

The Making of Sandwiches.

That convenient arrangement which perpetuates the name of its originator, the earl of sandwich is a great favorite with picknickers.

Sandwiches to be good must be nicely made. The bread must be neither too stale nor too fresh; it must be cut into thin pieces not larger than three inches by four, daintily spread with butter, and two slices put together with some relish between.

Ham sandwiches are the most common. The ham should be well boiled; it is then chopped very fine or grated, spread evenly over one slice of bread, a second place over it, and the two slices pressed gently but firmly together. The mustard, however, is generally liked, and adds to the relish.

When it is not convenient to boil a whole ham, and but a small number of sandwiches are to be made, the ham may be nicely cooked by cutting into thin slices and steaming until thoroughly done.

Sandwiches may also be made out of light rolls, but bread is best for the purpose. They may be varied indefinitely by using different kinds of fillings. The following will be found nice relishes for filling, and will give considerable variety:

Place one cupful of grated or finely chopped ham in an earthen bowl, and two tea-spoonfuls of melted butter. Stir and work together until all is mixed into a smooth mass. The yolks of two hard-boiled eggs may be added or omitted, as preferred.

Corned or plain boiled meat makes good sandwiches. Chop fine, to each cupful add one level tea-spoonful of salt, one of pepper, one of mustard, two table-spoonfuls of melted butter, or four of the water in which the meat was boiled. Mix thoroughly.

A good spiced filling can be made by changing the seasoning; instead of the pepper and mustard, use one-third tea-spoonful of allspice, not quite so much cinnamon, and a small pinch of ginger.

Tongue for sandwiches should be chopped into very tiny pieces, or chopped. A small quantity of mustard on it is a great improvement, but it will require no other seasoning.

Still another filling is made as follows: Take one can of fresh or pickled oysters; drain from the liquor, and look them over carefully to remove all bits of shell. With a sharp knife cut each oyster into three or four pieces. Grate stale bread or crackers; to each cupful of prepared oysters take one cupful of crumbs, and enough liquor to partially moisten. Have ready a pan with the small quantity of butter; turn in the oysters after they have been well mixed with the crumbs, and fry brown, but not hard.

But the nicest and most aristocratic sandwich is that made of ham and chicken breast, and known as the Royal sandwich. The bread should be the stale french roll. The ham sliced as thin as it can be, and the chicken breast removed from the bone, and thinly sliced across the grain. The only seasoning is mustard mixed with the yolk of a hard-boiled egg. The mustard is thinly spread on the ham and covered with sliced chicken and placed between buttered slices of the roll.—Harper's Bazar.

Feasts of the Ancients.

The Romans had fixed, movable and occasional feasts; the Egyptians made them of such moment that it is recorded of one that nearly 750,000 of men and women were present; while the East Indians make their festivals quite beyond the usual range of our imaginations with numbers and with variety. The Jews had an immense variety of feasts, all of sacred nature, among them being the Sabbath, the Passover, the Pentecost, the Feast of Trumpets—making a day on which every one's doom for eternity was supposed to be set down, although with mitigating possibilities, in the case of disastrous doom, should repentance take place before death—the Feast of Tabernacles, the Purim, and the Dedication; while the Christian church has, with others, its Advent, Christmas, Epiphany, Easter and Whitsuntide, all joyous spiritual feasts.—Harper's Bazar.

Home Tenderness.

No matter how busy a man may be he should find time every day to tell his wife he loves her. No matter what social demands may be made upon the woman, she should find time to kiss her husband and give him one of those smiles that were so sweet to him when he came courting her. No matter what their daily cares, the parents should find time to take the children upon their knees and caress them with kind words and tender touches.—Mrs. H. S. Lake.

Given in Good Faith.

"To clean teeth use a mixture of emery and sweet oil, following it with plenty of kerosene." This would seem to be queer advice, but as it is taken from a machinists' magazine, and from a chapter relating to circular saws, we have no doubt it is given in good faith.—Boston Post.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS. FROM THE SON: "28 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 28, 1882. Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the enclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case. Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the Sarsaparilla in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882. Yours gratefully, HIRSH PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Itches, Sores, Bolls, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

New and Original Departure in Coal Cooking Stoves COMBINING DURABILITY, HEAT AND ECONOMY.

This Out represents my Patent Fire King Cooking Stove, with the oven, and lining partially drawn out.

THE above stove I invented and patented in 1876, and at the present time HUNDREDS ARE IN USE, giving perfect satisfaction. A large number have been in constant use for eight years, and the repairs have been very trifling, in many instances none have been required. This valuable experience should be sufficient evidence of their durability, which is accounted for in the following:—It has instead of a Lined Fire Box, two heavy Curved Cylinders, which obviate the expense connected with all Square Cooking Stoves of being compelled to renew Linings and Grates, at least once or twice every year. The heat being radiated from the Cylinders to the floor, where most needed, overcomes a serious objection to all kinds of ordinary Coal Cooking Stoves. The Cylinders are situated directly under the cover holes, and a fire may be made in one or both, thus adapting it for use either in winter or summer, with equal satisfaction, besides effecting a great saving to fuel. I have also attached the PATENT TELESCOPE OVEN to all my Elevated Oven Wood Stoves, such as the Waterloo, Niagara, Star, &c., causing the thousands using them to exclaim:—My Stoves are worth TEN DOLLARS MORE than the same kind made by other founders. The trade and retail purchasers will please bear in mind the fact that although a great advantage is claimed for my own Ovens above all others, they cost no more, and being the sole manufacturer and patentee, no other foundry can supply. Enquire for Fawcett's Patent Telescope Oven, and if your dealer has none on hand send direct to the Sackville Store Foundry.

I am adding several new and handsome Patterns this season, which, with my former large variety of One Hundred Different Patterns and Sizes of Cooking, Parlor, Office and Hall Stoves, also Farmers Boilers, Hollowware, Ploughs, Stove Pipes and Tiuware, comprise the most complete assortment offered by any manufacturer in the Lower Provinces. Terms and prices will be found as favorable as can be obtained elsewhere.
