

A LOT MORE THAN FLOWING

Diverse Farm Interests Reflected By Exhibition

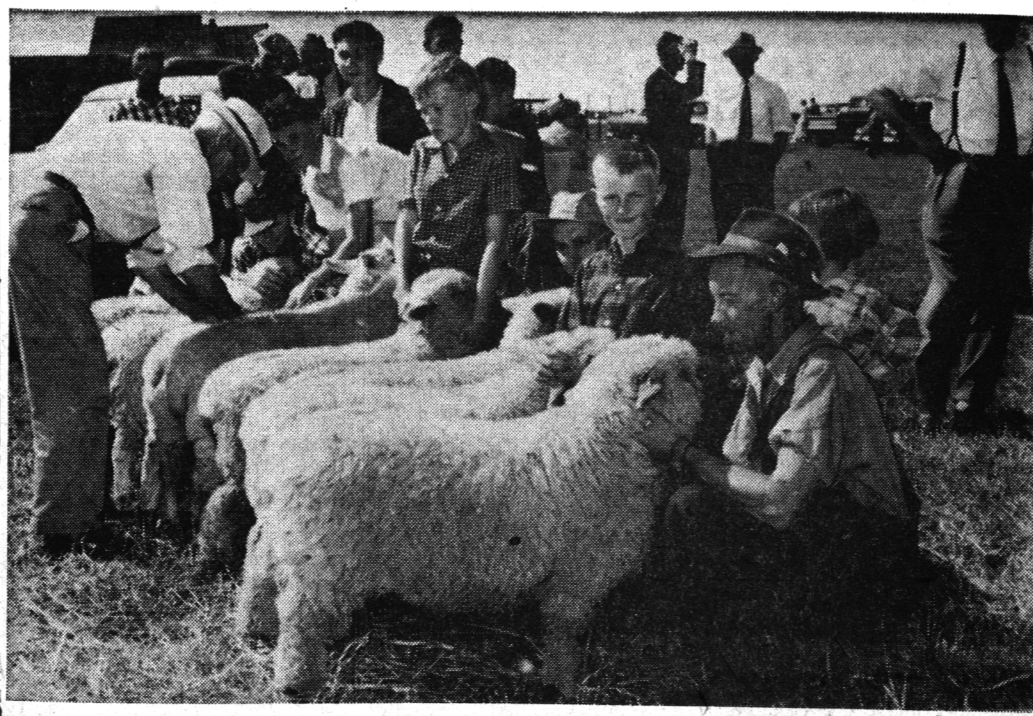

KEEN INTEREST CENTRES IN HORSES

Veteran and younger plowmen will meet tomorrow and Thursday at Dundas in the year's peak event, the Prince Edward Island Plowing Match and Agricultural Fair. The annual event draws together each year the county champions and others participating for the right to represent the province in the Dominion finals.

SPORTS EVENTS
Although the plowing matches constitute the feature of the event, prizes will also be given for livestock, flowers, fruits and vegetables. Included on the agenda for the two-day program also will be sports events for both seniors and juniors. Sprints, tug-o-wars, broad jumps, high jumps, baseball throws and many other track and field events will be contested. The senior members of the sporting fraternity get a chance to show their stuff on Wednesday while the juniors take over on Thursday. Handicrafts and women's work also are featured. Display booths will be set up for homemade delicacies such as cakes, pies, jams and breads as well as knitted wear and fancywork in a wide range. HUGE CROWDS Farm products are not neglected. The Island's renowned potatoes get particular attention from the judges in their own special display booth.

SHEEP FORM AN IMPORTANT CLASS

Types of tubers being judged include Irish Cobblers, Green Mountains, Katahdins, Sebagoes and Pontiac. Exhibitors are required to have 30 of their best in each section on hand.

The supervisory committees have been working throughout the summer in an effort to give those attending the fair the largest display in the colorful history of the exhibition.

The Dundas match has been drawing huge crowds to its grounds for many years. Generally regarded as the largest purely agricultural fair in the province, it rates that ranking insofar as the numbers are concerned.

It started back in the days of World War Two when the area branch of the "Carry on Canada Corps" staged the first match. It started on a small scale but grew in importance and in less than ten years was drawing spectators from all over the province.

Purely a plowing competition at first, other agricultural competitions were added. So were athletic sports. As a result the Dundas affair today embraces almost every phase of farm life.
