

Canadian Hockey Player Lies Injured

Kenny Beardon of the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League lies injured on the ice in the second game played with the New York Rangers in Montreal April 1st. Beardon will be out of hockey for the remainder of the game with a dislocated shoulder. The Rangers won this game by a 3-2 score.

able Little Pat 1:58 1/2 at Delaware, Ohio. They also owned the double-gaited Guy Abbey stallion. The Abbott 2:00 1/2, campaigned for them by Franklin Safford who later converted him to the pace and gave him a fast record. The Sullivan & Mawhinney stable was without question in the years they raced not only the top stable in Maine and the Maritimes but perhaps one of the best anywhere.

The Directors of the Charlottetown Driving Park and Provincial Exhibition Association are planning on an even larger program of harness racing than last year. Providing training conditions are satisfactory the first night race meet will be held on June 17, if not on June 24th, and these Saturday night meetings will continue during the season, and the Old Home Week meet August 14th to 19th. This being the 60th anniversary it has been named Diamond Jubilee Year and to make it fitting great plans are being worked out for the building of barns for the show, stables, etc., the improvement of the race track and a 50 per cent addition to the lighting system. Not only that but the race programs will be better, with more encouragement in the form of purses so that more horses will be attracted here and patrons will see some of the finest contests in years.

A good deal of the credit for Old Home Week racing program will be shared with the merchants of Charlottetown who are sponsors for the races that week. Classes will be named for them and these will be extensively advertised. Following are the sponsors: DeBlouis Bros., Ltd., Wholesale Grocers; Moore & McLeod, Ltd., Dry Goods; Prowse Bros., Ltd., Dry Goods; Hughes Drug Store, Ltd.; S. A. MacDonald, Dry Goods; Henderson & Cudmore, Haberdashers; W. G. Barbour, Dodge & DeSola, Jenkins Pharmacy; The Rexall Drug Store; R. T. Morrison, Charlottetown, Summerside and New Glasgow, N. S.; Edison Electric, Contractors; A. Pickard & Co., John Deere Farm Tractors; Central Creameries, Charlottetown, Summerside & Souris; Milton's Old Spain, Restaurant; Carvell Bros., Ltd., Wholesale Grocers; Hamby & Innis, Men's & Boys' Wear; Victoria Driving Club; Jack Cameron, The Store for Men; S. R. Johnston, Ltd., Ford Car Dealer; The Rogers Hardware Co., Ltd.; The Pure Milk Company, Ltd.

We have an inquiry for the summary of the famous seven-heat race which took place at Fredericton Exhibition, September 17, 1913. As far as we are aware there has never been a seven-heat race since and certainly not one that was so bitterly contested—2:19 Trot-2:22 Pace, Purse $400—Devilish Dorothy (Cameron) 4-7-2-1-2-1-1; Dan Paine (Carroll) 1-1-3-3-3-3; Lady Belle (Dugan) 8-4-6-2-1-2-2; Nate Alcayoner (Brickley) 5-6-5-4-3-4-4; Hanson 7-5-4-5-4-dr.; The Patchen Lady 6-2-1-dr.; Northern Light 2-3-8-dr.; Prince Baron 3-3-7-dr. Time — 2:19 1/2, 2:20 1/2, 2:18 1/4, 2:20 1/4, 2:19 1/4, 2:24.

Devilish Dorothy was a trotting mare by Dare Devil, a famous sire at the farm of Thomas W. Lawson, a multi-millionaire speculator of Boston. She was purchased at a sale there by the late Dr. J. T. Jenkins, and raced under his colors by Fred Cameron in the above event. Dr. Jenkins is the grandfather of Colonel J. S. Jenkins of this city. Dan Paine, that was second to Devilish Dorothy, was purchased by Patrick Doherty in Illinois the year previous. It appears that he had the choice of Dan Paine or a two-year-old stallion, William, that had shown a lot of speed. He preferred Dan Paine, won some races with him, but on the other hand William went on to become a world's champion three-year-old and later took a record of 1:58 1/4. Dan Paine was driven by the famous Peter Carroll.

The other horses were all top racers of that era and we may say that speculation was very heavy as would naturally be expected at that time. Fred Cameron was the leading driver at that meeting, winning third with Diggola, owned by Bert Mitchell of Halifax, in the 2:18 pace capturing first two heats in 2:13 1/4, 2:13 1/4. He was first with Upton Prince, owned by Dr. J. T. Jenkins, in the two-year-old trot, fourth in the 2:14 pace with Alfio. The race was won by Frank Patch, owned and driven by Frank Adams of Halifax, and Fred won the 2:16 pace with Diggola in straight heats and drove Vesta Boy to fourth place in the Free-For-All which was won by Frank Patch. Other prominent drivers at that meeting were Monte Gerow, Tommy Raymond, Peter Carroll and Bill Sharen—after whom the famous trotter was named. They have all passed on but Driver Fred is still with us and will no doubt read the above and hark back in memory to those stirring days.

REMEMBER WHEN

By The Canadian Press

Lester Patrick, then manager of the New York Rangers, went into goal 22 years ago tonight in place of Lorne Chabot for more than half of a Stanley Cup game, and held Montreal Maroons to only one goal. Manager Patrick was 44 years old then. Rangers won the game 2-1, the Cup and the League championship that year.

COINED WORD

The word "gas" was invented by J. B. van Helmont about 1640 to describe the gas now known as carbon dioxide.

HOW EVERYTHING CHANGED FOR THE BETTER

By Fred Rackliffe

He was a self-admitted failure. Then a remarkable and thorough Christian experience transformed him into a dynamic and successful man. This is the story of Fred Rackliffe, president of Rackliffe Brothers, New Britain, Connecticut, one of the oldest hardware concerns in the state.

Clem Mortenson and I were close friends and Clem was concerned about the way I was going. He urged me to attend a meeting at which the missionary E. Stanley Jones was speaking. I didn't know him from Adam. I just went to please Clem.

I was so impressed with what Jones said that I accepted his challenge that this nation was going to go Communist or Fascist unless thinking men went back to the churches and got to work for the Kingdom of God.

I could not wait to call my minister the next morning. When I announced, "I am reporting for duty," he was so flabbergasted he wanted to wait a few days to think it over. I hadn't been going to church at all — couldn't be bothered, just played golf, slept, and read the paper on Sunday morning.

Years before I wanted to be a minister, but my father said to forget it and go into the family hardware business. My getting away from church dated from the time I began to drink. After we got married, we had a family and stayed home and took care of them. It wasn't through any error or weakness; we just drifted.

"A Good Fellow"

I got started drinking by just being a good fellow. I wasn't a hard drinker. Just drank when out with a group, but then when I had one drink I couldn't stop. I never drank alone, but I drank socially. When I drank socially I drank more than I should. I stopped drinking because I made an awful mess of things one night. It broke me all up and I never took another drink.

I am afraid to talk too much about my Christian experience on the theory that I will let my ego into it. The minute you start doing that you begin to think you are somebody. Perhaps God has used me as an instrument; let's look at it that way. Otherwise I will be taken for an awful sleigh ride some day. As long as Rackliffe remembers where his place is, he will get along all right.

I have got to keep my humility and have got to keep it 100 per cent. However, if writing about my experience will help anybody get the great thing that came to me, it will be worth while.

I think from the time I went back into the church on a clean 100 per cent basis and meant what I said. "Not my will but Thine be done", and tried to live the life I should live, from that time on everything flowed toward me. Instead of away from me, I enjoyed happiness. I hadn't enjoyed for years. I was released.

Many Things Cleared Up

The minute I turned from the things I had been doing (it was not the Christian life I was living), the minute I started to put my mind on God and on God's will, many things cleared up right away.

I had a terrific temper before. My wife says that I am different to live with now. I feel a sense of control I didn't have before.

You cannot be a percentage Christian. If you think for one minute you can be 88 per cent Christian and 14 per cent unchristian, the 14 per cent will cause your downfall. You can't make a deal with God. You are either all Christian or not-Christian, if you want to be successful. You cannot compromise.

When I reported back to the minister, the first job he gave me was to take charge of the discussion at "The People's Fifteen Minutes" at church every Thursday night. That assignment made me stand up and tell the whole gang why I was back in church.

Then, in order to have the proper discussions on the assigned topics, I had to go to see a few people each week before the meeting and ask them to help me out in the discussion. In that way I got to know people and realized that there were a fine lot of people in the church. I asked them to say something on their favorite scripture passage in the meeting so that I wouldn't be talking the entire fifteen minutes. In this way I got them to talk. I planted people in the audience to start discussions. No More Resentment

Perhaps my experience with resentment is the biggest thing in my new life. I used to make myself miserable with resentment and ill-will. I read, "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, saith the Lord." That gave me the idea that "getting even" is God's business. If you take the same amount of thinking and planning that you have been putting on resentment and getting even with somebody and put it on the positive side, you will really get somewhere.

I pass it over to the Lord, and it relieves me no end. Resentment passes and inner peace comes.

It is wonderful to be able to look at somebody else and enjoy with him his success without saying enviously. "Why is he entitled to that?" Now I can get a lot of real joy out of other people's success. I enjoy it; bask in it. I used to hate it, I used to get sun-burned in it.

I don't claim to be a saint. I have times when I would like to throw the whole thing out the window and forget it. Such is human frailty, but every time I feel that way new strength is given me.

The ability to take criticism and grow under it is the mark of a man. I used to bridle up. My pride made me touchy.

A Real Humility

My secretary did me the most good. One day she said, "Don't you know that we all know you are the president of this company?"

I stopped to think a minute and then laughed and said, "Why have I been trying to impress you?" She said, "And how!"

Ever since she said that, I have tried to develop a real humility without being "milk toast".

Christianity isn't just a Sunday exercise. It is an every-day-of-the-week proposition. I enjoy going to church because the type of sermons I hear in our church are down-to-earth, real, vital, every-day stuff. They send me out with a spring in my step. Christianity works. It has made everything different. I have found my answer.

FIRE IN FORD PLANT

DETROIT, April 7 — (AP) — Fire swept the Ford Motor Company's applied physics building today. Valuable equipment for scientific research was destroyed. Ford spokesmen said the loss would amount to several hundred thousand dollars at least. The fire started while an oil quenching tank was being heated for use in tempering iron and steel parts.
