

Let Us Send You the
COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE
THREE months, FREE

Three months' free trial for merely sending your name.
No money, no letter, nothing but your address on the attached coupon.
If, after three months' trial, you wish to have the magazine stopped, merely tell us, and the copies received will cost you nothing.
You are to be the exclusive judge.
And there'll be no questions, no quibbling, nothing.
We'll leave the decision all to you.
If, after three months' trial, you find you need the COSMOPOLITAN, let us send you the magazine for the full year.

Remember, though, that in reading the COSMOPOLITAN, you are reading one of the oldest high class magazines published to day in America.
Such eminent and great men have in the past contributed to the reputation of the COSMOPOLITAN as President Roosevelt, Mark Twain, President Eliot, John Wannamaker, Count Tolstol, Henry Watterson, Jas Whitcomb Riley, etc, etc.

The following list of eminent contributors—taken from among a hundred others—will indicate the remarkably high standard that will be maintained by the COSMOPOLITAN 1906—FICTION: Sir Gilbert Parker, Alfred Henry Lewis, Booth Tarkington, ART: Frederic Remington, Henri Lanois, Frank Verkeek, SPECIAL: Henry Watterson, Edwin Markham, Elbert Hubbard.
No finer array of talent could possibly be offered than the list of world specialists named above.

"Home" magazine is the key note to the COSMOPOLITAN.
In no sense is the COSMOPOLITAN a small, cheap, 16-page mail-order monthly.
It is, to the contrary, a great 240-page illustrated home magazine.
Its editorial policy aims at every phase of clean, wholesome home life.
An abundance of bright stories, full of fun, life and action, will interest every member of the family.
Topics of the day are treated sanely, by experts of international reputation.
Political reform, international affairs, economics, social problems, and a hundred other timely topics of which every intelligent man or woman must be informed.

The COSMOPOLITAN also affords unusual advantages for the refining and educative value of art, Remington, Lanois, Fogarty, Terbeck, are only a few of the masters represented.
The COSMOPOLITAN, furthermore has just begun one of the most remarkable exposés ever attempted by a contemporary magazine,—"The Treason of the Senate," by David Graham Phillips.

It will be strictly impossible, during this series, for us to insure newspaper purchasers a copy of the magazine, but,

We do guarantee that all readers who have, under this special offer, applied direct to the office for copies, will receive regularly the magazine during this brilliant series of articles.
Be sure to read this most scathing of all political exposures.

We thoroughly believe that every intelligent reader will not only take but actually want the COSMOPOLITAN, should he once see the magazine itself.

And that's why we offer a three months' free trial at our expense. We leave the decision entirely upon the merit of the monthly.

If you don't like the three months received, you may stop the paper, and the copies received won't cost you a cent.

The offer is clear, plain, straightforward.
You are to be the only judge.
We are going to leave it all to your decision.

Could anything be more fair?
Fill out to-day the coupon below—place in an envelope—remail to us—and receive three months' test free.

But mail the coupon to-day—tomorrow will never come.

La "Revue Canadienne"

La Revue Canadienne nous arrive aujourd'hui avec un numéro réellement splendide. Elle nous donne la primeur d'un des plus beaux livres qui aient été publiés au Canada et certainement le plus intéressant qu'il soit possible de présenter au public canadien-français. Il est intitulé: "Le St-Laurent Historique, Légendaire et Topographique" de Montréal à Chicoutimi sur le Saguenay et à Cacouna sur la rive sud du fleuve. L'auteur donne succinctement l'histoire et les légendes qui se rattachent à toutes les villes et villages que l'on passe lorsque l'on fait le voyage par eau; une belle gravure de l'église de chaque place, ne permet pas au voyageur de se méprendre sur l'endroit où il est.

Voilà un livre qui devrait être distribué par milliers dans nos collèges, couvents et écoles; il est impossible de trouver un meilleur moyen d'enseigner l'histoire de notre cher Canada à nos enfants comme à tout le monde. Présenté ainsi, sous la forme d'un voyage, elle devient attrayante au plus haut degré. Combien de faits, d'anecdotes et de légendes n'avons-nous pas trouvés, que nous ne connaissons pas, même dans cette première partie que nous donne la revue de ce mois, elle nous fait pressentir bien des surprises pour le reste de l'ouvrage qu'on nous promet, pour le mois prochain. Ajoutons que l'illustration est exquise, et, nous dit-on, comprendra plus de deux cents gravures. Elle aussi nous réserve plus d'une révélation, ainsi dans cette première partie, nous avons le fameux "château de Longueuil" dont nous avions bien entendu parler, mais dont nous n'avions aucune idée. Que de belles églises nous possédons aussi, sans le savoir.

Ce volume que l'on nous annonce, sera de plus accompagné de dix sept carates du fleuve, donnant des détails inus jusqu'à ce jour, à tout autre, qu'à des mains très expérimentées. Quelles belles vacances, qu'une excursion le long de notre beau fleuve en canot ou en chaloupe, accompagné de ce beau guide, lorsque chaque île, en un mot tous les détails du fleuve, se sont facilement reconnus.

On a souvent reproché au gouvernement d'avoir distribué des livres inutiles, en voici un qu'il ne pourra jamais trop répandre. Publié en anglais, en même temps qu'un Français, il est appelé à faire connaître partout notre beau et magnifique St-Laurent.

Nos plus sincères félicitations aux éditeurs de la Revue Canadienne, qui dans ce numéro nous donne aussi le texte du jugement de l'honorable juge Fortin dans la cause de Jules Mary contre Barthélemi Hubert, qui établit la reconnaissance des Droits d'Auteur au Canada.

M. Albert Laerge, dans un court article accompagné de huit portraits, nous donne l'histoire de cette cause désormais célèbre dans nos annales littéraires.

Nous avons hâte de recevoir le prochain numéro de la Revue Canadienne, qui devrait être dans toutes les mains canadiennes-françaises.
