THE Government of the Dominion of Canada has accepted the invitation of the Government of the United States to take part in the World's Columbian Exposition, to be held in Chicago from 1st May to 31st October, 1893. An Executive Commissioner for Canada has been appointed, who will have the general charge of the exhibits and the allotment of space, and the several Provincial Governments have been invited to co-operate with the view of making the exhibition as complete and satisfactory as possible.

The Dominion Government will pay the transport of exhibits going and returning, and for the placing of articles sent.

Entries must be made not later than 31st July. The reception of articles at the Exposition buildings will commence 1st November, 1892, and all exhibits, excepting Live Stock, must be in place by 1st April, 1893.

OTTAWA LETTER

Proceedings in Parliament.

THE RE-DISTRIBUTION BILL

(Special Correspondence of The Examiner.)

(Concluded.)

Mr. Haggart took occasion to refer to Mr. McCarthy's personal remarks about him a few evening's previous. He rather got Mr. McCarthy in a box by charging him with having persistently urged upon the Government last session that the redistribution should then be taken up in the interests of the Conservative party. Mr. McCarthy had then pointed out that the bye-elections were coming on, and the probabilities were that the party would not be as successful as they desired to be, and it was a duty the Conservative party owed to themselves to redistribute the seats without loss of time. Mr Haggart repeated that the Leader of the Government never knew that Mr. McCarthy intended to inteoduce a motion on the subject, and that the Leader and every member of the Government was more than astonished when the amendment was proposed.

Mr. McCarthy insisted that he did not mean his amendment to be a vote of confidence in the Government. Their trade policy commended itself to him, but if they did not desire his support they had only to say so.

Thursday being the feast of Corpus Christi, was a holiday.

On Friday the redistribution bill was again taken up Mr. Charlton opened the debate with a lengthy speech, in the course of which he read some long and tiresome extracts. Coming down to the popular vote he claimed that, at the last general election, it was largely in favor of the Liberals. Then ensued another scene, and a hot and exciting one it was. Clarke Wallace challenged Cartwright's statement. Here is the debate as it took place:

Mr. Wallace—Do I understand the hon. gentleman to say that the Liberals had a popular majority in Ontario at the last election?

Sir Richard Cartwright—At the general election of 1891 the Reform majority in Ontario was 7,200 odd, according to the official statement of Mr. George Johnson, Dominion statistician. That was an official statement, sent from the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Wallace—I say that Mr. George Johnson never made any such official statement.

Sir Richard Cartwright—Yes, and I got it sent to me and other members, as well.

Mr. Wallace—He knows that he cannot produce it.

Sir Richard Cartwright—The hon. gentleman has no right to say so. I am stating what I know to have been placed in my hands.

Mr. Wallace—There was never any statement of the kind.

Sir Richard Cartwright—There was, and it was given in detail.

Mr. Wallace—I challenge him to produce it.

Sir Richard Cartwright—I don't carry these statements with me. I said that I knew the statement was given, but the hon. gentleman is unworthy my further notice. ("Order, Order.")

Mr. Wallace—I can tell the hon. gentleman that I had not to go over the whole of this country looking for a constituency.

Sir Richard Cartwright—I don't think the hon. gentleman is likely to get any other constituency.

Sir John Thompson—He (Mr. Wallace) never had to wring the hands of weeping constituents who had to vote for him.

Sir Richard Cartwright—I never had a clerical friend at my back who told me that I should be elected because I plundered the country best.

Sir John Thompson—The hon. gentleman never had any respectable element in this country at his back.

Sir Richard Cartwright—I can tell the Minister of Justice that I do not call it respectable backing that the recommendation of me to my constituents is that I am a good plunderer.

Sir Richard Cartwright then read a statement which, he said, was prepared by the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery.

Mr. Wallace — The hon. gentleman pledged his word that he would produce a statement by Mr. Johnson, and he has not done so.

Sir Richard Cartwright—The hon. gentleman is all in error. What I said was that I saw the statement, but had not it in my possession.

Mr. Wallace—He said that he had the statement which was prepared by the Dominion statistician. I say that there is no such statement. He has failed to produce it.

Mr. Wallace said that Dr. McDonald, of Huron, acknowledged that the Conservatives had overe 4,000 more of a popular vote than the Liberals. He again challenged Sir Richard Cartwright to produce the statement.

Mr. Mills (Bothwell) went on to show that Mr. Johnson's statement was incorrect in regard to Bothwell and other places.

Sir John Thompson—He is is now proving it is all wrong anyway. (Laughter.)

Mr. Mills—I am proving it was not large enough.

Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Wallace both rose to speak amid cries of order.

Sir Richard Cartwright—Mr Chairman, I request you to keep that hon. gentleman in his place.

Mr. Wallace—I rise to a point of order (cries of "order.")

Sir Richard Cartwright—Make him state his point of order.

Mr. Wallace—The hon. gentleman went to get a statement of Mr Johnson's and came back and read a statement of his own (Laughter).

Sir Richard Cartwright (speaking angrily)—That is no point at all. It is merely an impudent assertion. He had no right to state any such trash to the House. Sir Richard then proceeded to read from the election returns the majorities which members received in Ontario.

Mr. Wallace showed by taking such returns as Carleton county, where two Conservatives were running and where the Conservative majority was ordinarly over 1000, Sir Richard Cartwright gave it as 43. He cited others of a similar character. This was what he (Sir Richard Cartwright) had done, although he pledged his word to give a statement from Mr. Johnson.

Sir Richard Cartwright—The hon. gentleman is deliberately and wilfully misinterpreting what I have said. (Cries of "order.")

Mr. Wallace—I rise to a point of order. Is it parliamentary to say that an hon. gentleman is wilfully and deliberately misinterpreting what another gentleman said. (Cries of "take it back.")

Sir Richard Cartwright—No; he was corrected and afterwards he repeated the falsehood. (Renewed shouts of "order."

The Chairman—If he (Sir Richard Cartwright) meant to to say that he wilfully misinterpreted his remarks it is not in order. (Cries of "take it back.")

Sir Richard Cartwright—I corrected him twice, and after the correction he repeated it.

Mr. Wallace—We will have your ruling, Mr. Chairman.

Mr. Deputy Speaker—I have said he is not in order. The discussion has been out of order on both sides.

Mr. Wallace—If I have said anything which is cut of order I will take it back. I want to get your ruling obeyed.

Mr. Chairman—I have said that he was out of order.

Mr. Wallace—If he does not take the remark back I will ask that you take the words down.

The Chairman — The hon. gentleman (Mr. Wallace) accepted the figures of the member for South Oxford, and if he did not believe them he should not have done so.

Mr. Wallace then said that he showed them to be false, that they were false and misleading, that the hon. gentleman (Sir Richard Cartwright) knew them to be false and misleading and there he would leave him. (Laughter.)

The Chairman decided that they were both out of order and that they should pair on the matter. (Roars of laughter.)

It being 6 o'clock the Speaker left the chair.

After recess, Mr. Charlton continued his speech, and the debate proceeded till nearly one o'clock on Saturday morning.

Mr. Weldon sat down hard on Mr. McMullen. The letter was interrupting Mr. Weldon in his speech when Mr. Weldon delivered this shot:

"I will not bandy words with the hon. member, for I am reminded of the Spanish proverb, 'it is a waste of soap to scrub an ass's head with it.'"

McMullen subsequently got the floor and promised to make it hot for Dr. Weldon some other day.

The Upper Province papers of late have contained little else than the proceedings of various church courts—Presbyterian, Methdist, Baptist, Congregational, and now the Anglicans are hard at it. Political corruption and sundry other sins have been unsparingly denounced, but the report of a committee of the Anglican synod of the diocese of Toronto promises to create unusual discussion. This committee, charged with the important matter of temperance, reported that the teaching of the textbooks in the public schools on the subject of temperance was unsound and not in harmony with the doctrine of the Church of England. These books taught that wine is an evil thing and the use of wine a sin, and the children were imbued with these erroneous ideas. The report of the committee was adopted, and so pleased was the Synod with the committee's work that they were re-appointed. Now it will be in order for the Montreal Witness and the Charlottetown Guardian to speak.

A United States authority places the loss from the Mississippi floods, in six states only, at $29,100,000 Missouri lost $11,000,000, Arkansas $10,000,000, Louisiana $5,000,000, Tennessee $1,900,000, Mississippi $1,000,000, and Kentucky $200,000.

Hereditary Liver Trouble,

ENLARGEMENT OF THE LIVER,

Diagnosed by the best Physicians, CURED.

GENTS:—My father died of Consumption of the Liver, many in my family have died with the same disease, and a large part of the time for the past two years I have been very sick, no appetite, bowels alternating between Constipation and Diarrhœa. Pains all over my body, and severe pains all through my Liver, So nervous I could not sleep nights, and in fact was much emaciated and run down. BETTER

My Physician said I had Enlargement of the Liver.

The day before I commenced the use of SKODA'S REMEDIES, I had two different Physicians call upon me. People thought I must die. I had doctored so much and taken so many different kinds of patent medicines, without any benefit, that when SKODA'S DISCOVERY was brought to me, I threw away doctor's medicines, and began its use. THAN

Soon I commenced to gain; my appetite increased; from being weak and feeble I began to grow stronger; bowels assumed a natural condition; sweet and refreshing sleep came to me nights; I began to increase rapidly in flesh.

I have now taken less than a full course (six bottles) of SKODA'S DISCOVERY, with SKODA'S LITTLE TABLETS, and to-day I am strong, am able to do my own work. In fact, am well and happy. The strongest statement I could make would not tell half your wonderful Remedies have done for me. COLD
