'CHICAGO DEADLINE' AT CAPITOL, SUMMERSIDE

Paramount's "Chicago Deadline," starring Alan Ladd and Donna Reed, which opened today at the Capitol Theatre, is an exciting blend of mystery and romance with more than its quota of thrill-packed action. A staccato-paced story of a racket-busting newspaper reporter who is fighting blood as well as printer's ink in his veins, the film never falters as it moves to a breathtakingly suspenseful climax. Ladd, as the two-fisted ace reporter, Ed Adams, who has a nose for news, an eye for pretty girls and a talent for trouble, gives an expert performance. The role is tailor-made for the popular star, and his dynamic personality registers heavily every moment he's on the screen.

As the glamorous, enigmatic Rosita Jean D'ur, lovely Donna Reed keeps pace with Ladd. Her brilliant portrayal of a woman who was loved and hated does much to sustain the dramatic intensity of "Chicago Deadline." The suspenseful story, told through flashbacks, deals with the efforts of Chronicle reporter Adams to unravel the mystery shrouding the events leading up to the death of a beautiful young woman. Pressure of all sorts, from oral persuasion to bullets, is exercised to make him drop the investigation, but he refuses to be intimidated. The result is a rousing climax that features one of the most exciting gun battles ever seen on the screen.
