

Teen-Ager Decides It Isn't Fun To Be Fat

Teen-agers, we'll take the calories from your corner today. Frankly, it's a joy to this dietitian to help you get on the desirable weight beam. It's never fun to be fat, but it seems to be a particular heartache when you are young.

To whip up your enthusiasm, let me tell you about one 13-year-old who tipped the scales at a solid 152 pounds. Discouraged after shopping for a party dress, she remarked rebelliously to her mother: "I look awful anyway. I might as well eat everything and get big as a house!"

Her wise parent, rather than attempting to argue the point, answered: "If that's what you want to do, you will get big as a house. When you decide to take steps to reduce, let me know and I'll cooperate."

Just one week later, the young lady came to her mother and said "O.K. I'm ready to reduce." Well, the first week, our model lost pounds.

The mother made every effort to plan low-calorie meals, but the biggest change was leaving off the between meal extras... the candy bars, hot dogs, sodas, or drinks.

Resolve this one night not to eat anything after dinner, and stay with that resolution. Tomorrow morning you'll look forward to breakfast. A good breakfast, including an egg or hot cereal, can starve off hunger pangs until lunch time.

It's all up to you. Good food isn't fattening... it's over-eating that cramps your style.

Coiffures Cheer Home For Aged

WHITBY, Ont. (CP)—With the magic of a well-turned curl and a new coiffure, 131 women here have a new lease on life. They are the residents of the Fairview Lodge, Ontario county's home for the aged.

Finger waves, permanents, cap cuts, shampoos and pompadours are all available free at their new beauty clinic. It is in operation once a week.

Spark plug of the undertaking is Mrs. Marguerite Chatterley, secretary and convener of the clinic.

No one seemed to fully realize just what a permanent meant to the ladies until Mrs. Chatterley came along," says Mrs. Muriel Coates, home superintendent.

During a visit to the home one day, Mrs. Chatterley was struck by the fact that none of the residents looked as though they were receiving any hair care outside of having it washed and set in pin curls.

A hairdresser of 25 years experience, Mrs. Chatterley approached the executive of her IODE chapter with the suggestion that home permanent kits should be bought.

"Somehow the news of our project leaked out," Mrs. Chatterley recalls. "The first day some 45 residents received permanents, many for the first time in years."

Mrs. Chatterley was given the go-ahead signal and Fairview's board of directors authorized the purchase of furniture and equipment for establishment of a modern beauty parlor.

So enthusiastic have the women been at Mrs. Chatterley's efforts to arrange for the services of enough voluntary hairdressers for the clinic to be kept open daily.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. R. W. Murray.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. I. W. Farmery. She wore a waltz-length gown of blue lace and nylon net, with a matching headpiece. She carried a nosegay of white carnations and red roses and lily of the valley.

The little black frock that boons to all wardrobes, whether they are conservative or on the budget side, is better than ever. And, incidentally, it is the budget wardrobe that will get the most out of a good little silk dress, the type that is always unobtrusively smart and right and that can be dressed up with silk tissue faille for a delightful dress cleverly manipulated and alluringly draped. A clever black drape is caught in a black satin bow and a large rhinestone highlights the Empire bodice.
