relief of such widows and orphans as are un-

At a meeting of the inhabitants of Crapaud, held in accordance with the suggestion of the Secretary of the Central Committee in Charlottetown, for the purpose of appointing Local Committees to raise subscriptions in aid of the Patriotic Fund,
January 27th, 1855.
The Rev. David H. Parrotther was called to the chair, and Mr. William Reid was appointed Secretary.
The Rev. Parrotther for calling the meeting and the proceedings of the public meeting in Charlottetown having been read, the Chairman entered into a detail of the origin of the war, and concluded his very touching and animated address by calling upon all to manifest their sympathy with those gallant men who are fighting the battle of Europe's Independence.

Whereupon it was resolved.

That this meeting fully acquiesces in the sentiment that it is the duty of every one cheerfully to do his share in the great struggle between despotism and freedom, now going on in the Crimea, and to manifest his cordial sympathy with all who are engaged in that noble work.

In order to give expression to this sentiment, this meeting pledge themselves not only to contribute towards the necessities of the widows and orphans of the British soldiers, sailors and marines, who may suffer from the consequences of the war, but to use our influence to induce others to do the same.

That the following gentlemen be named as a Local Committee, viz:—William Roderson, William Dawson, and George Wigington, William Reid, Secretary and Treasurer.

The Chairman having announced that a subscription list was then opened, but the list of subscriptions is omitted, under the Committee report their doings as agreed upon, on or after the first day of March next.

The meeting was then dismissed by the Chairman after the Doxology, Prayer God from whom &c.

WILLIAM REID, Secretary.

No. 4.

It was the opinion of Dr. Rush, that singing by young ladies, who the customs of society debar from many other kinds of healthy exercise, is a salutary, not to say an essential, part of a well regulated and healthful education, but as a means of preserving health.
He particularly insists, that vocal music should not be neglected in the education of a young lady, and writes, "It is the most salutary operation in soothing the cares of domestic life, it has a still more direct and important effect. "If here introduce a fact," says the doctor, "which has been suggested to me by my profession, that is, the exercise of the voice, in singing, contributes very much very much to defend them from those diseases, to which the climate and other causes expose them, and which would otherwise be the consumption, nor, say I have ever known more than one instance of the spitting of blood amongst them, this I believe is in part contributed by the strength which their lungs acquire by exercising them frequently in vocal music, which constitutes an essential branch of their education. "It is the master of our academy" says Gardiner, "has furnished me with an observation still more in favour of this practice. He writes, "I have had known several instances of persons strongly disposed to consumption, restored to health by the exercise of their voices, and he has seen the establishment of infant schools for children of three or four years of age, every thing is taught by singing. Their little lessons, their recitations, their arithmetical countings, are all chanted; and as they feel the importance of their own voices when joining together, they emulate each other in the pursuit of perfecting this exercise. It is found to be very beneficial to their health. Instances have occurred of weakly children, having their voices robust and healthy by this constant exercise of the lungs; these results are perfectly philosophical, singing tends to expand the lungs, and thus increase the activity and powers of the vital organs. As a more exercise, it is considered by many physicians as a most valuable means of strengthening the lungs, and tranquillity of mind is of more value in restoring the bodily powers than muscular exertion. How soothing is the effect of singing in the system, it relieves the system, refuses food, terror becomes faint a pale and long continued anxiety, and the strongest, and the most powerful, and the most effective, and while it calms the mind, it the body.

TO THE EDITOR OF HAZARD'S GAZETTE:

Sir,—In a late communication I endeavoured to show the necessity of material improvement, which is not effected even by those whose antiquated notions, and absurd conclusions, lead them to look with suspicion and doubt on the introduction of steam, water, gas, and other improvements, as innovations on the good old times that governed and served their great grandfathers in days gone by. Now, sir, as the above improvements are as sure to follow the agitation of them, as that the sun will rise tomorrow, let us see how they are to be accomplished. In the first place let us have a well digested Act of incorporation stripped of all the trappings and gew-gaws of a Lord Mayor's show, let us in this enlightened age have all that is useful, and at the same time dignified, at the least possible cost to the people, supplied for Town divided into wards, each ward to return three town councillors who, at their first meeting would have power to elect their chief Magistrate for Magistrate for 2 years, if this gentleman, if judiciously chosen, in addition to his duties as Chairman of city Council, in a small Town like this, and in some respects, than a Magistrate, with an experienced Lawyer as Town Clerk (or Recorder) decide Small Debt cases, &c. the Council in operation, let them borrow a sufficient amount of money, and let them do the following improvements: first a good system of under-ground sewerage, and a supply of pure water for domestic purposes, and let them to supply our engines in the event of fire; second, let our side paths, public wharves, and squares, be put in proper order, and our streets lighted up with Gas, and let no time be lost in filling up those mud traps, which are not only dangerous to the health of the community, but which allow them to exist in their present disipated condition. These are improvements which as a Magistrate of course must be carried out, if we are desirous of keeping pace with the neighbouring provinces, many of which are less favoured by nature, and are in some respects not a whit more able to accomplish the above objects than the people of Charlottetown are. Let us look for moment at what Quebec, St. John N. B. and Fredericton, and other places in N. E. and other Towns have suffered by fire and pestilence, and ask ourselves, if we have not great reason to feel thankful that we have been exempted from passing through these destructive and expensive ordeal! Let me with all due deference say on this subject, that we have not only been warned you to put your House in order, we are overanxious, when but ill prepared to contend with such great calamities, but should you still continue to disregard the many warnings which have been so repeatedly brought under your notice, and be assured that our ponny-wadd pound-foolish system, will bring down on the people a just punishment for their continued contempt and repeated violation of those laws which have been so often and so creatively times; I shall be glad to discuss the question of a Municipal Corporation, if you please.

I am, Sir, Yours &c.

TWO PRIZES.—The Paris Academy of Sciences have kept, since 1819, a standard offer of a prize of one hundred thousand frances, for a prescription which would, "in an immediate manner, prevent the progress of the Cholera. At the sitting of the Academy, in December last, multitudes of communications respecting the disease were received, but the report was "that not one of them contained any thing of importance, and will now be given for a positive, certain indication of the causes of the Asiatic cholera, so that, by the removal of them, it could be prevented, or, if it occurred, it would be a prophylactic (a sure preventive) of a plague." It is a prize of 5,000 francs, such is, likewise, a prize of 5,000 francs for a demonstration of the existence, in the terrestrial atmosphere, of a miasmatic or mias-matic operative in the production or propagation of epidemic diseases.
