QUIZ

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

West North East South
 1 ♠ Pass Pass 7

What would you now bid with each of the following five hands?

- ♠KJ7 ♣Q72 ♣K95 ♣K74
- ♠K982 ♣7 ♣J84 ♣AJ3
- ♠AK2 ♣J964 ♣Q754 ♣AS
- ♠A4 ♣97 ♣A852 ♣KQJ98
- ♠A7 ♣92 ♣AKQ964 ♣K98

1. One notrump. Special rules of bidding apply when the opponents die at a low part score contract and the last bid has the choice of passing or contesting the part score. The last bid—in this case, South—is said to be in the balancing position.

Rather than give up the hand when the opponents betray weakness, the last bidder frequently keeps things going with less values than the bid he makes would normally indicate. Thus, in this hand, South may balance with a notrump bid even though he has less than the 16 to 18 points customarily required for such a call. Because of the balanced distribution, the notrump bid is preferable to a takeout double.

2. One spade. Since there is not sufficient all-around strength to justify a takeout double, and it is not desirable to give up at one heart without fighting for the

Alberta's Fur Trade Fading, Quick Survey Would Indicate

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE. Alta. (CP) — A century ago men died to protect their fur lines in this foothills area 100 miles northwest of Calgary. Today, fur trapping is only a part-time job for a handful of Indians and white men.

Only a few old-timers are keeping the fur business alive and once they are gone, it is unlikely any one will take their place. Young Indians, who in former years would spend their lives on the trap lines, seek more profitable jobs in the lumber camps or road gangs.

Six white men and about 10 elderly Indians set their traps this winter, but report that so far returns have been poor. They blame a shortage of squirrels and weasels, the two furs that could make trapping profitable.

MORE QUIET YEARLY

Each year, more of the veterans stay at home. Ivor Thompson, for example, who for 30 years plodded up and down the North Saskatchewan River and has the only registered trap line northwest of the river, says this year there wouldn't be enough profit to warrant any effort.

Finding a market is the biggest difficulty. M. A. Wolkow, for many years the only full-time fur buyer in the area, died last summer and most of this year's catch will be sold in either Calgary or Edmonton.

The trappers say changes in women's styles are the biggest factors influencing the decline of the fur market. Long-haired animals are old fashioned, replaced by short synthetic furs, cheaper and easier to handle.

In 1943 a good fisher pelt drew $55; this year the same pelt is worth $18. Fifteen years ago beaver sold for $30; today, for less than one-third the price. Fox and marten once were worth $35 but reached a top price of only $11 this year.

Test Field Sown Vegetable Crops

OTTAWA. — Vegetables that are usually started in cold frames are being seeded directly into the field at the Experimental Farm, Charlottetown, and considerable saving of labor is achieved thereby, claims G. C. Warren, horticulturist.

A three-year test of cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts showed that the plants that were field-sown matured only two weeks later than plants field set at the same time, and matured a month quicker than plants seeded in cold frames at the same time and transplanted later.

The argument against direct seeding has been largely one of seed waste, but this can be cut by thoroughly preparing the ground and by using a seed spreader. Seed should be carefully treated with the necessary fungicides and insecticides before sowing, and extra seed should be planted to take care of losses through faulty germination and other causes, says Mr. Warren.

Free Trade Referred To By Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson Monday suggested that Canada and the United States consider joining a European free trade area.

He made the suggestion in the Commons as he criticized what he called the growing dependence of Canada on the U.S. under "increasingly one-sided" arrangements for continental defence.

Mr. Pearson said that if the United Kingdom joins a European free trade area in which Canada and the U.S. are not associated, "it will be extremely bad for Canada both economically and politically."

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints, each day the code letters are different.
