A C.T.C. Training Centre Designed By P.E.I. Firm

TATAMAGOUCHE, N.S. — The Board of Directors of the Atlantic Christian Training Centre announced today that the contract for the new Administration and Classroom building has been let to the Annapolis Valley Construction Company of Halifax.

The Centre has adopted a multiple building program and this is the fourth and largest in a series of buildings necessary for the expanding services of training, volunteer leaders for Church and Community. The new building will include classrooms, lounge room, offices, chapel library, kitchen, dining-room, a small assembly room and craft rooms. The building is designed in such a way that it will be adaptable both to a winter class of 35 students and an increased enrolment up to 100 for summer events. The classrooms are separated by a folding wall which opens for the larger group. The chapel will extend into the library as needed and the dining hall will extend into the assembly room.

Architect Keith Pichard of Charlottetown arranged for his draftsman Gordon Welsh to take part of the winter course before ever putting pencil to the drawing board. A campaign for $150,000 is now under way in the Atlantic Provinces for the building program of the Centre. Dr. A.M. Creighton of Tatamagouche,

Chairman of the Campaign, reports that the Campaign is organized and well under way in most Presbyteries with many congregations already over the top with their objectives.

Volunteer leaders from New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, the Gaspé Peninsula and Bermuda go to the Centre for training. Fifty-seven students have graduated from the longer winter courses and more than 2,000 have received training at shorter courses held throughout the year. A capacity attendance of fifty laymen is expected at the Centre this coming weekend for a Conference under the leadership of Mr. Ralph Young, Secretary of the United Church's Board of Men, Toronto.

Hopes To See Women Take Bigger Role In Church Work

HALIFAX (CP) — Mrs. Britton Osler of Toronto, national president of the women's auxiliary of the Anglican Church of Canada, told the graduating class of King's College University Thursday she hopes to see women more and more take their places in the service of the Church.

Mrs. Osler, and two Anglican churchmen received honorary degrees at the convocation. Mrs. Osler was granted an honorary doctor of civil laws. Rt. Rev. A. H. O'Neill, lord bishop of Fredericton, and Very Rev. E. B. N. Cochran, dean of Nova Scotia, received honorary doctor of divinity degrees.

Mrs. Osler told the 45 graduates that the honor conferred on her is regarded as recognition of the place of women in the over-all mission of the church. The church was gradually "widening the way" for the service of women.

A chasm seems to exist between the professional and voluntary woman church worker. The professional scorns the sometimes "over-sympathetic" attitude of the volunteer who in turn criticizes the "rigid academic" approach of the professional.

"Women are now accepted in the economic and political world, in the professions of law, medicine and education. Why should there be any hesitation in accepting her services more fully in the profession of organized religion?"

"Why should she not be given the right of representation on the policy-making bodies of the church?"

Seizing the opportunities available to women would require their devotion and effort of every woman in the church. An "active" religion must engage the interest of all.

It is perhaps in the training of women's auxiliary was now making its greatest contribution, by the professional worker that the women's auxiliary was now making the greatest contribution, by bringing the needs of the church to the attention of young women as they graduate from school or college.

RELIGION AND LIFE

BY VERY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D. First Moderator of the United Church of Canada

OUR ONLY HOPE

We are a practical people, and to use the language of the street, we are "mighty" proud of it. Whenever any necessity or emergency arises our first question is what to do about it. We feel it little less than mockery to call on God for help before we have done our very best with the materials already in our hands.

In the main, this is sound sense — practical wisdom, but wisdom none the less.

But there have been occasions in history when human effort was folly. The means in the hands of the people were so utterly inadequate that any attempt to use them would have been absurd.

To faith this does not mean despair. When God withholds power the outcome is God's responsibility, and He can be counted on to act.

IMPRESSED

We were deeply impressed with Dr. John R. Mott's last message to his friends in Toronto. That old hero of a thousand ventures of faith was far past his prime, but was facing the future more hopefully than ever.

"Man's extremity is God's opportunity," he repeated again and again. "I was never before as confident about the future as I am now. Our only hope is in God, and the situation is such that He must intervene. We can depend on Him to supply the riches in accord according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

No leader had ever seen the Spirit of God in action more frequently and decisively than he had, and he regarded the success of the past as an indication of the greater triumphs of the Spirit in the future.

mission, and those who trust Him to do His part shall never be put to shame.

For our children we can do only so much, and no more. We can teach, correct and advise, but that inner awakening to the realities of the Spirit is God's work in the soul.

Revivalism has often been a sad story, and when it is so, the reason has been that men have tried to work up spiritual excitement, instead of waiting quietly for God's action.

When He moves the effect is life from the dead. "They who wait on the Lord shall renew their strength" is God's own promise, and those who trust Him to do His part shall never be put to shame.

HELPLESS
Often as families and individuals we face the same kind of emergency that Isaiah faced. Circumstances immovable as rocks surround us, and as far as our own resources go, we are helpless before them. But God is in command, and He knows the way through.

Like the Apostles for Peter in chains, prayer unceasing should be made in the church for them, and a deliverance as directly divine as Peter's will be the sure result.

As we have seen in previous studies, Assyria was the world conqueror of that period, and little Judah had no forces able to meet her armies and no alliance equal to her need. Isaiah's message was: "Trust God; He will not allow His temple to be profaned by the feet of the pagan."

In the thirty-first chapter of his prophecy we read: "Like birds hovering, the Lord of hosts will protect Jerusalem; He will protect and deliver it; He will spare and rescue it."

Again and again he repeated his assurance that the Assyrian

Little Sub Makes Long Voyage

BAYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — green-and-grey submarine hit the beach here safely after an eight-day Atlantic cruise of 20 months.

Just 14 inches long, the sub carried the name Nautilus, the same as the first U.S. atom-powered sub. Its thrust, however, came only from a rubber-band engine, long spent but still intact in the hollow wooden hull.

Inscribed on the side were the words "John Tampa; 1505 Plains view Rd., Nova Scotia," and the stern, "Launched June 22, 1956, Halifax."

Charles Bottitta, 13 found the peewee wanderer recently on the beach of Long Island sound near his home.

"It sure looks as if it had been in the water a long time," said his father, Joseph.

Anyway, letter about it is being sent to Halifax, 600 nautical miles away.

OTTAWA (CP) — Joseph Sedgewick, prominent Toronto lawyer, will represent Canada at a United Nations seminar on the protection of human rights in criminal law and procedure.

AMONG THE FARMERS

Federation of Agriculture Newsletter

MONDAY MEETINGS

Already reports are coming in to the Federation office from the meetings held last Monday evening. In so far as possible secretaries are asked to return their reports as promptly as possible. This is particularly important in the case of new members. Where no meeting was held or where a really complete coverage is desired there is nothing better than personal contacts. Remember the Federation address, Box 546, in Charlottetown.

JUNE SET-ASIDE

Once again the month of June is approaching when the dairymen of Canada will be contributing to their national fund for advertising and promotion. All dairy plants in the province have been provided with a sufficient quantity of circulars for each patron. These circulars go out in the month of May and if the farmer wishes to refuse the deduction he should so notify his dairy plant before the first of June. The dairymen of Canada are recognized as having done quite an outstanding job in the setting up, on a voluntary basis a fund for national advertising.

The amount of contribution per farmer is not much but the total has financed a program which no other branch of agriculture has been able to duplicate. Farmers are urged to support the national campaign by their contribution of 1 cent for each pound of butterfat produced during the month of June.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

Rumors are abroad that petitions are being circulated in the towns and villages of Prince Edward Island on the question of advanced time. No reliable information is available on what is to be done with the petitions or what is hoped to be accomplished by them. In any event many farmers will await with both interest and curiosity the outcome of this most recent approach to the problem of slow or fast time.

COMMON MARKET

Trade is, of course, important to practically every country. Canada is a country which depends quite heavily on exports and our people are always interested in the question of tariff, free trade and what other countries are doing either to facilitate or hinder trade. Of recent interest is the decision of a number of Western European countries to join themselves in a trading alliance known as "European Common Market." The possible results of this program are being studied by the experts who have come up with the following predictions:—

1. Europe probably will import less wheat generally, and there will be greater emphasis on importing types of wheat which are complementary to the kind of wheat grown in Europe. For example, Europe likely will take more high protein, hard wheat to mix with European soft wheat.

2. Europe probably will import more feed grain from North America, although this feed grain will run into stiff competition from Argentine maize.

3. Europe probably will import more oilseeds.

4. Europe probably will considerably reduce imports of animal protein foods (meat, eggs and dairy products).

5. Europe probably will import less fresh deciduous fruit and import more dried fruit and citrus fruit.

6. Europe probably will import more cotton, although much of this extra cotton may come from outside the Western Hemisphere.

7. Europe probably will import less tobacco.

THE EXPERT

Every intelligent person, of course, recognizes the value of the expert in all fields. However, a danger exists to the average man in the use he makes of the expert. Once the individual or society generally accepts a situation where the expert is telling the people "what to do" then the danger signals are up in a properly developed society and one which pretends to be democratic the people should themselves make the decision on what is to be done. Having made the decision then the expert should enter upon the scene as the one who produces the knowledge and information on 'how it is to be done.'

We think this distinction is important enough to bear repeating, "let the expert tell how it is to be done and let the people decide what is to be done."

15 CENT POWDER

The announcement by the Stabilization Board that the support price on skim milk powder will now be 15 cents per pound will come as no great surprise although it will be a disappointment to many producers who had their eye set on $3.00 milk. There is no question that the 17 cent floor which was set in March, 1957 proved to be an incentive price, the large number of new powder plants indicate that a greatly increased flood of skim milk was starting to move from dairy farms into processing. Canada produces an ocean of skim milk, in years past most of it was used as livestock feed on the farms.

However, of recent years farmers have shown a marked inclination to sell the whole milk rather than to separate it at home and sell the cream. In any event an unmanageable surplus of skim milk powder was beginning to build up and without any real prospect of moving a volume out of the country, the government apparently came to the conclusion that no alternative exists but to hoist the warning flag on powder production.

LAMB QUALITY

A Kings County farmer through the press raises an objection to certain regulations which are to be applied in the marketing of this year's crop of lambs. While not claiming to be an authority on lambs it is our understanding that the penalties to be applied to bucks and long tails is for the purpose of improving the quality, if the lamb returns have been unsatisfactory in the past this can perhaps in part be attributed to the low percentage of top grade lambs offered in the Maritime Provinces, last year only 40 per cent of the Maritime lambs was good enough for the top grade. Possibly if larger quantities of good quality lambs were available Maritime buyers would be in a better position to make more profitable sales and return the farmer more money for the whole crop. It would appear to be quite evident that little or no improvement will take place in slipshod practices and poor quality are accepted as recognized standards.

ROCKS CROSS BORDER

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Rock blasted from a new power station on the United States side of the Niagara River flew across the border into the Sir Adam Beck powerhouse Monday night. Ambrose Somerville, a 37-year-old electrician at the Sir Adam Beck station, was treated for cuts to his face and had glass removed from his right eye after a rock smashed a window.

Fisheries Act In Force In Nfld.

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal Fisheries Act has come into force in Newfoundland, Fisheries Minister MacLean announced Thursday. A proclamation to be issued will set the effective date at last May 1.

Newfoundland's fisheries previously had been administered under the Newfoundland statutes existing at the time the colony became the 10th Canadian province in 1949.

The delay in bringing Newfoundland fisheries under federal control probably was due to various matters involved in the transfer, a department official said, and was provided for under terms of union.

Mr. MacLean's announcement said that with the proclamation all fisheries administration in Canada will be under the basic statute covering management and regulation of the resource.

An official said the change will mean no material difference in fisheries regulations for Newfoundland.

Report Floods In Three States

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Blated streams surged through a three-state area Wednesday and forced hundreds to flee homes still scarred from last year's multi-million dollar disaster.

Several hundred families were evacuated here before the Big Sandy River crested at 42.7 feet, nearly eight feet above flood stage.
