in a hypnotic state in a down-town store window under the gaze of hundreds of citizens, a yo-yo lady was released from her hypnotic trance by the Great Kit.

An overflow audience witnessed much of the program as carried out by Dr. Kit, in wonder and amazement and at times amid hilarious applause and laughter as the volunteer assistants drifted into antics not anticipated in the billing.

In the first brief section of the entertainment, Dr. Kit gave an unusually brilliant demonstration of sleight-of-hand which he studied in his youth and has so far perfect: it as to warrant approval from the most exacting and discerning audience.

Before going into the hypnotic portion of his entertainment, Dr. Kit explained briefly the power of suggestion which, he said, was the basis of hypnotism, stressing that the best subjects for hypnosis are the intelligent type.

Throughout the entire demonstration, in which he was assisted by more than 40 volunteers, Dr. Kit kept it well within the limits of what no one would suffer

New Warden At Dorchester

DORCHESTER, N. B. (CP) — David M. McLean, former deputy warden of the Collins Bay, Ont., penitentiary, today began his first week's work as chief administrator of the Maritimes' biggest prison here.

Mr. McLean takes over the warden's chair from the Maritime penitentiary from 66-year-old Col. G. T. Goad who retired Friday after 33 years service as warden of the grey-walled prison overlooking the Tantramar marshes in southeastern New Brunswick.

Col. Goad, provost marshal of Canada's armed forces during the Second World War, joined the penitentiary staff in 1920 as a guard and three years later became acting warden, an appointment confirmed in 1925.

Under his administration, major steps were taken toward rehabilitation of prisoners and breaking the monotony of prison life. VIOLENCE ONLY ONCE

He introduced the reading of news communiques by chaplains at the end of Sunday services in 1934 which eventually led to the receipt of newspapers. Radios were placed in cells at Christmas of the same year and became permanent fixtures two years later.

Volleyball and horseshoe pitching were introduced in the 1930s and in 1950 softball games with teams from outside the prison walls became part of the Dorchester fare.

Col. Goad became widely known in the Maritimes for his efforts to find jobs for released prisoners where they could benefit from vocational training programs introduced during his regime. Dorchester also became the first federal penitentiary to allow the showing of motion pictures.

His term as warden was marred only once when a brief outbreak of violence erupted in rioting in 1933. Mr. McLean has been in Canada's penitentiary service since 1938 when he became a guard at the British Columbia penitentiary.

in order to supply the plants and shrubs required for the Park.

Coun. Gaudet made a strong suggestion that a full time employee be taken on as a handy man around City Hall. He said Mr. Steele, who had been employed during the year as tree cutter, would be a good man for the job.

Coun. Gaudet reminded the Council that only a short time ago a resolution had been put through abolishing the very job that Coun. O'Neill was now proposing. Coun. Gaudet felt that the woman engaged in cleaning the building could come back in the morning to clean up after any evening meetings.

EMERGENCY MEETING
Coun. McCormac complained that he was not given sufficient advance notice of a special meeting at which a great many matters concerning his department had been taken up.

He explained that he was being pressed by the Department of Public Works to have the Asphalt Plant removed from its present site and when he looked the place over he found that workmen were boarding the place up for the winter. He felt that this called for immediate action and expressed his regrets to Coun. McCormac that more time had not elapsed between the notification and the meeting. The Mayor said the meeting was not actually a special meeting but an emergency meeting.

A letter of appreciation from the Red Cross swimming and safety committee expressing their thanks to the Police Department for the co-operation received during the year was read to the Council.

SEAWALL COMPLETED
Coun. O'Neill said that 253 feet of seawall had been replaced at the breakwater. He noted that the job was very satisfactory and had been carried out at a cost 20 per cent cheaper than that portion of the wall previously replaced. Coun. O'Neill made a strong plea for a greenhouse for the park attendant. He said it had come to the time when a greenhouse was necessary
