CHEAPEST AND BEST DRY GOODS HOUSE
IN CHARLOTTETOWN?
Is a question frequently asked, and we believe the best solution of the problem is a careful comparison of the goods and the prices charged. In point of genuine value we claim to stand in the front rank, and respectfully invite a fair comparison. We wish also to intimate to our friends that, notwithstanding the effort put forth by our opponents to sell at a discount of 33 1-3 per cent, our sales this month have been larger than ever. This, alone, convinces us that our prices are honest and that we are serving our customers well. We again ask you to look everywhere; but buy nowhere till you inspect.

Autumn.
Tis autumn by the half clothed trees,
And all the land is seeking rest;
The bluebird, robin, and the bee
Are now in quest of winter ease.
The acorns and the walnuts fall;
The milkweed turns its leaves to gold,
And thistles nod, and blue stems tall
Grow slowly old at Nature's call.
The skies have donned their brightest blue,
And trimmed their robes with fleecy lace;
For autumn's task is almost through,
And winter's face appears in view.
—Charles K. Bolton, in Brooklyn Magazine.

The Mayoralty Vote in New York.
The voting in the New York mayoralty contest resulted approximately as follows:
Hewitt (Democrat)..... 90,300
Roosevelt (Republican)..... 60,300
George (Labor)..... 61,700
It is interesting now to review the forecasts made by the different parties the day before the elections. The Republicans figured out the result as follows:
Roosevelt..... 97,000
Hewitt..... 63,000
George..... 60,000
The Democrats calculated as follows—
Hewitt..... 110,000
Roosevelt..... 60,000
George..... 50,000
And Mr. George's managers, making the total vote less, thought it would be thus distributed:—
George..... 75,000
Roosevelt..... 72,000
Hewitt..... 69,000
In the Presidential campaign of 1884 the Republicans polled about 90,000 votes and the Democrats about 133,000, so that, making allowance for the difference in the total vote cast, it would seem that Mr. George's vote was about equally drawn from the two parties.

Evil of Indorsing.
I affirm, says Judge Waldo Brown, in the Boston Traveller, that the system of indorsing is all wrong, and should be utterly abolished. I believe that it has been the financial ruin of more men than, perhaps, all other causes. I think that our young men especially should study the matter carefully in all its bearings, and adopt some settled policy to govern their conduct, so as to be ready to answer the man who asks them to sign his note. What responsibility does one assume when he indorses a note? Simply this: He is held for the payment of the amount in full, principal and interest, if the maker of the note, through misfortune, mismanagement, or rascality, fails to pay it. Notice, the indorser assumes all this responsibility, with no voice in the management of the business and no share in the profits of the transaction, if it prove profitable, but with a certainty of loss if, for any of the reasons stated, the principal fails to pay the note.

The Brooklyn Magazine.
Full of those bright and readable articles that make up a popular magazine, the November Brooklyn Magazine is eminently interesting and entertaining. Mr. Wm. H. Rideing's second gossipy paper on "The Royal Navy of Great Britain," serves as the opening attraction, and gives us a clear idea of what it costs to maintain England's navy. Hon. Seth Low's name appears for the first time in a magazine, in a well-written article, giving some very bright and pungent observations on "The Irish Home Rule Controversy," describing Mr. Gladstone as he appeared on the floor of the House of Commons, and analyzing the general question in a highly intelligent manner. Anna Katharine Green, author of "The Leavenworth Case," shows that she has striking poetical talents, in a lengthy poem, "In the King's Cabinet." Mrs. Flora Adams Darling adds three chapters to her novel of Washington life, "A Social Diplomat," in which a glimpse of Washington society is given in a dexterous manner. "Ranch Life in California" is described by Mrs. M. J. Gorton in a graphic style, and a pretty, short story of the war, entitled "Edith Warner," is cleverly told by George E. Walsh. The poetry of the number is especially good. Mrs. Beecher's last letter from England takes us with her famous husband on his lecturing tour through England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales. Other articles deal with "Marriage Customs in Turkey," "Heroines of Theatrical Scandal," "Modern Shams in Society," "In a Dutch Prison," "What Girls should Read," in addition to which are given the farewell sermons of Henry Ward Beecher in England, and four sermons by T. DeWitt Talmage, all authorized and revised by the preachers themselves. This Magazine costs only 20 cents per single number, 7 Murray Street, New York.

The Social Problem of England.
In a speech which he delivered at Liverpool on October 10, Lord Derby said the agricultural interest in England, through bad seasons and falling prices, has within ten years lost £200,000,000. Then other nations were copying and rivaling manufactures in which for a short period England stood alone, and, of course, there was loss in that. And, finally, the people of the British islands increase in number, after deducting emigration, by 400,000 a year—that is, they have to provide for, feed, clothe, educate and maintain an additional 4,000,000 in every decade. A whole nation is added to the population every ten years, bringing no land, no mines, no accumulations with it, nothing but its labor, which may not be wanted. That is a side of the social problem which Lord Derby says disquiets him.

Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil, with Hypophosphites
Is prepared in a perfectly agreeable form, at the same time increasing the remedial potency of both of these specifics. It is acknowledged by leading physicians to be marvellous in its curative powers in consumption, Scrofula, chronic coughs and wasting diseases. Take no other.
MORE ELECTRICITY IN CHARLOTTETOWN.—
W. Brown has purchased a Dynamo-Electric Machine, one of the latest improved New York style. This machine is capable of depositing two lbs. of silver per day. Mr. Brown is now prepared to do Gold and Silver Plating second to none in the world, such as knives, forks, spoons, tea sets, watches, jewelry of all kinds; also carriage work, handles, dashers, etc., at the Athenaeum, corner of Prince and Grafton Streets.

Marriage Customs in Turkey.
All weddings in Turkey, among Turks, whether in provinces or cities, are arranged by old women, and are complicated, tedious affairs. The bridegroom holds fast several days at his home for his men friends, and the prospective bride at her home with her young friends—girls, of course. The night before the wedding the married women of her acquaintance come and eat the married woman's dinner with her, which consists principally, as Sam Weller would say, of a "swarry" of leg of mutton and trimmings. The next day the bride is taken to the bridegroom's house in a sedan chair, with a retinue of slaves carrying her wedding presents on trays on their heads, covered with colored tartan. The procession is sometimes quite imposing. The bride's female relatives are also there in the new harem until night-fall, and they retire to their homes, leaving the bride sitting on a sort of throne, veiled. The bridegroom is then admitted, and he is to throw himself at the bride's feet and offer her his wedding present of some handsome jewelry, and beg her to raise her veil and strike him blind by her beauty. Sometimes he is struck dumb by her ugliness, for he never looks on her face until after the wedding.
When a babe is born in any house there is great rejoicing if it be a boy less if a girl. The wife is proud for awhile; but Turkish women are not good mothers. They are too child-like themselves. When a girl is born to a Sultan, they fire seven guns; when a boy, twenty-one. The boys die early; the girls are more apt to live. This is supposed to be a divine interposition of Providence to prevent too many claimants to the throne. Babies are dressed like mummies in swaddling clothes for six months; then the boys are put in trousers, sometimes in generals' or colonels' uniforms, regularly made.
When the Sultan takes a wife no ceremony is considered necessary more than to present his bride. The new Sultan inherits all the widows and slaves of his predecessor, and every year of his reign, at the feast of the Ramazan, he receives a new one from his mother, and takes any other girl or woman to his harem who happens to strike his fancy. Slaves who become mothers are instantly promoted to the rank of Sultana. Six months before the feast of Ramazan, the Valide Sultana orders that all the young candidates be brought to her, and she chooses fifteen and sometimes more of the lot. These are immediately put under diet and training, and at the beginning of the great feast she again chooses, and this time the choice is final. At the evening of the appointed day the Sultan, upon retiring, finds his new bride standing nude, with folded hands and lowered eyes, at the foot of his bed. After he has retired she must lift the bed-clothes at the foot and crawl into bed in that way as a sign of subjection.
Girls arrive at legal majority at nine years of age, and are frequently married at ten. Children of twelve and thirteen are often seen with babies of their own. They are old at twenty-five. The old Turkish women have a hard lot of it. Beyond a respect for age, which they contrive to inspire by tooth and nail among other wiles younger than they, their lives are not happy. Still, they are provided for, and as long as a man lives he feeds his family, one and all alike.—Brooklyn Magazine.
