THE DAILY EXAMINER.

FEBRUARY 1, 1887.

"How is that for High."

The following are a few items from one of the bills amounting to $39,670.04, run up by those dear, delightful, economical gentlemen who are now working so patriotically to get back to office.

Table listing various items and their costs, including provisions, groceries, and other goods, with columns for item names and prices.

THE CAMPAIGN.

ANOTHER LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE VICTORY.

A very large meeting was held at Miscouche yesterday. It was almost unanimously for Hackett and Lefurgey. Report to-morrow.

LIBERAL CONSERVATIVE CAUSE STRONGER THAN AT THE LOCAL ELECTION—UNCONGENIAL COMPANY—ITINERANT WHISKEY DISPENSERS ON THE WAR PATH.

Sir,—A political meeting was held at the Melville Road Schoolhouse, on the 25th ult. A free discussion was invited by the chairman. One or two Grits made an effort to find fault with the Dominion Government's policy, but when asked to propose some improvement, had to confess their inability!

Yours truly, Wm. Beer.

The Orchestral Concert.

Last night Mr. Vinnicombe was deservedly greeted by one of the largest audiences we have ever seen in the Y. M. C. A. Hall; and we are confident that everyone agrees that the concert was one of the best ever offered by local talent in Charlottetown.

"Keep It Before the People."

We must congratulate the Patriot on having, at last, presented to its readers one piece of genuine good work bearing upon the issue. The table showing the value of goods entered for consumption in this Province, and the amounts of duties paid in the several years that have passed since Confederation are interesting; and if the Patriot could prove from them that we pay in the proportion of $24.10 to $11.11—that would be one good reason for declaring against the policy of the Government.

But let us look at the table in the light of the facts and circumstances upon which it is dependent.

On its face the table shows that the percentage of duty collected was $21.23 in 1876, and 22.64 in 1879, as against 24.10 in 1885—not a frightful increase, surely!

The amount of duty, too, collected at the Custom Houses in this Province was—according to the Patriot's tables in—

Table showing duty amounts for years 1874 to 1885, with columns for year and amount.

So that—it appears by this table—the Province actually paid into the Dominion Treasury less by many thousands of dollars in 1885 than it did in 1874, 1875, 1876, 1877 and 1878!

This is the story the Patriot's table tells—but it is not a true story. Since 1874 the trade of the Province has been revolutionized. We now purchase large quantities of goods—dutiable goods, free goods, and goods manufactured and produced in the Dominion—from other parts of Canada. Upon the dutiable goods the duties are paid at the ports of entry, and we do not get credit for them; upon all the other goods no duty whatever is paid.

It will thus be seen that the Patriot's table does not present the true state of the case; and that, as a basis upon which to estimate correctly, it is absolutely valueless.

The Patriot fails to meet THE EXAMINER'S challenge to prove that the laboring men on the Intercolonial railway receive higher wages than laboring men on the P. E. Island Railway. Significant fact! But the Patriot resorts to gross misrepresentation of what THE EXAMINER said about the matter. Another significant fact! Mr. Davies' demonstrations in Parliament didn't amount to much; and Mr. Hesson was quite right when he said that Mr. Davies did not know what he was talking about. Let the working men of the railway consider who is most likely to forward their interests: working-men like Morris, Ferguson and Campbell, or Mr. L. H. Davies, who knows nothing whatever about the feelings of working-men.

Impending Divorce Suits.

LADY BROOKE TO APPEAR IN COURT WITH FOURTEEN CO-RESPONDENTS.

The Divorce Court corridors and the club smoking rooms are full of rumors of impending divorce suits, in which the principals are well-known London society people. Commenting upon the ever-increasing business of the Divorce Court, Mlle. de la Rame (Ouida), who has been in London for a while, caustically remarked that "people of intellect are above all law. Marriage is only suitable for the lower classes. One story, which may fill a court room very soon, pictures a man looked up to by England's millions kneeling at the feet of a man whom he had wronged and begging forgiveness. Another has this same man's nineteen-year-old son involved in a disgraceful intrigue with the young wife of an old man who had been his friend. Still a third story, the property of Family Fair, claims special attention from the fact that eight co-respondents are to figure in the case. Lady Brooke, it is said, is to appear in court with no less than fourteen co-respondents, the number of these in fashionable circles being ever on the increase, like that of bridesmaids at weddings. It is de rigueur to count in the number the now almost professional co-respondent, the Duke of Marlborough, besides Sir Charles Dilke and possibly a more august one. The two latter, with Mr. Gladstone, might have been called at a late prolonged trial with as much presumptive justice as those who were summoned and appeared, and the one who, being summoned, declined to do so. The Brooke case would have come on ere this had not the Campbells slipped in beforehand with prompt and successful alacrity. Lady Brooke, who was a Miss Maynard, is an extremely beautiful woman and quite young.

Celina Grenier, 19 years of age, wife of Joseph St. Hilaire, committed suicide by taking Paris green in the house of her parents, on Lafontaine street, Montreal, one night last week. At the inquest, deceased's mother testified that her daughter for a week previous had been very much depressed and cried nearly all day. Her husband would sometimes stay away three and four days and then return home drunk and without money. As he did not work, her daughter worked all the while at whatever job she could get, and would give her husband what spare money she had. On the evening of the suicide her daughter asked her for some writing paper and ink, then she went to her bedroom, and when her husband came home drunk shortly after eight o'clock he forced open the bedroom door and found his wife lying dead, with a letter on the bed which stated that the unfounded suspicions of her husband and the ill-treatment on the part of certain of her relatives had caused her to take her life. The jury returned a verdict that deceased committed suicide in a state of mental depression, caused by grief.
