

HIT TWICE BY TRAINS, UNHURT

Few motorists live to tell of being hit once by a train, but this threesome was struck twice within seconds. Approaching a level crossing at Scarborough, Ont., their car skidded on to the tracks, was hit by an eastbound engine which swung the car into a path of a westbound locomotive. Unhurt are: Alex Stevens, William Knifft, and Lawrence Stevens.

N.Y. Remains Without Papers

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York newspaper strike continued through its sixth day Monday with a federal mediator groping vainly for a solution. Neither side seemed inclined to budge an inch.

"There is no factual basis for optimism," admitted Joseph F. Finnegan, national director of the federal mediation and conciliation service. He said both sides have "taken a stiff attitude."

Negotiations broke up in early evening, with new talks scheduled at 10 a.m. EST today.

Finnegan spent most of the day shuttling back and forth trying to get the publishers' representatives and the striking newspaper mail and deliverers union to sit down to face-to-face talks.

The city's newsstands have been bare of local papers since shortly after the strike began the night of Dec. 9. The nine big New York dailies normally circulate 5,500,000 papers a day.

Fight Brush Fire Near California Mission Village

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—A wind-fanned brush fire that broke out a few miles from this picturesque mission village raced unchecked Monday over tinder-dry, rolling foothills. Flames visible in Los Angeles 60 miles away have destroyed 20,000 acres of valuable watershed since Sunday afternoon. Also burned were 18 homes, mostly weekend cabins in the rugged Santa Ana foothills.

The blaze, driven by swirling winds, was reported spreading in all directions. On the fire line were 1,100 men. Eight planes had a tough job, too, trying to bomb the blaze with a borate solution. A dense smoke cloud stretching all the way to Los Angeles cut the pilots' visibility to zero in the fire area.

The destroyed homes were in the San Juan hot-rings area, 13 miles northeast of the mission celebrated in song and legend for its migrating swallows.

New Destroyer Keel Is Laid

MONTREAL (CP)—The keel of HMCS Mackenzie, the Royal Canadian Navy's most modern destroyer escort, was laid at Canadian Vickers Limited shipyards Monday.

The 336-foot, turbine-powered vessel is to be launched in 1960 and present plans call for 20 of the class—of which the first was HMCS Restigouche, which made her maiden voyage June 11.

Canadian Team Carries Out Magnetic Survey Of Pacific

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian scientific team has returned to Ottawa after completing the first large-scale magnetic survey of the Pacific Ocean in 30 years.

The 42,000-mile airborne survey, conducted by the technical survey department's dominion observatory, ranged north to the Aleutian Islands, west to the Philippines and south to New Zealand.

Dr. Paul Seron of the observatory's geomagnetism laboratory here, said in an interview Tuesday that results of the survey will permit major corrections to be made to navigation charts of the Pacific area.

The survey was made with a half-ton Canadian magnetometer mounted in a B-17 flying fortress chartered by the observatory from Kenting Aviation of Toronto.

MEASURES FIELDS
The magnetometer measures the strength and direction of the earth's constantly changing magnetic fields. This information is required in preparation of navigation charts.

Canada assumed responsibility for the magnetic survey of the Pacific at a meeting last year of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics. The Pacific survey was made after one involving 22,000 miles of flying over the British Columbia mainland and waters adjoining the Pacific coast.

The observatory previously conducted magnetic surveys for navigation charts in the Atlantic and Prairie provinces, Quebec, Ontario and parts of northern Canada. It now is planning a similar project in the Canadian Arctic.

Engine Fails Over Atlantic

SHANNON, Ireland (Reuters)—A Pan-American DC-7 airliner with more than 60 passengers on board turned back over the Atlantic early today after one of its engines failed.

The plane, en route to Boston, landed safely at Shannon after jettisoning most of its fuel over the ocean.

The plane was an hour out of Shannon when the engine failed. It had originally flown from Frankfurt and had made stops at Duesseldorf and London.
