Richmond Boy Seriously Injured

Raymond Hache, 13, is in serious condition in the Prince County Hospital with concussion of the brain and a possible fractured skull as the result of an accident which occurred yesterday morning about ten o'clock.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hache of Richmond and he was injured while at the home of a neighbour. He was being hoisted into a barn loft and something caused a chain to break which flying loose struck the boy on the head.

Last evening he was still unconscious.—S.

New Commander of S'side Station Arrives

The new commanding officer of the R.C.A.F. station, Summerside, Group Captain H. G. Richards O.B.E. arrived on the station yesterday and will formally assume command at a "handing over" ceremony on Monday, G/C Richards and Mrs Richards have taken up temporary residence in Charlottetown until their house is completed at Slemmon Park.

G/C Richards is a native of Portsmouth, England and served in the R.A.F. for ten years before coming to Canada in 1932. He joined the R.C.A.F. a year later. He has just completed a furlough in the United States following his return from Sweden where he was air attaché at Stockholm.

The arrival of the new commanding officer means that Wing Commander R. F. Gross, the present commanding officer will be leaving. He has been posted to London, England to take a joint services staff course. While he is overseas Mrs. Gross and their daughter, Brenda will remain in Summerside.

Record of Achievement Wing Commander Gross will leave Summerside with a substantial record of achievement to his credit. When he arrived here a year and a half ago the station was just beginning to pick up after a post-war period of idleness. The first course of the air navigation school had just commenced and the station had just been given some aircraft.

He was not in the fortunate position of coming to a station which was fully organized and running smoothly according to a schedule long before arranged. His was the responsibility of building up the station and making it an efficient unit in the peacetime air force.

It is now running according to plan with the navigation courses being completed at regular intervals. A large number of married quarters have been provided, many of the station buildings have been rebuilt and renovated and now all of them are being painted.

During his term here his relations with the local community have been excellent and as a consequence the relationship that exists between the Air Force and the Town is an enviable one.—S

Fortunately the rest of the card was pretty much to the crowd's taste. Steele will never fall to please in an Island ring. You know every second he's out there to get his man, and Lund certainly had to be able to take it to win over the Tiger Wednesday night. Lund, by the way, is a pretty capable performer. He can take it and dish it out, and the fellow who takes the crown from him will have to have plenty of what it takes.

Tiger Ferguson was not the old fighting tiger in his go with Duck Trainor. He waited for the Charlottetown fighter to carry the fight to him, and that's not a bit like Ferg. Only in the last round did he show signs of his former spirit.

Royce Durant is a mighty good prospect if someone would take him in hand. Royce has lots of courage and is a good puncher but he has something to learn about straightening up an opponent who insists on getting his gloves in front of his face and weathering the storm in that position. Many of Durant's best uppercuts landed on Connolly's arms and elbows.

Personally, we aren't discouraged

This one in the middle of the Crooked Little Path was one of that kind. In fact he was just about the ugliest looking of all the Snake folk. Even uglier looking than Buzztail the Rattlesnake. He was facing Flip. His head was raised and his mouth was wide open. He kept striking at Flip when the latter came near. And how he did hiss! Have you ever been near when a piece of hot irons has been put in water? If so, you know just what that Snake sounded like. "Well, well, well, it is Old Bluffer the Adder himself," chuckled Farmer Brown's boy. "So it was, that is to say, it was Bluffer the Hognoosed snake whom many people call Adder. He isn't an Adder and he shouldn't be called Adder. He is called Hognoosed snake because the end of his nose turns up just a wee bit like the nose of a hog. "Why don't you grab him and shake him to death?" asked Farmer Brown's boy of Flip. "What are you afraid of?" "Flip merely barked a little harder and pretended to be a little more daring, dancing back and forth around Bluffer, who always turned to face him. The truth is Flip didn't dare go any nearer. He was afraid of Bluffer, and though he didn't know it, Bluffer was afraid of him.'
