

Ten Killed In Morocco After Pasha, 82, Fired At

MARRAKESH, Morocco (Reuters)—Ten persons were killed and 27 injured here Thursday in riots after an unsuccessful attempt on the life of the 81-year-old Pasha of Marrakesh, an official announcement said Thursday night.

The death included one of the guards of El Glaoui, the pro-French pasha whose car was held up by a crowd of demonstrators as he left the French residence after a call on the new French resident-general, Gilbert Grandval.

The condition of seven of the injured was described as "very serious". The fire brigade was summoned to the scene of 45 outbreaks during the day. Scores of demonstrators were arrested.

A cordon of white-gowned Berber guards ringed the pasha's palace Thursday after the assassination attempt.

The Berber tribesmen, ardent supporters of the pasha, were brought here Wednesday to reinforce local police who feared pro-nationalist disturbances in connection with Grandval's arrival Thursday.

MARRAKESH Morocco (Reuters)—A cordon of white-gowned Berber guards ringed the palace of the 81-year-old Pasha of Marrakesh Thursday after an unsuccessful attempt on his life during an outbreak of rioting in the Arab quarter of the city.

The Berger tribesmen, ardent followers of the powerful pro-French Pasha, El Glaoui, had been brought into Marrakesh Wednesday to reinforce local police who feared pro-nationalist disturbances with the arrival here Thursday of the resident-general, Gilbert Grandval.

Moroccan policemen, under the direct control of the Pasha, also were mounting guard outside the palace walls and on the rooftops of Arab houses with orders to shoot at demonstrators.

Grandval has come to visit the Pasha after restoring calm in Casablanca where 63 people were killed in recent rioting. Die-hard settlers resisting the new, more liberal French policy, lynched some Moroccans in the big port after a Bastille Day bomb outrage. Moroccans rioted in turn, setting fire to buildings.

Grandval has declared firmly that he intends to carry out the government's policy. Police arrested a number of demonstrators who included veiled girls and small children.

El Glaoui, feudal chieftain of thousands of fiery Berbers, had just driven away from the local French residency where Grandval is staying when his car was held up by a mob of demonstrators.

Observers near the scene said a shot rang out and a bullet whistled past the Pasha's head. The residency in Rabat issued a communique saying a number of shots were fired but the full circumstances were not yet known.

The ministry of Moroccan and Tunisian affairs in Paris flatly denied any assassination attempt had been made. El Glaoui, a virile man despite his 81 years, immediately jumped out of his car and was about to open fire with an automatic rifle when his escort of French gendarmes stopped him.

Moroccan police then fired into the crowd, which was hurling stones and chanting "Ben Yusuf, Ben Yusuf". El Glaoui has declared himself in favour of reform but is firmly opposed to the return of the former sultan, who he was largely instrumental in deposing.
