CONDUCTOR PERRY'S DEATH

Some Particulars of the Very Sad Occurrence.

A late Montana paper furnishes some particulars of the sad death of Mr. Benj. C. Perry, formerly of this province, to which reference was made by THE EXAMINER some time ago. The paper says: Conductor Benjamin C Perry fell from a freight train near the summit early Monday morning and was killed. When the train reached the summit he was missed, and the train returned to look for him. He was found about a mile from the station in a dying condition. The caboose had passed over both legs and one of his hands, but he was still conscious when found, and able to tell how the accident occurred. He had been passing over the train, and in stepping from the last car to the caboose slipped and fell on the track. He lived about two hours after he was found. The body was brought to Kalispell, and the body was buried here. Mr. Perry was 46 years old, and leaves a wife and six children, the oldest about 15. He had lived in Kalispell for several years, and was greatly respected by those who knew him.

A plan of mobilization, sealed with the signet of the Minister of War, and seventy-two military maps, have been stolen from the Barracks of the 9th Regiment at Brussels. The authorities have opened an enquiry.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of Mount Caucassus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then come the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging one's self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

At North Bay, on the 8th Nov. inst., to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Worth, a son.

THE REASON.

I know a fair young maiden,
Into eighteen stores she went;
She spent all day a-shopping,
And she never spent a cent.

You'll think this was courageous,
But I do not think you will
If you stop and just consider
That her papa paid the bill.

ST. DUNSTAN'S CATHEDRAL.

Imposing Memorial Services Yesterday and To-day.

The bodies of the late Bishop Macdonald, and Fathers Macdonnell, Dunsareul and Broderick, were yesterday afternoon removed from the cemetery to St. Dunstan's Cathedral, where they remained in state until after the service this morning when they were placed in the vault under the cathedral. The funeral from the cemetery was attended by a large number of citizens. The League of the Cross Band led the procession, followed by the students of St. Dunstan's College and the clergy. Then came the caskets containing the remains of the departed clergymen, followed by mourning citizens. The streets along the route of the procession were lined with people.

Last evening, in the presence of a large congregation, the Office for the Dead was chanted.

This morning at ten o'clock a Pontifical High Mass of Requiem was offered in the Cathedral. The service was of a most imposing character. His Lordship Bishop Macdonald was celebrant. The other clergymen assisting in the celebration were: Mgr Macdonald, High Priest; P Curran and R B Macdonald, Deacons of Honor; F X Gallant and Dr Chaisson, Deacons of Mass; I R A Macdonald, First Master of Ceremonies; Alexander McAulay, Second Master of Ceremonies; J J Macdonald, and D B Reid, Acolytes; A J McIntyre, Thurifer.

Father Quinan, of Arichat, preached the sermon on the occasion. It was an able and eloquent effort.

There was a large attendance of clergymen, including almost all the priests of the diocese and several from the neighboring provinces.

The church was fittingly draped with black.
