BRANDON, MANITOBA, SEPT. 8TH, 1890.

DEAR SIRS,—Having been out of order for some time, and having no energy or appetite, blotches on legs, tumor on neck—arising from impure blood, doctors doing me no good, I was induced to buy some B.B.B. I was very much against patent medicines at the time having tried so many, but after using two bottles I began to get better, and at the fourth bottle was completely well and around again. I believe in B.B.B. now, I tell you. I send you a photo of myself and little daughter, Lilly. B.B.B. cured her of nasty blisters which came out on her lips. Yours thankfully,

Prohibition and Politics.

While prohibition is the earnest desire of every temperance man and woman in the Dominion of Canada to-day, have all acted wisely in their method of attack on the opposing forces? Has not the cause suffered greatly by being subjected to party? You cannot reconcile politics as they are with prohibition. Total prohibition of the liquor traffic has an elevated standard of righteousness and justice. It comes to lift up, not to debase; it comes to improve and preserve, not to corrupt. It means that the hungry, half clothed child, who lives in a drunkard's home shall be clothed and fed. It means that men who are bound with the fetters of appetite shall have the temptation removed. It means that wives and mothers whose hearts have been crushed with anguish and despair shall be made to rejoice. It means that Sabbath desecration in bar-rooms and saloons shall cease. It means that the rumsellers shall no longer rob wives and mothers of their husbands and sons; shall no longer take the bread from hungry children's mouths; shall no longer become rich by the substance of the poor; shall no longer have dominion over us. It means a beautiful white shield, a strong rock of defence, a mighty lever that shall crush out the existence of King Alcohol forever, thereby brinving peace, prosperity and happiness to all people in this great Dominion of ours.

On the other hand what does politics mean? Webster defines politics as "the science of government; that part of ethics which consists in the regulation and government of a nation or State for the preservation of its safety, peace and prosperity comprehending the defence of existence and rights against foreign control or conquest, the augmentation of its strength and resources, and the protection of its citizens in their rights with the preservation and improvement of their morals.

Now, does politics mean this to-day? If politics meant this to-day, our hearts would have been gladdened long ago with the fact that prohibition had come, and come to stay. But such is not the condition of things. Webster would give the political world a very different definition to-day. He would define it thus: Politics the science of corruption, falsehood, deception, giving men liberty to practice all kinds of deception and bribery in order to gain their election; allowing men to sacrifice principle for power, conscience for official gains, not caring the snap of their finger whether or not the citizens are protected in their rights with the preservation and improvement of their morals, so long as their own objects are gained. What prospect, then, is there of obtaining prohibition from such a source? Something should be done to elevate the character of the Legislature. The reason why politics has fallen so low is certainly and emphatically the fault of Christian men, who with the power of the ballot in their possession will vote for and elect men of party rather than principle. Instead of using their influence in electing the right men they have let the rum power gain the ascendency, and the results to-day are that the government is largely in the hands of the liquor traffic. Let me quote a paragraph from a missionary correspondent to the Montreal Witness. He says:

"The Christians of England are damning the Chinese, the Hindoos, and the Africans. The Christians of England are damning their own sons and daughters by the liquor traffic. The Christians of the United States formerly bought and sold into slavery millions of people. They recently tried to pass the Force Bill, that is, legislate the government into perpetual power. The Christians of the United States are in league with and uphold the liquor curse. The Christians of Canada are cursing the Northwest and the whole land with rum, by voting for and keeping in power the men who have done, and are now doing these things."

Surely, surely while the Christians were asleep the enemy has been sowing tares. Oh let us wake up to our responsibility. Let us vote for principle and then we shall reap the rewards of a clear conscience and have the favor of God which is better than all earthly gain.

The question has often been asked, Why cannot we get Prohibition at once? And the answer comes thundering down from the Council Chamber, Ottawa, "The country is not ready for it." Not ready! Ask the wives and mothers of Canada if they are ready for prohibition and the answer comes back echoed and re-echoed from the Pacific to the Atlantic, "Ready long ago and waiting for something to save our husbands and sons." Ask the dear little boys and girls that run about our streets barefooted, hungry and half-clad, if they are ready, and their very appearance will bring back the answer stronger and louder than words, that they too are ready. Ask the temperance people if they are ready for this righteous measure in the cause of which they have fought so nobly? And there comes from the hearts of thousands of earnest Christian men and women all over this broad Dominion, the loud response: We are ready! Every true man and woman who has at heart the progress of the Kingdom of God, the beloved interests of their homes, the uplifting of fallen humanity, together with every child, are ready for Prohibition. Then why don't we get it? Because the brewers are not ready, the distillers are not ready, the rumsellers are not ready. And alas, alas, the great majority of politicians are not ready. Some are afraid of being termed cranks or fanatics, and others are so bound under the influence of the ballot of the liquor dealers that they dare not step out on the principles of temperance, lest they should not gain their election, and thereby lose official gains, whilst others care not which way the wind blows so long as they have the honor and the power. Cowardly conduct for politicians, don't you think? May God soon deliver us from such unworthy men. We never need expect prohibition from such representatives as these. Let us therefore elect men with clean hands and pure hearts who regardless of partyism and standing on the principles of truth and righteousness will fight earnestly and perseveringly "For God and home and native land," and who will conscientiously maintain the protection of the electors in their rights, as well as the preservation and improvement of their morals.

With such men as these as our representatives, and the ballot in the hands of enfranchised women by the side of the ballot of men, our hearts will soon be made glad in the possession of this righteous and God-honored measure—Total Prohibition of the liquor traffic. NAOMI.

Green Goods Again.

MORE VILLAINY TO ENTRAP THE COVETOUS.

A gentleman in this city has received the following circular, etc., which speaks for itself. No doubt many others in the Province have received similar documents; but it is to be hoped no one has had the cupidity and verdancy to respond. Here is the circular:—

[STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL.]

MY DEAR SIR,—I am desirous of obtaining a good, shrewd Agent in your locality to handle my "Goods." I enclose herewith a newspaper clipping which gives all the information that could be desired, and which explains itself. Thinking you are in a position to safely handle my goods, I have concluded to write you. If you don't care to invest in this enterprise, I hope you will excuse the liberty I have taken in making the proposition. If you have been unsuccessful in your business, I can supply you with goods with which you can pay off all your debts and start free and clear again. You can purchase mortgages, etc. An opportunity like this to make an independent fortune has never crossed your path before, and in all probability never will as long as you live. It was never intended that one man should have millions of dollars and another nothing, so don't throw away this chance to get riches. Others have grown rich around you, no one knows how. Why not help yourself? If you have not the ready money to purchase my goods, I would consent to your taking some confidential friend in with you, provided, of course, he is trustworthy and could keep a secret. You can both come on together and make the deal. However, you would be very foolish to take any one in with you if you could raise enough money yourself. If you conclude to embrace this "golden chance" and my business should suit you, it will be absolutely necessary for you to come on here and see me in person. I only deal face to face with my customers. Experience has taught me that this is the safest and most satisfactory way for both. When you meet me you see what you are buying and I see who I am dealing with, consequently we both feel better satisfied. I do not ask nor expect to be paid one cent until you have examined my entire stock, selected what you want, and the goods are in your possession. You must carry the goods away with you, and if you desire it I will see you in safety out of this city. I can't consent to send goods either by express or mail. I know it is quite a journey for you to make, but look at the immense profits to be made with no risk whatever, and as far as expenses are concerned I always make a liberal allowance to cover them. Make up your mind to come on at once. I know you will always look back at your trip to see me with pleasure and profit. My goods are first-class in every particular, and as fine as the newspaper article speaks of. Your own good sense should tell you I can have no object in misrepresenting the quality of my stock and bring you here on a fool's errand, for I ask no money in advance and trade only on the terms above mentioned, namely, don't ask nor expect to be paid one cent until you have examined my entire stock (consisting of hundreds of thousands of dollars,) selected what you want, and the goods are in your possession. My prices are as follows: Three hundred and fifty dollars buys four thousand dollars in my goods; five hundred dollars buys seventy-five hundred dollars; six hundred and fifty dollars buys thirteen thousand five hundred dollars, and one thousand dollars buys twenty-eight thousand dollars. The more you invest the cheaper you get the goods. Three hundred and fifty dollars worth is positively the smallest amount I will sell under any consideration, as I won't do a retail business, it would let too many into the secret. If you will invest six hundred and fifty or one thousand dollars, I will agree to give you the exclusive state right. Now, if you wish to do business with me, you must obey the following instructions and do only as I tell you:

First—Don't as long as you live ever write me a letter: if you do I shall refuse to receive it; and furthermore, all business relations between us will end. Don't forget this, please, and remember I mean exactly what I say.

Secon.:—If you wish to come on here and see me, send a telegram, a copy of which is herein enclosed; send this telegram as it reads, and is signed on enclosed slip. Remember, send no letters; telegrams only received.

Third—On receipt of your telegram I will send you full instructions how to meet me and what hotel to stop at, then no mistake will be made in finding me. Don't think of coming on to meet me without first telegraphing me for instructions, which be sure to follow.

In conclusion I wish to say if you cannot come on here or have not three hundred and fifty dollars to invest, simply let the matter drop until you hear from me again.

Now allow me once more to caution you not to write letters. You must be guided by my advice; if you do you are bound to succeed. No such thing as fail. Act square; be true and honorable; do me no harm, and you will never regret it. You can make money faster and easier by dealing in my goods than you ever dreamed of before in your life.

Yours very truly, in honor and confidence,

If you wish to come and see me send the following telegram, I shall understand it and will send you full instructions how I can be found, but distinctly understand I mean exactly what I say, under no consideration send me a letter for I positively won't receive it. In forwarding this telegram remember no one excepting you and I know its meaning so have no fears about sending it.

Copy of Telegram to Send.

The claim will not be allowed.

Sign your name and Post Office address.

I will send you full instructions on receipt of above telegram, where and how you can meet me at my headquarters. I only receive my telegrams at this address but transact business elsewhere. Never send night telegrams. Send your messages in the morning between eight and twelve o'clock if possible.
