"WHAT WE HAVE WE'LL HOLD."

Baby when he has once been treated to a bath with "BABY'S OWN SOAP" —wants no other—because he knows no other makes him feel so nice. Many imitations of Baby's Own Soap, look like it, but baby feels the difference.

One Boot to Clean.

The French soldier is as easy to lead as a child. His cheerfulness and gay philosophy enable him to endure the greatest hardships without a murmur. All he wants is justice. When he has received his provisions, he straightway goes to weigh his meat, his bread, his coffee, his sugar, even his salt. All he wants is his due, and if he finds that he has not received short weight he is satisfied and cheerful. A kind word from an officer will make him happy, a cigarette offered to him if he is short of tobacco will make a hero of him.

I remember one day passing a young soldier who was being taken to the hospital. His right hand had been shot off clean. "Cheer up, my boy," I said to him, "no more fighting for you. They will nurse you and take care of you."

"Ah, lieutenant," he replied with a look pitiful to contemplate, "how am I to pull my cigarettes now?"

I put a small box of cigarettes in his breast pocket. I shall never forget the expression of gratitude on his face.

In another instance a devoted orderly was pitying his captain whose leg had just been amputated. "Don't cry, old fool," said the captain to him. "I am going to keep you, and in the future you will have only one boot to clean every morning." —Max O'Rell in North American Review.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Thrown on the Subjects of Home Lighting.

There are dyes—the world famed Diamond Dyes—just crown our labors and home dyeing work with perfect success, and there are imitations and worthless dyes that bring ruin and disaster wherever they are used.

There are dyes—the chemically pure and scientifically prepared Diamond Dyes—that have brought blessings to millions of homes for long years, and there are the vile preparations and mixtures of imitators who, as far as style of package is concerned, get as near the "Diamond" as they dare go. But what shall be said of the contents—the ingredients—that the women of Canada are asked to dye with? Little more can be added to what has so often appeared in the press of the country. These imitation dyes are simply deceptions; they are adulterated and dangerous preparations, hurtful to the hands of the user, and destroyers of valuable garments and materials.

The manufacture of Diamond Dyes is reduced to a science, and to day they are the only dyes that dare guarantee their work—that dare proclaim certain victory for every user who will follow the plain directions. Diamond Dyes have a widespread popularity; other brands of dyes are hardly known outside of the greedy, long profit dealers who sell them to the unsuspecting public. Avoid all imitation packages—dyes as you would avoid spurious coins.

Her Idea of It.

"Journalism For Women," a book recently published in England, relates a story of a woman journalist in the north of England who wrote to a London paper for permission to act as its special correspondent during the visit of some royal personages to her town. The editor of the paper, knowing her for a good descriptive writer, gave the necessary authority, with explicit information as to the last moment for receiving copy. The moment came, but not the copy, and the editor had to go to press without it. The next day, no explanation having arrived, he dispatched to his special correspondent a particularly scathing and scornful letter. Then came the excuse. It was long, but the root of it amounted to exactly this:

"I was so knocked up and had such a headache after the ceremonies were over that I really did not feel equal to the exertion of writing. I thought it would not matter."

In a Bad Way Anyhow.

George Ober once overheard some acquaintances in the hotel lobby at Hastings-on-the-Hudson discussing the demise of one Bill Jones, a well known character in that lively country village. Ober immediately joined the group, whereupon the following conversation ensued:

"Did I understand you to say Bill Jones was dead?"

"'Yep. Died last Thursday."

"Is that possible?"

"Yes, that's right."

"So Bill Jones is dead. Well, well!"

"Yes, he's dead."

"Do you know, I can scarcely believe it, poor chap! Poor Bill! I knew him well. So he's really dead, is he?"

"Well, if he ain't dead, he's in a darned bad predicament. I saw him buried." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Scene of Terror In India.

A Bengal post-office superintendent has received from one of his Babu inspectors this report of an accident at a river which had to be forded owing to the breakdown of a bridge:

"As I was to pass the river or water through my cart for absence of any boat some alligators ran on my oxen hence the oxen getting fear forebly took away my cart in an abyss below the water of 12 feet which the cartman failed to obstruct. The oxen forebly left the cart and fled to the other side of the river by swimming. I myself being inside the matscreen of my cart the whole cart fell down in the abyss. I used to cry loudly at the time. The cart with myself was drowned in the meantime the Overseer Babu Mehendra Nath Ghose and my cook jumped on the water and took my cart in a place where 4 1/2 water then I myself jumped on the water and saved my life. The alligators getting fear from the cart fled to the roadside and no sooner we came to the road they jumped on the water. Had I been under suffocation for three minutes more then there was no hope of my life. * * * The nearest residents told thereafter that some men died this year in the abyss by the attack of the alligators. I am much unwell the voice of my speech is fallen low and out of order from the suffocation." —London Standard.

Bill Was Fooled.

"Seen anything of a feller round here with red whiskers an a squint?" queried Bill Sykes of Newberg, as he adjusted his red comforter and blew a sonorous blast from his bibulous nose preparatory to taking a little stimulant, "cause if you have I've got business with him. He come to my house yesterday, an after talking around a spell an telling Hanner he thought she was my darter an making a fool of her he said he would have to inspect the well. Sent out by the state, you know."

"Well, I got a paulful of water, an he poured some in a sasser and looked at it through a mikyscope. Then I looked at it, an say, fellers, that water was full of alligators a foot long—microbes he called 'em. The upshot was I bought the mikyscope and some stuff to put in the well to kill the animals, an I paid him $10, but 'twas partly Hanner's fault."

Here Bill looked around defiantly and continued: "That stuff was salt an water an there wan't no bugs. They were painted on the glass to the mikyscope." And with a rather derogatory remark about the honesty of man generally Bill left in quest of the man with the squint. —Dowagiac Republican.

Your Sweetheart Likes it.

The reference is to the sweetheart of the man who wears a Shorey suit. They all like it which is a certain argument in its favor. But the most convincing argument is that all of the material used by this firm is sponged and fully shrunk, and a guarantee of workmanship is given with each suit.

The Nonchalant Canton Merchant.

Frequently on entering a Canton shop you will find its owner with a book in one hand and pipe or fan in the other and wholly absorbed in his studies. You will be doomed to disappointment if you expect the snooker to start up at once, all smiles and blandness, rubbing his hands together as he makes a shrewd guess as to what he is likely to take out of you and receiving you with obsequiousness or with rudeness accordingly. Quite the reverse.

Your presence is apparently unnoticed unless you happen to lift anything. Then you hear that the fan has been arrested and feel that a keen eye is bent on your movements all the while. But it is not until you inquire for some article that the gentleman, now certain that you mean to trade, will rise without bustle from his seat, show you his goods or state the price he means to sell at, with a polite yet careless air which plainly says, "If it suits you, we make an exchange." —"Through China With a Camera."
