Help Chinese Drive Back Greek Troops

SEOUL, Sept. 29 (Monday) — (AP) — Four United States jets Sunday accidentally bombed a newly-won Allied hill on the Korean western front and helped counter-attacking Chinese Reds drive Greek infantry off the position.

Greek casualties were not announced but the mistaken bombing was reported to have hit only a small number.

The Greek troops, fighting as a unit of the U. S. 3rd Division, had seized "Big Nori" Hill before dawn, and held the crest through three furious Communist counter-blows.

Five hours later, just as the Reds were hurrying their fourth drive, U. S. F-80 fighter-bombers swooped down to support the Greeks. The U. S. Eighth Army said some bombs fell short on the southern slopes, where the Greeks were fighting.

The Greeks pulled back to their jump-off position, a hill known as "Little Nori" near Red-held "Kelly Hill," seven miles south of Chorwon.

An official spokesman of the Eighth Army said without qualification that it was the fourth Red counter-attack that knocked the Greeks off the hill. The Chinese used more than 300 men in this assault.

63 Canadian Jets Leave On Leap-Frog Movement Overseas

OTTAWA, Sept. 28 (CP) — Fifty-seven F-86 Sabre jets in the R. C. A. F.'s mass trans-Atlantic flight to Europe arrived safely today at Goose Bay, Labrador, the Air Force announced.

Six of the 63 jets which took off from Ottawa today have been held over for the night at Bagotville, Que. An Air Force spokesman said he had no information on why the jets were delayed.

The three-squadron wing the biggest instalment yet of Canada's air fighter contribution to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — took off in perfect flying weather from Uplands Airport.

The flight to Goose Bay was the first leg of a leap-frog operation that will take them across the North Atlantic to their new base at Gros-Tenquin, France, near Metz.

One of the three squadrons was scheduled to land at Bagotville for refueling. The spokesman here said it was possible that one plane developed trouble and the other five were held back to accompany it to Goose Bay.

Negotiators agreed to a 10-day recess, asked by the Allies, to permit full Red study of proposals. Nam warned that "the retaining of war prisoners is not to be tolerated," by the Communists.

The Allied move by Lt. Gen. William Harrison, Jr., U. N. senior negotiator, made no change in the basic U. N. position that no prisoners be forced to return to Communist rule. However, it would allow the Reds to announce that "all" prisoners were repatriated.

Officially, the Allied delegation was non-committal after offering the exchange plan. Unofficially, there was no optimism.

Harrison shrugged as he emerged from the Sunday meeting at Panmunjom.

"I'm no prophet," he told newspaper men, and added: "I don't express any opinion. When I do I'm usually wrong."

Nam paid rapt attention as Harrison explained the three alternatives. The Red delegate asked for a short recess, but when he returned, again insisted that all war prisoners be sent home.

Bradley Sees Improved Chance Of Avoiding War

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP) — Gen. Omar Bradley thinks the chance of Russia making war by 1954 is lessening but that the possibility "is so great we can't afford to slow down" the defence build-up.

The chairman of the United States Joint Chiefs of Staff, back from a recent inspection trip to Europe, also expressed these other thoughts at a press conference Saturday.

Although there is no idea of telling the secrets of atomic bomb manufacture, won't the top military leaders of the U.N.T.O. countries other than the United States need to have some idea how many atomic weapons they can count on as part of the Western European defence plan?

The question was split among military leaders over strategy for the defence of Western Europe against a Russian attack.

Checked from each side's list and considered fully repatriated for the purpose of the agreement.

Both sides must agree that the prisoner shall state his choice at the time of identification if the P.O.W. chooses to remain with the side which captures him.

Harrison made these alternative proposals:

1. The obligation to exchange and repatriate prisoners shall be fulfilled by bringing them to an agreed exchange point. There the P.O.W.'s would be identified, checked from each side's list and considered fully repatriated for the purpose of the agreement.

Hurricane 300 Miles Off N.S.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 28 (AP) — The season's third hurricane, "Charlie," still packing winds up to 100 miles an hour near the centre, was reported today about 300 miles southeast of Nova Scotia, moving east northeast at 15 to 20 miles an hour. Gales extend outward from the centre for 300 miles.

Shipping in the path of hurricane "Charlie" was advised to exercise caution. No land areas were in the storm's path.

A fourth hurricane, "Dog," developed Friday in the Atlantic east of the Lesser Antilles and was first located approximately 450 miles east of Antigua, British West Indies. It grew to bare hurricane strength—75 miles an hour—over a small area Friday, but winds fell to 40 to 45 miles an hour Saturday and continued to lose strength today.

Hurricanes are named after letters of the alphabet in the order of their occurrence.

Well Known Philosopher And Writer Dies

ROME, Sept. 28 (AP) — George Santayana, world renowned philosopher and writer of the best-selling novel "The Last Puritan," died of cancer of the stomach Friday night in a Roman Catholic convent in which he had lived in solitude for 25 years. He was 88.

Ranked as one of the 20th century's greatest thinkers, Santayana was a Spaniard by birth. He was a professor of philosophy at Harvard University from 1889 to 1911. His philosopher's mind stayed sharp and alert to the end. His final book, "Dominations and Powers," a philosophical summation, was completed and published only last year.

Surrounded by the books he loved, Santayana died in his tiny room at the clinic of the Little Company of Mary, a British order of nuns known as the "Blue Sisters" because of the pale blue habits they wear.

His room overlooking the ancient Roman Colosseum, had been his study.

Princess Sacrifices Title For Love

LONDON, Sept. 28 (Reuters) — A slender, dark-eyed Malayan princess sacrificed her title and royal income Saturday for the man she loves—a London printer.

As 21-year-old Princess Zabarina stepped to the altar of a London church with Arthur Collins, 30, a message from the Royal House of Kedah announced she had been stripped of her title, and allowances.

Her father told newspaper men: "It makes no difference to me."

The bride sacrifices only $14 monthly in allowances from the royal household, spiritual head of 540,000 Moslems. Collins averages about $8 weekly salary as a printer.

THE LAST STRAW

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Sept. 28 (AP) — An agitator entered City Hall Saturday and said his wife ran off with another man last week. He wanted a warrant to arrest the pair.

The City Attorney replied that the case was not under his jurisdiction, and asked, "Why have you waited so long?"

"I discovered only today that they took $18 I had hidden under a rug," the husband explained.

to open up the Crow's Nest statute. Before the Royal Commission on Transportation two years ago, the C. P. R. attempted unsuccessfully to obtain a finding that the statute should be reviewed, claiming that changed conditions have outmoded the rates set originally in 1897. The government-owned Canadian National Railways look a neutral stand, but it is joining in the domestic-grain application.

The domestic rates have not been increased since 1921 and have been specifically exempted by the Transport Board from the series of post-war general rate increases totalling 70 per cent. The first rate decision in 1948 took the stand that it would not be reasonable to throw the domestic grain tolls in the West out of line with the export rates, and this principle has been carried through since then.

Meanwhile, the railways have applied increases on the same grain in Eastern Canada, though not to the full extent authorized by the board. What they want to do now is to jack up the Western rates to the Eastern level.

Stevenson Makes Public His Tax Returns

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (CP) — Governor Adlai Stevenson tonight made public 10 years of his Federal income tax returns. His vice-presidential running mate, Senator John Sparkman of Alabama is preparing to reveal his.

The returns released by the Democratic presidential candidate showed that during the period 1942-51 as Governor of Illinois he received gross income totalling $151,110 in addition to his state salary of $12,000 a year.

The returns showed that most of the income for the three-year period came from dividends received from corporation investments. During his three years as governor he drew $4,800 as a director of the Illinois Central Railroad.

A Stevenson aide told a reporter in Springfield, Ill., today the Democratic presidential candidate wanted "to put all the facts right on the table in his case" and to "clear the air once and for all" regarding his finances.

The aide, who asked not to be named, added that Stevenson felt there had been too much talk about the finances of the candidates.

Some associates of the Illinois Governor expressed opinion that Stevenson's action would prompt a public demand for the income tax returns of the Republican candidates.

But Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican presidential nominee, wasn't saying yet whether he would follow Stevenson's lead. His aides said the General was resting in New York and would have no statement on income taxes or any other topic for the present.

Sparkman told interviewers that "I personally would not" have such an expense fund as the one wealthy Californians gathered for Senator Richard Nixon, the Republican vice-presidential candidate.

But the Alabama said he would not pass judgement on Nixon's fund.

Fishing Vessels Run For Shelter

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 28 (CP) — This old eastern seaport looked like a picture out of a historical novel today.

Dozens of French, Spanish and Portuguese trawlers—many of them square-rigged and carrying full canvas—scurried for shelter from an approaching Atlantic hurricane to the landlocked harbor where fishermen of the same nationalities berthed three centuries ago in the early days of the Grand Bank fishery.

Powerful Wafdist Party Refuses To Submit To Gov't

CAIRO, Sept. 28 (AP) — The powerful Wafdist Party which waged the fight for Egyptian independence refused Saturday to submit to government regulations and thereby scuttled itself as a legal political organization.

Ibrahim Farag, former cabinet minister said the party will "continue its activities"—a hint that it might go underground after 33 years of dominant activity.

This was the first serious defiance of the strong-man Premier, Maj.-Gen. Mohamed Naguib, whose government has given Egypt's political parties 30 days to purge themselves of grafters and corrupters and present a reorganized slate of officers to the Interior Department.

The Wafdist Party was organized in 1919 to fight for independence and has been in office six times since 1922, when Egypt was established as a sovereign kingdom.

Once it was in power under Saad Zaghloul, veteran nationalist leader, and five times under Mustapha Nahas who assumed the party leadership in 1927 on Zaghloul's death.

Refused To Ditch Leader

The simmering conflict between the party, which swept the last national election in 1950, and Naguib's army-backed revolutionary government came to a climax when the party refused to ditch Nahas as its leader.

The party's executive committee announced Saturday that it would not submit to the Interior Minister the details of its reorganization.

The decision, said Information Minister Fathi Radwan, was tantamount to dissolution of the party.

Farag said the Wafdist had done everything possible to cooperate with the army.

The Wafdist has been one of the major targets of the army's charges of graft, bribery and abuses of power. Naguib followed his July 23 coup by forcing the party to dissolve its National Council and staging a round-up of more than 50 prominent politicians.

Russia Appears Digging In For Economic Siege

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP) — The United States Saturday quietly ended a diplomatic snubbing of the Communist Government of Romania. President Truman named veteran foreign service officer Harold Shantz, 58, to be minister to Bucharest, a post which had been left vacant for 18 months.

The over-all impression is one of an "unready giant" laying in supplies for a waiting game but anxious lest chance play a major role in shaping history in the next few critical years. This unreadiness is in the fields of transport and communications, public medicine, trained industrial personnel, food production for a war-gear economy and measures to hold the line against the inflation threatening such an economy.

The plan is to be advertised to show "the superiority of the Communist system over the capitalist."

This is for home consumption, promising once again the transition "from Socialism to Communism." But the transition is farther away than ever. There is no sign whatsoever of the promised "withering away of the state." The state gets more powerful daily, but the workers will be told great strides have been made and the speed of transition depends on them.

Lesser-known aspects of the plan contain a detailed story of the drive in all sections of the population to expend the utmost strength for the might of Moscow. The plan designed to guard the consumer, manufacturer and distributor against dishonest and unfair competitive practices.

The changes in the Trademark Act will bring it up to date with current practices.

Due for introduction is a bill revising the Civil Service Pensions Act and extending its provisions to cover more government employees.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP) — With its fifth five-year plan, the Soviet Union gives the impression of digging in for an economic siege, building feverishly for a day of reckoning perhaps still far away.

In outlining the measures to be accomplished in the 1950-55 period, the Russian text of the five-year plan uses the words "to insure the country against any accident." It seems a meaningful phrase.

The five-year plan, published recently for approval by the all-Union Communist Party Congress next week, actually has been under way almost 1 1/2 years.
