SOLOMON SLOW'S ADVICE.

What I Would Do, or Have Done, if I Were Boss

I would make officials who receive pay from the City, Local Government, or Dominion make a pretence of earning their salaries. Some of them earn it honestly, others in a half hearted way, while others don't even make a pretence. I would have our streets properly sprinkled, not a pretence as at present. I would have our streets swept and cleaned.

I would enforce the bye-law that forbids sidewalks being encumbered with goods and rubbish.

If the Provincial Government pays a Commissioner of Public Works I would have him do the work and not let the Premier have the work of that office added to his already onerous duties.

If the Premier does the work why waste the salary of C. P. Works on the office of C. P. Works.

I would send the good old steamer Stanley to England and have her put in working shape to be ready for next winter's trade so that she could help the Minto when she gets stuck.

SOLOMON SLOW.

DUNDAS AND OTHER POINTS.

Haying is almost finished in Dundas and vicinity. The crop, however, is not so large as last year. The other crops look well, and an abundant yield is anticipated.

Judge Warburton holds court at Dundas on Monday. The docket is not a large one.

During the recent storm the popular hostelry known as the Martin House had a narrow escape from destruction. The walls in the vicinity of the telephone took fire during the progress of the storm, and only the prompt application of a goodly supply of water saved the premises. Had the fire occurred in the night the house would in all probability have been burned down.

The Presbyterian church at Dundas has lately been in the hands of skilled kaleidonomers and paper hangers, and the walls and ceilings present a beautiful appearance as a result. The seats are to be repainted next week, after the special services which began on Thursday are concluded.

Rev. A. L. McKay, of Bass River, N. S., who has been visiting friends in Dundas left a day or two ago on return to his home. The rev. gentleman labored in this section last winter and made many friends by whom he will always be heartily welcomed.

There has been a good deal of fishing at Ross' mills recently and some extraordinary catches are reported. One young lady says she caught a "two pounder," and another pleads guilty to catching a "bigger fish" than that.

"Straws show how the wind blows," was the remark of a recent visitor to Dundas as his hat lifted itself from his head and dropped into the mill pond into which he was preparing to cast his line in search of the speckled beauties.

It was the same individual who remarked that "all things come to him who waits" after he landed the quarter-pounder for which he had been angling an hour or more.

Hay rides are popular in Dundas just now. The larger the party and the rougher the road the more fun there is in the outing. Of course the company has a good deal to do with it too.

Mr. Samuel Matheson is home from the Klondike, where he has passed the last three or four years. It is twenty years since "Sam" left his Island home, and his many friends are giving him a hearty welcome. It is understood that he has done well in the gold country.

The pretty little chapel at St. George's was thronged with worshippers on Sunday last, when the writer attended service there. Father McLean preached an able sermon and the choir rendered capital music. Father McLean is exceedingly popular with his parishioners as well as with all others by whom he is known.

A movement is on foot at St. George's for the erection of a suitable memorial to mark the earthly resting place of the late lamented "Father Francis." The memorial will probably take the form of a Calvary group. Father McLean has the matter in hand, and the people are responding generously to his call for financial assistance.

His Lordship Bishop McDonald goes to Little Harbor in the near future to consecrate that portion of the Roman Catholic cemetery which has not yet been attended to. In the meantime the people are putting the finishing touches upon the place.

Everything looked calmly serene in Cardigan as the writer passed through the village a day or two ago. Some new houses have been put up, and the application of the paint brush seems to have been general.

Mr. William M. Flynn, the popular station agent at Cardigan, is enjoying a well-merited holiday.

Mr. H. V. Palmer is enjoying a short holiday at Souris.

Mr. F. W. Hyndman was at Souris for a week recently. He was well pleased with the place.

There was a big tea on that day at Indian River, which also realized a handsome sum of money for the new church.
