any unpleasantness. To Mr. Douglas, the prime minister said he was not aware of any appropriation of public money to receive or entertain the Emden's crew but presumed the usual courtesies would be extended.

OTTAWA, April 29—Senator George Lynch-Staunton (Cons. Family) inquired in the Upper House today if it was the intention of the government "to take steps to have legislation passed by the Imperial Parliament to the end that the Parliament of Canada shall have the authority from time to time to amend the British North America Act as it may deem proper."

It would be folly to establish an independent nation in this country, Senator Lynch-Staunton declared. He regretted lack of "political training in the schools," and said the majority of Canadians knew little of the Dominion's constitution. "The British connection is worth something to us," the Hamilton senator said in opposing independence of Canada from the British Empire. He wanted by the question to attract interest in the question of Canada's constitution.

$175,000 For Broadcasting

OTTAWA, April 29.—Canadian political parties spent $175,000 in 1935 for broadcasting over radio networks, W. E. Powell, commercial manager of the Canadian Radio Commission, estimated today in testifying before the House Radio Committee.

Of this total, he estimated $137,000 was spent by Dominion parties in connection with the election last fall. Estimated expenditure by major parties: Conservative, $55,000; Liberal, $46,000; Reconstruction, $35,000; Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, $39,000.

These figures did not cover expenditure on single-station broadcasts.

OTTAWA, April 29.—Canadian today for weekend spent in New York, Premier Pattullo of British Columbia resumed discussions with treasury officials over various financial problems. He had no statement to give out as to their nature, Mr. Pattullo said, but reported his conversations were proceeding amicably.

Mr. Pattullo, who has been in the East for some time, announced last week the provincial bond maturity of $5,500,000 due May 15, would be financed without assistance from the federal treasury.

OTTAWA, April 29.—It was learned today no authority has been sought by Finance Minister Dunnington to enable him to extend a loan to the government of Saskatchewan which will be called upon to redeem a $2,900,000 maturity on May 1.

Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan was in Ottawa some days ago to see the Finance Minister and it is understood he asked for a federal treasury loan to enable him to meet the maturity. Mr. Patterson would have accepted the loan council scheme, rejection of which has been registered by Premier Abernethy of Alberta, while Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia has not yet registered his approval.

The Dominion Treasury is in a quandary as to the proper course to take in the event of the proposed financial agreement and in anticipation of the authority being sought by way of an amendment to the British North America Act.

OTTAWA, April 29.—It was learned today that the Executive of the Prince Edward Island Red Cross is an indication of the high regard which Miss MacMillan has won for her work while Supervisor of Women's Institutes in this province.

WHYBREA: The Executive of the Prince Edward Island Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society has learned with regret of the departure of Miss Elizabeth MacMillan, B.Sc., Supervisor of Women's Institutes from this province. AND WHYBREA: This Executive is deeply indebted to the Women's Institutes of the Province and to Miss MacMillan for continued assistance and co-operation. BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED: That this Executive record its sincere appreciation of the services rendered to this Division by Miss MacMillan as Supervisor of Women's Institutes and as a member of our Executive. Miss MacMillan recently left for Newfoundland where she has accepted a new position.

understood that had there been no question raised regarding the loan council scheme and if the necessary resolution, which has been passed on the order paper for weeks, had been processed with haste, would have been passed by the British Columbia and Saskatchewan on the basis of the proposed financial agreement and in anticipation of the authority being sought by way of an amendment to the British North America Act.

Decision Reserved In O'Donnell Appeal

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, April 29—Justice I. A. Cannon of the Supreme Court of Canada tonight reserved decision in the application for leave to appeal, entered by W. W. McKeown of Toronto on behalf of Harry O'Donnell, sentenced to hang May 5 for the "ravine murder" of Ruth Taylor, Toronto stenographer. The appeal was heard in the Judge's chambers with I. A. Humphries of the Ontario Attorney General's department representing the crown.

The girl was found dead in the ravine, off Gerrard Street, the morning of last Nov. 8. Police investigation disclosed she had been murdered and that night formally placed him under arrest, charging him with the murder.

During the trial statements made by O'Donnell prior to his arrest were admitted as evidence. Against such admission defence counsel protested on the ground O'Donnell had not been given the statutory warning, and the matter was taken to the Ontario appeal court. Three judges of the appellate division delivered unanimous judgment against the appeal.

Mr. McKeown based his argument for setting aside the provincial court's decision on the ground it conflicted with the judgment of the court of King's Bench of Quebec in a similar case. Crystallized by Justice Cannon, the argument was as follows:

"The Ontario Court of Appeal found in law that statements or declarations may be voluntary even if no warning is given, while in the Sileksi case (citing the Quebec Court's judgment) it seems to lay down that the accused, if all rested, must be warned 'plainly.'"

Appellant counsel detailed the relevant points at issue. About 11 o'clock on Nov. three city detectives went to the gasoline filling station where O'Donnell worked. One of them, Detective Sergeant McGrath, told O'Donnell they were police, wanted to ask him a few questions and desired him to accompany them to O'Donnell's home.

There was no caution given him," Mr. McKeown added. The four then proceeded to O'Donnell's home, 67 Hollywood Crescent, where they asked him "certain questions, particularly as to the clothes he had worn on the night of Nov. 4."

After that, continued counsel, the man was conducted to police headquarters where he was kept. At different times detectives asked him questions, and at 4 p. m. he was asked if he would make a statement as to his movements on the night in question. O'Donnell answered that he had already told them and repeated the outline of those movements. That was taken down by the police stenographer, but it was not signed by O'Donnell. That statement was put in evidence at the trial, Mr. McKeown said.

He continued to be held at police headquarters, and about 10 p. m. was formally charged with murder, and given the statutory warning. As he was warned (that anything he said might be taken down and used as evidence against him), O'Donnell refused to say anything.

Mr. McKeown said, "that he was clearly, from the time those detectives came to see him, under detention. In fact, McGrath admitted that O'Donnell was 'technically' under arrest."

This had been disclosed in the detective's cross examination. O'Donnell's freedom had been restricted, he said.

After this accused was formally arrested," said Mr. McKeown, the police had attempted to trick him into admitting his previous statement. They tried to change a few words of the document transcribed by the police stenographer in order to obtain from O'Donnell an admission.

Abbott took the stand yesterday and told Magistrate Martin he had driven slowly to the crossing the night of the collision and had not seen the backing yard-locomotive until just before it smashed into the left side of his automobile.

The car had been pushed about 15 feet by the engine, Abbott said. Mrs. Johnson had been flung out its side and the car had rolled over almost upside down. He said he had not been drinking before the collision and there had been no liquor in the car.

Other witnesses examined yesterday were Dr. Tidmarsh, recalled, Mrs. Belma Larmer, mother of Mrs. Johnson, Ivan Smith, and Chief of Police Birwistle.

Magistrate Martin said he was not satisfied with the evidence and adjourned the case until May 12.

Fishermen's Grant

ated with Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia. The fund would be available only for those provinces in which the Federal Government controlled fisheries. It would not apply to the inland fisheries on the Great Lakes or other waters but would apply to part of Quebec.

A remark by Mr. Michaud the vote was in the nature of relief drew a protest from Mr. Finn who declared something should be done for the men who were fishing and those who could not fish should be cared for by the Old Age Pensions. Fishermen risked their lives just seeking a living. The Minister of Fisheries represented a fishing Province and should not shrink his responsibility to the fishermen.

Wholesalers took a large amount of the difference between two and 15 cents a pound, what the fisherman was paid and what the consumer paid, Mr. Finn said. The Federal treasury was paying a fixed price for wheat and he asked why there could not be fixed prices for fish.

Angus MacInnis (C. G. P., Vancouver South) said he had no objection to the vote but apparently the Minister did not know how it would be spent. He believed something should be done to foster co-operative projects among fishermen or the money would be wasted.

Bennett said it came down to a question of control over the money, considering the fact 50 per cent of the money would be spent by the Provinces. Among 86,000 fishermen, $300,000 would be re-established, the Dominion must assume full control of its money.

A few suggestions for helping fishermen which he thought would be more practical than handing out money were outlined by Mr. Neil. He said the important things in a fisherman's life were a plentiful supply of fish and a good market. Given these any fisherman could make a living.

His suggestions, relating especially to the Pacific Coast, were: Abolish trap fishing, reduce the price of gasoline by lowering the tariff, restrict seine fishing, restore the bounty for killing sea lions, extend the killing of fur seals by fisheries patrol boat crews, drive the backfish out of the Gulf of Georgia.

The trouble with Maritime fishermen, said J. J. Kinley (Lib. Lunenburg), was they had lost their bargaining power and were forced to take whatever was offered. One of the reasons for this was the steam trawler which turned wholesale companies into primary producers. Many experts believed the trawler should be abolished if Maritime fishermen were to survive.

The discussion continued until the 11 o'clock adjournment hour.

RUSSELL ABBOTT COMMITTED TO SUPREME COURT

Russell Abbott of Charlottetown yesterday was committed to stand Supreme Court trial on a charge of manslaughter by Magistrate K. M. Martin.

The manslaughter charge was laid against him after the death of Mrs. Mary Johnson from injuries suffered in a railroad crossing collision while driving with him April 20. Abbott's car was struck by a yard-locomotive at Grafton Street crossing. Mrs. Johnson had a badly fractured skull when she was taken from the wrecked automobile. She died later in hospital.

Abbott took the stand yesterday and told Magistrate Martin he had driven slowly to the crossing the night of the collision and had not seen the backing yard-locomotive until just before it smashed into the left side of his automobile.

OPPOSITION

they were not even appealed to for assistance, and that's another factor I want explained."

"He went on to point out that the draggermen were the men who should have been brought in when the mine first collapsed.

"Another pertinent question in this aftermath will be directed to Hon. Michael Dwyer regarding the status of the mine manager, F. D. Henderson. He charged the manager was involved in a similar disaster some time ago. Rumors that the pillars of ore supporting the roof were pillaged, leaving the mine in a dangerous condition will also be probed," he declared.

Premier Macdonald told the Globe how he was introducing a notice of motion today congratulating the rescuers and supervisors on their remarkable work. He said a copy would be sent to all who assisted. Minister of Mines Dwyer and Minister of Health F. R. Davis, who attended the entombment men below the surface, were absent from today's session.

"Preparations were completed for their reception when they take their seats tomorrow."

Mr. Dwyer said, "I should like to know whether Mr. Harrington gave that interview?"

Did Not Know He Was Being Interviewed

Apparently taken back by the reading of this report the leader of the opposition arose and said: "I am not sure that I have recognized that phraseology used there."

He admitted two Toronto reporters, one from the Telegram, and one from the Globe, had asked him his views on that particular day and he had given them.

In the report read by Mr. Dwyer, he had recognized some of the statements; others he could not hear. He had not the slightest notion he was being interviewed by these two newspapermen and the reading of the report was "like a shot from ambush."

"I must say my information is entirely what I got from newspapers but I am informed the mine was under water last January," said Col. Harrington. "The mine started to operate with 30 men and from January to April there was no inspection carried out by the Department of Mines. That is my information. Further there was an ore mill working on that property without a license from the government and one cannot operate an ore mill without a license from the government. Therefore the government knew the property at Moose River was being operated."

"Where do you get the authority for that statement?" asked Premier Macdonald.

"There was a mill operating there. Perhaps the Minister of Mines will tell us if he knew of it," replied the opposition leader.

Mr. Dwyer reiterated his first request, asking Col. Harrington if the statements in the Globe report were true. Col. Harrington's answer was that the Department of Mines knew a mill was being operated with ore taken from the Magill mine.

"Where did you get that?" demanded Mr. Dwyer.

"He will find correspondence in his solicitor's office relating to that matter," answered Col. Harrington. "Mines must be registered and I suggest this mine was being operated against the law."

"He is not answering my question, again complained the Minister of Mines, and said: "I suggest Mr. Dwyer is sorry he asked it," said the Colonel.

At this point the Speaker called him to a point of order and the leader of the opposition said an attack was being made upon himself and he wanted to answer it in his own way. If he was stopped from giving his answer in the House he would certainly answer it elsewhere. Only physical force would prevent him from making a full reply.

"Will it be pistols or swords outside?" shouted the Mines Minister. Again the Speaker called for order.

"Where were the plans of that mine under the Metalliferous Regulation Act," demanded Col. Harrington.

Demands Answer

"I again demand an answer. I asked a simple question
