

SUMMER WISDOM.

How To Prevent Fainting Fits Dizziness, And Other Hot Weather Dangers.

Keep the Blood Cool and Pure by Using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—They are the Only Perfect Blood Coolers Known.

The hot weather is upon us. The sultry perspiring, sweltering days are here.

People exhaust their ingenuity trying to "keep cool." Yet the blood gets overheated, goes up to boiling-point, nearly.

But how can we do this? "Cooling drinks," so-called, make matters worse. So do alcoholic liquors.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will. They cool the blood; they check the deadly rapidity of the circulation; banish throbbing in the head and temples.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets stimulate the sluggish digestive organs, supply pure, cool blood to the brain, and invigorate the whole body.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only cool the blood—they also enrich and purify it, by prompt, perfect digestion.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the most perfect and effective blood coolers and blood purifiers on earth.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or sent, on receipt of price, by the Dodd Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto.

A CHILD'S USE OF MONEY.

Various Answers Received From a Large Number of Public School Pupils.

Dr. George E. Dawson of the Bible Normal college has classified answers received from 1,307 pupils of the public schools of this city, given in response to the question, "If you had $5, all your own, what would you do with it?"

Of those who passed in answers 669 were boys and 638 were girls, their ages ranging from 5 to 16. The answers are grouped under nine general heads: 44 per cent would deposit the money in a bank, 13.8 per cent would buy clothing, 2.2 per cent would buy something to eat, 15.3 per cent would buy toys and other means of amusement, 2.1 per cent would buy jewelry and finery, nine-tenths of 1 per cent would buy firearms, 1.7 per cent would spend for travel, 14 per cent would spend for others and 6 per cent would buy books, etc.

It is interesting to note the large per cent who express a disposition to save. Dr. Dawson attributes this largely to the suggestibility of the children. The results in this respect resemble those obtained in other fields of experiment.

While the children do not realize the full significance of saving, the idea has been engrafted upon their minds and is bound to have its influence. The fact that this idea of saving has been thus forcibly impressed on the minds of so many is very significant and gives us a hint of the immense influence of public instruction.

In noting the per cent of those who would buy clothing it should be remembered that many of the children were in urgent need of something better to wear. Those who voted for something to eat were mostly under 7 years of age.

In the class who would prefer amusements the girls usually expressed a wish for dolls and doll carriages while the boys mostly desired pigeons, rabbits or other pets. In regard to travel, the figures show that as children grow older the desire to go out into the world increases rapidly, reaching its height at about the beginning of adolescence.

The desire shown by the boys for firearms is an expression of the hunting instinct that awakens when they are 10 or 12. At that age boys like to get hold of books of hunting and adventure. The tendency to buy books increases steadily as the children grow older. This class numbers about twice as many girls as boys. The class which manifests a feeling of altruism also numbers more girls than boys, showing that the greater generosity of women is strikingly manifest even at an early age.—Springfield Republican.

An Important Coachman. A large part of the charm of the altogether charming city of Washington is found among the blacks. The drivers, for example, of the various dilapidated vehicles, which are by courtesy called carriages, are thoroughly amusing. One who drove a large, lank animal built on the lines of a wooden horse and with little more spirit in him sat on the box of a four wheeler that would have disgraced the stables of a country inn.

The flourish and elegance of that coachman, however, were as fine as if he wore the liveries of the president and held the ribbons over the most prancing steeds. He kept his eyes inflexibly fixed upon the ears of his horse and drew up at a destination with the air of reining in a mettlesome charger. When his carriage was emptied, he passed on with a flourish and sweep, headed around and at once put his entire outfit at sharp attention. The ceremony of approaching the curb, on seeing his fare reappear, was equally imposing. His green driver's coat was ragged and shabby, his hat was slightly battered and knew no shine, his whip was as destitute of springs as were the seats of his brougham, and the rough coat of his steed was all that saved the animal from gaunt emaciation, yet over the whole establishment that inimitable dandy contrived to throw an air of elegance that was as serious as laughable.—New York Post.

Some Hair Cuts. "There are lots of men," says a Philadelphia barber, "who are very particular about hair cuts, but wouldn't have a word to say if they didn't have to pass inspection before their wives when they go home. I know one woman who goes so far as to accompany her husband to the barber shop. There's a regular customer of mine who is always attended by his wife when he gets his hair cut, and she stands right back of me while I work. Every few minutes I stop, and she looks over his head and makes suggestions about a 'little more off here,' 'don't shave his neck' and a lot of such comments. The waiting customers enjoy it pretty well, but I'll bet you he will want a divorce in a year, if he hasn't asked for it already."—Exchange.

BREEDS SNAKES TO SELL.

The Peculiar Discovery Made by an Englishman in India.

The bounty given by the Indian government for snakes' heads in order to exterminate these reptiles has led to a few of the dishonest natives breeding them for a living.

An Englishman recently traveling through central India made a peculiar discovery.

In the heart of a dense jungle he came across a rude hut, and close at hand was a large pit covered with a tight fitting wooden cover. He found the occupants of the hut, two disreputable looking natives, and asked them the meaning of the peculiar pit.

They informed him that they were breeders of snakes and put them in the pit, the bottom of which was covered over with dried grass and leaves.

They kept the snakes there some six months, feeding them on all kinds of small animals and birds.

They then filled a large earthen pot with poisonous herbs, lighted it, lowered it into the pit and secured the tight fitting wooden cover, and thus smothered the reptiles.

The cover was allowed to remain on for a few days. It was then removed and the snakes were taken out by means of a long pole with a spike at the end of it.

Their heads were then cut off, and one of the rogues set out for the nearest government agency to obtain the bounty, while the other one caught fresh snakes for the pit.

The snakes very often devoured one another, but the mothers generally managed to bring up their young, though it was a marvel they bred at all in such a place, it being, one would think, contrary to their nature.—London Correspondence.
