Bill Lynch Is "Show Man" for The Maritimes

BILL LYNCH, SHOW MAN

William P. Lynch is to date the only outdoor showman who has grown up in the Maritime Provinces of Canada and confined his efforts to that territory. The Maritimes—New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island—form Canada's sprawling coastal region. To the Bill Lynch Shows of Halifax, they offer 50,400 square miles on which dwell 1,200,000 people, long railroad hauls, devious interchanges and not too much competition. Bill was born in Halifax in 1903. Of his early youth there is little to note.

In the spring of 1925 Bill and the late Ray Rodgers framed a humble outfit that played the small villages. Shows were transported in one baggage car. Bill had a Merry-Go-Round and Rodgers had a string of concessions. They dissolved partnership, however, at the end of one season.

Bill stuck to his Merry-Go-Round, added some concessions, and in 1928 took out a show similar to the one he and Rodgers had the year previous. He continued to travel in one car and to play the villages.

INDOOR CIRCUS VENTURE

With the close of the 1928 season Bill took an indoor circus to Newfoundland. But the carnival was still the principal claimant of his energies. Late in 1928 he was playing still dates with a Merry-Go-Round, Ferris Wheel, Chair-O-Plane, three shows and a string of concessions.

Then he tried something bigger. He bid for the 1929 Halifax Exhibition and got it. At that time (November, 1928) he owned three rides and three shows. The contract called for seven of each. Thru the winter and the following spring he saved, borrowed and bought. He opened on time and with the required number of units.

This brought Bill at the age of 24 into conflict with the veteran Ben Williams. Until 1929 the Gloucester Bay Barber, who had become an American showman had been the undisputed carnival king of the Maritime fair circuit. After Bill had filled the Nova Scotia fair date he and Williams met in a Halifax hotel. Historians are agreed that there was much raising of voices, punctuated by the banging of fists upon the table. Ben threatened. Bill was unmoved. Finally they agreed that young Lynch should stick to Nova Scotia and the Williams should keep the New Brunswick fair circuit. The agreement was mutually respected until World War II put a temporary end to all big fairs. Ben died at home in Winfield, L. I., in 1943.

RAIL AND WATER JUMP

In 1935 the Lynch Shows went to Newfoundland. The return trip from the St. John's for the engagement at the Provincial Exhibition in Charlottetown, P. E. I., is still regarded as some kind of transport record by the carnival fraternity everywhere. Shows tore down and loaded out of St. John's on a Thursday. The properties at the time took 14 railroad cars and the personnel numbered 70. The train crossed the Old Colony over the Newfoundland Railway and arrived at Port-aux-Baques Friday morning. There they unloaded the cars and reloaded the equipment on the steamer Caribou on which they crossed to North Sydney, Cape Breton, Friday night. On the dock in North Sydney they loaded on cars of the Canadian National Railways, traversed Cape Breton to Port Hawkesbury and there took the train ferry for Mulgrave, Nova Scotia. From Mulgrave, the show train continued over the C. N. R. via Moncton to Cape Tormentine, New Brunswick.

With The Kids On The Playgrounds

All roads lead to the Fair this week, so your writer is not in the mood for using a typewriter today. Yes, Old Home Week is here again. The farmers from Tignish to Elmira will allow the storks to stand for another day to enable them to go to the Fair, and tourists from all parts of U.S.A. and Canada will meet in Charlottetown this week and marvel at the beauty of our Island Province. Perhaps the Fair grounds may most aptly be described in the words of an elderly gentleman with whom your writer was conversing the other day. "That's where the old folks are carried to, and walk from, and where the kids walk to, and are carried from." Yours truly took a stroll out to the grounds the other night just to see if there was any truth in the matter, and if he will be pardoned for making general assumptions from general cases, then he cannot but agree that the statement was correct. You know that boat affair out there for kids. Well whether you have noticed it or not, there is also a hole dug in the ground in the very near vicinity of those boats. At first sight your writer thought it must have been caused by a lion at large, but it will be traced to the other night just to see if there was any truth in the matter, and if he will be pardoned for making general assumptions from general cases, then he cannot but agree that the statement was correct.
