MR. AND MRS. NEIL MACLEOD
Hartsville Couple Celebrate
Their Fiftieth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Dan MacLeod, Hartsville, were recently honored on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary, by their family and friends at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan MacIntosh, Springton. Mrs. MacLeod was the former Eliza Ross of Hunter's River, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Ross of that place. Mr. MacLeod is the son of Norman MacLeod and his wife, Mary, of Hopedale. They were united in marriage by the Rev. John McCall of Hartsville Presbyterian Church on July 11th, 1916, at the home of the bride. Their witnesses were Mrs. Alex MacLennan, sister of the groom, and Mr. MacLennan.

John MacLennan acted as master of ceremonies and called on Everett Nichols who read an address, and Herbert Thompson presented them with a gift on behalf of their neighbours and friends. An address was also read by their granddaughter, Mrs. Allan Dalziel on behalf of their family and grandchildren, and their sons Allison and Orville presented them with gifts from the family. Gifts were also presented by Charlene Mac-

Phoe and Wayne Dalziel, their great-grandchildren. A number of gifts and cards of good wishes were also received from a large number of friends who called on them.

Mr. MacLeod thanked everyone present on behalf of his wife and himself. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, a gift of the family. Their daughter, Alma Ford poured tea and refreshments were served by their daughters-in-law, and granddaughters. The guest book was circulated by their grandson, Alistair MacIntosh. Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod have resided in Hartsville all their married life, and have a family of six daughters and two sons. One son died in infancy. Their daughters are: Florence Mrs. Stewart Sherren, Crapaud; (Alma) Mrs. Vernon Lord, Ch'town; (Norma) Mrs. Duncan MacIntosh, Springton; (Betty) Mrs. Gordon Dingwell, Toronto; (Ruby) Mrs. Bernard MacDonald, Toronto; Their sons are Allison, Crapaud; and Orville, Springton. They have 3 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren all of whom were present for the happy occasion, except Mrs. MacDonald who was unable to come.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

You can paint a refrigerator to match your kitchen. Wash it, use steel wool to roughen the surface, then paint with your favorite alkyl enamel.

For a really practical bed-side table, cut down the legs of two matching lamp or coffee tables and staple them, anchoring the legs. You'll have two shelves, even drawers, perhaps.

Bake sausage patties for a crowd instead of frying them. To each pound of sausage add

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Fair Beckons All From Near And Far

And what now of this day the showers following the sun's smile Tuesday so lovely? A week from east to west... Ladies off to hence, James husband of this day... Alex Peter to her, when the dawn sends a first rosy reflection into the bedroom... Ellen, are you awake? And we shall smile into our pillow, because we, who have come up the years at his side, know this is a familiar story to us. And "Ellen" he will repeat, "don't you think we should be getting up? There's nothing at all to a morning, unless one rises in good time." "But" we will say, drowsily, "the work is not pressing this week. They say it is one of those mazel patch weeded again." "I know. But I was just wondering. Are the horses to show this morning at the Fair? If so, that's something I'd like to see. All along, I didn't plan to go today. Had no notion of it! But now I reckon it this way. When the others are going, we may as well go too."

On Fair nights over the hills to the east, there where we look to greet the days new-come, the reflected lights will be bright against the sky. To call folks from rural places near and far to come to it, as Old Sol summons his sunbeams that have wandered hither and yon all day, a long rosy path to the west. And "oh dear" we shall agree when the night brings us home somewhat wearied, "we shan't come there again tomorrow, now shall we?" Yet in the freshness of another morning, and refreshed by our rest, we'll vary find ourselves on that route which takes us once more to the Fair.

At present, it is still in the offing. And of our day, we remember: marigolds against the blossoms purpling a wall, sun-

MARY HAWORTH

Little Boy Still Needs Divorced Father's Love

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I live with my father, I couldn't manage this way. This I mention because the fear of sharing your father's house might have a decisive bearing on whether Tom's visitation rights, if poorly handled by him, are nonetheless still a necessity of the boy's development. Or whether they are a source of mis-education that could be dispensed with, for the boy's sake, given a congenial granddad on the premises to be the man in Joe's life.

In my view, a boy whose parents are divorced, definitely needs substantial and continuing close association with his father, or a father-substitute. He needs this male variety of kinfolk sociability as a pattern, blueprint and/or supportive incentive to organize his own personality make-up along masculine lines.

Even if the father, or father substitute, is far from being an exemplary character, still his interest, affection, routine appearance on the scene, etc., in the father role, may be invaluablely helpful to the lad, in affording a living demonstration of the difference in composition of man and woman.

The son of divorced parents whose mother, for ambiguous reasons, contrives to establish herself as the sun, moon and stars of righteousness in his scheme of things, is in danger of missing the path to becoming a man. Better for the lad that a father figure, however faulty, bring masculinity into the picture, as an indelible reality in a child's existence.

For advice: 1. Stop quizzing Joe in detail about Tom's private life, which obliges Joe to either blab or lie, neither of which improves his character. 2. If Joe and his dad are companions, and Tom isn't hostile to you, his (Tom's) bachelor love life, though it sparks your jealousy, probably shouldn't be made an issue to disrupt the visitation arrangement.

3. Only if Tom were a malicious bad actor would you be justified in shutting him out; and if he were, your dad would be saying as much. I think M.H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

You Save Some Money With Scraps Of Bread

What happens if you drop a dime on the sidewalk? You pick it up, or persons nearby will probably help you find it. It's ready cash. You don't want to lose it.

Yet many homemakers put the equivalent of "ready cash" everyday into the garbage can, especially oddments of bread-knives.

Figures reveal that the waste in the garbage cans of the United States consists of 14 per cent baked goods, mostly white bread, which costs an average of 28¢ a loaf. Throw away the equivalent of 4¢ of a loaf and you throw away 7¢. Do that every day in the year and the sum will be the equivalent of $25.55! More than enough to buy a government bond. And yet people still scramble to help recover a "mere" dime dropped on the sidewalk.

HOW ODDMENTS OF BREAD CAN BE USED

Keep in mind that every scrap of bread is comparatively

Eglington Wl Meeting Held

The August meeting of Eglington House Wl Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Fred and Mrs. Claude Macenzie. The meeting opened with the singing of the Island Hymn, and roll call was answered by 17 members each repeating a short poem or joke.

Following the routine business the following matters were dealt with: several letters were read by the secretary and discussed by the members and a questionnaire was filled out. The Institute News was distributed among the members; reports of the Salvation Army canvass in both districts were given; the A.C.W.M.'s magazine "The Countesswoman" which had been subscribed for, was passed around; the collection was taken up and amounted to four dollars and ten cents.

Plans were then discussed for a wedding supper to be catered to by the institute, and the following committee was appointed to look after the same: Mrs. Marjorie Stead, Mrs. Russell Mills, Mrs. Leslie Underhay and Mrs. George Wood.

This Institute, comprising two school districts, donated $20 towards the Day Camp.

Two interesting contests were conducted by Mrs. Reid Underhay and Mrs. Roy Dingwell. Mrs. John MacDonald invited the members for the September meeting for which the refreshment committee will be Mrs. Fred Macenzie and Mrs. Alex Fisher. Conveyors for the program are Mrs. Laura Macenzie and Mrs. Alex Fisher.

SLOW ME DOWN

Slow me down, Lord! Ease the pounding of my heart by the quieting of my mind. Steady my hurried pace with a vision of the eternal reach of time.

Give me, amid the confusion of the day, the calmness of the everlasting hills.

Break the tensions of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory. Help me to know the magical, restoring power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking minute vacations — of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book.

Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise that I may know that the race is not always to the swift that there is more to life than increasing its speed.

Let me look upward into the branches of the towering oak and know that it grew great and strong because it grew slowly and well.

Slow me down, Lord, and inspire me to send my roots

Owen - Creighton Ceremony Is Of Interest In Ch'town

The marriage of Brenda Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Owen of Hartland, N. B., to Franklin Edgar Creighton, son of Mrs. Muriel Creighton of Fredericton, N. B., took place Saturday, August 6th, at Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Hartland, Rev. Ernest Howlett officiated. The organist was Mrs. Kenneth Keith and the soloist was Mrs. Nelson Hagerman. White chrysantheums decorated the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was in a floor length gown of silk organza fashioned in empire style with scooped neckline and bell sleeves. Extending from the waist was a panel train finished with lace trim matching the applique lace at waistline. Her headpiece was a tiered bouffant veil, held in place by organza flowers. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of gladiolus and stephanotis.

Ruth Price, maid of honor and Pamela Owen, sister of the bride, bridesmaids, were in floor length pink gowns of silk alpaca having empire waist line, scooped neck, trumpet sleeves and A-line skirts. Their headpieces were of pink tiered nylon net with organza flowers, and they carried cascade bouquets of gladiolus. Charles Ramier, was best man. John Telford, Jack MacKay and Arthur Owen brother of the bride were ushers.

Mrs. Owen, mother of the bride, was attired in a jacket dress of Italian silk knit in milk shade, the chenille jacket trimmed with gainsborough lace, with navy blue accessories, and a corsage of orange delight roses. Mrs. Creighton, mother of the groom, chose a Dior blue pure silk sheath and three-quarter coat with matching accessories and a corsage of deep pink delight roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Keswick. Pouring were Isabel Mair, aunt of the groom and Mrs. O. D. MacGregor, aunt of the bride, Beverly and Susan Agnew, cousins of the bride, circulated the guest book. Later the bride and groom left for Cape Cod and Provincetown, Mass. For travelling the bride donned a white wool suit and navy accessories. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid. Mr. and Mrs. Creighton will reside in the Laurentians.

Out of town guests included: Mrs. O. D. MacGregor, Halifax; Florence Owen, Charlottetown; and Robert Owen, Moncton.

St. John's WMS Holds Meeting

Mrs. Francis Murray was hostess to members of St. John's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, New London, for the August meeting. Mrs. Murray as devotional leader opened the meeting with prayer followed by the exposition "Called to Stewardship". Mrs. Roy Brown and Mrs. Mont MacEwen led in the season of prayer. The Bible study was led by Mrs. Angus Green with questions from the Old Testament. The program consisted of readings, "Broken Friendship", Mrs. Mont MacEwen, "A Little Thought for the Day", Mrs. Oliver Bernard, and "Let Somebody Else", Mrs. Daniel Morrison.

Fourteen members answered to roll call with a verse of scripture. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Oscar MacKay. The Flower Committee was appointed for the month of August. The next place of meeting will be with the Stanley Bridge group with Mrs. Don MacEwen as leader. Bible study will be in charge of Mrs. Angus Green; season of prayer, Mrs. Ellis Burgoyne, Mrs. Oliver Bernard and Mrs. Oscar MacKay. The secretary was asked to order the new study book, "The Church grows in Canada."
