

BRAZILIAN PRESIDENT IS OUSTED

Impressive Ceremonies In City & Province Yesterday

Citizens of Prince Edward Island throughout town and hamlet joined yesterday in a period of silence and remembrance to honour those who gave their lives in the service of their country. Large numbers of veterans paraded in memory of fallen comrades and as the last notes of Reveille faded, thoughts turned backward to the days of bitter struggle and hardship and to those held dear by them.

At Charlottetown the largest parades of many years were held. Headed by the Prince Edward Island Regiment (RECCCE) Band, the parade moved off from the Legion home by way of Queen Street to Kent to Great George St. to the Cenotaph.

His Honour Lieutenant Governor Prowse, the Premier A. W. Matheson and Mayor J. D. Stewart were in attendance and placed wreaths. Mrs. Blois Andrew representing the motherhood of the Province; Monk Rush, President of the Charlottetown Canadian Legion and G. R. Howard, President of Confederation Wing, R.C.A.F. Association, placed wreaths along with many other representing organizations and private families.

During the service the RECCCE band under the direction of Sgt. Charles MacGregor played the Dead March in Saul and the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past".

The war memorial this year presented an improved appearance with the addition of the four flag-staffs representing the Legion and the three armed services. The new railing and landscaping around the monument also added to the appearance of the memorial and made for greater orderliness at the parade.

Rev. E. C. Evans, Protestant Chaplain in the Charlottetown Canadian Legion led in a prayer of remembrance in which the sacrifices of those who died were noted. He asked that those "to whom the Torch had fallen" would continue the struggle for peace and freedom in the World.

On the return march to the Legion home, the Band struck up some familiar marching airs to which the veterans of two great conflicts stepped smartly. The parade was under the direction of Comrade Arthur Hale, Sgt.-at-Arms for the local Legion Branch. Before the parade was dismissed, the Legion President thanked all the veterans for turning out and complimented them on their splendid appearance.

AT VICTORIA

One of the largest attendances were out for the Armistice Day Memorial Services at Victoria yesterday. The parade was made up of all veterans in the area and the school children. On arrival at the memorial, "O Canada" was sung which was followed by two minutes silence, and then the placing of the wreaths. Wreaths were placed by the Legion, School and private individuals.

Mr. Keith Boswell, chairman for the occasion, gave a short address regarding the purpose and meaning of the service.

Rev. Mr. E. J. Barass, Tryon, gave the benediction, and Rev. Baxter, Hampton, led the prayers. The poem "Flanders Fields" was read by Miss Silvia Boulter. The hymns sung were "O God Our Help in Ages Past", and "Least We Forget".

After the wreath laying, the remainder of the service was held in the Victoria Community Hall. In the afternoon the wreaths were removed from the memorial and placed on the graves in cemetery.

AT MOUNT STEWART

With Mr. Colin MacDonald as chairman a largely attended memorial service was held in the Mt. Stewart Legion Hall, which was followed by the laying of wreaths on the memorial, and benediction at the cemetery.

The speakers were: Rev. Father Butler, Fort Augustus; Rev. Father MacCormick, S. Andrews; Rev. Mr. MacNaught, Marshfield and Major N. D. Lowther, Charlottetown.

Rev. Mr. MacNaught gave the benediction at the cemetery. Major Lowther gave a short talk on the Battle of the Somme during the First World War.

The speakers were: Rev. Father Butler, Fort Augustus; Rev. Father MacCormick, S. Andrews; Rev. Mr. MacNaught, Marshfield and Major N. D. Lowther, Charlottetown.

AT MORELL

The largest number in several years attended the memorial service at Morell yesterday. The service started with assembly at the memorial for the two minutes silence and the laying of wreaths. Mr. Reginald MacAdam, President of the Legion laid the wreath for the Legion, followed in order by

Army Officers Coup Succeeds

RIO DE JANEIRO, (Reuters)—A new president took over in Brazil Friday night as acting president Carlos Coimbra da Luz fled the country in a warship, on the run from a bloodless, almost silent army coup which ousted him Friday morning.

The two houses of the Brazilian Parliament both voted Friday evening to declare Luz ineligible to continue as president and approved Nereu Ramos for the post. As president of the Senate, Ramos was the constitutional successor.

But after a series of conferences, the admiralty announced the navy would accept the decisions of Congress. Apparently the air force went along with this.

(From his refuge aboard the cruiser, Luz sent a message to Congress that he remained the legal president of Brazil, but his claim was greeted with hoots of derision.)

No casualties were reported and only half a dozen shots were exchanged between a cruiser, the Tamandare, and an army shore battery in the uprising.

Lott's men also took over the government radio station and newspapers. In the confused situation they also clamped down on outgoing press dispatches.

Political unrest in Brazil, the largest country of South America with a population of 58,000,000, goes back to the weeks before president Getulio Vargas, head of state since 1930, committed suicide on Aug. 24 last year.

Remembrance Service At National Memorial

OTTAWA (CP)—There are 525,600 minutes in a year. During two of them Friday, Canada mourned her 100,000 war dead.

Officially, it was the 37th time that Canada has remembered. But countless millions of other times thoughts of the living have gone back to death—death by a bullet in the brain on a muddy field, by the clutch of the icy sea, by a bomber pyre.

A hushed, bareheaded throng of 10,000 ringed the National War Memorial in the capital's Confederation Square as, again, the two-minute silence was observed. The Last Post sounded, the wreaths placed, the tears shed.

And again the 10-minute ceremony seemed as fresh and meaningful as it is old. It contained one of the most moving incidents in Remembrance Day history here.

LOST THREE SONS

After Governor-General Vincent Massey had placed the Queen's wreath at the base of the granite-and-bronze memorial, Mrs. John Leboldus of Vibank, Sask., walked slowly forward to place the wreath for the war-bereaved mothers of Canada.

Mrs. Leboldus, who lost three airmen sons during the Second World War, had difficulty mounting the half-dozen steps to the base of the column.

After placing the wreath, she came down the steps, turned, bowed her head. Then she looked into the sombre sky toward the bronze figures atop the monument.

She bowed her head again and stood quietly, apparently lost in thought. Several moments passed. The cabinet ministers, the diplomats, the generals and the crowd of thousands watched in silence. It was as still as a hot summer day in a wheat field.

At last, a legionnaire who had helped Mrs. Leboldus carry her wreath to the memorial, touched her on the arm and whispered something to her. She turned again, walked back to her place among the country's highest-ranking officials.

23-MINUTE MARCH-PAST

Prime Minister St. Laurent placed the wreath for the Canadian people and Very Rev. John Anderson, M.C., president of the Canadian Legion, the wreath for war veterans.

After the service scores of others crowded around the foot of the monument to place their humbler wreaths.

Later, Mr. Massey placed a wreath at the foot of the altar in the memorial chamber in the Parliament Buildings' Peace Tower and then took the salute at a 23-minute march-past of legionnaires, armed forces units, the militia and cadets, the living counterparts of those remembered.

Traditional Services Are Held In Many Countries

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traditional Remembrance Day services were held Friday in many countries.

Thousands of Parisians lined the Champs Elysees for a 60-minute march-past of France's armed forces.

A salvo of gunfire echoed across Paris at 11 a. m. and thousands stood at attention for a minute of silence in memory of French troops who fell in two world wars.

Britain observed Remembrance Day last weekend.

In Washington a ceremony was held at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Earlier, Canadian Ambassador A. D. P. Keeney placed a wreath at the base of the Canadian Cross, erected in Arlington military cemetery near Washington by the Canadian government in memory of Americans who fought in the Canadian forces in the First World War.

JAPANESE HOLD SERVICE

In Japan, Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu attended memorial services for war dead held at the Commonwealth forces' cemetery at Hodogaya, Yokohama.

Also in Japan, about 100 persons gathered in front of Tk's Central railway station for the official unveiling of an 11-foot bronze "Statue of Love," dedicated to executed Japanese war criminals.

In Belgium grey-haired veterans of the First World War marched past 24-year-old King Baudouin at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier

First Snowfall Snarls Traffic

First Snowfall Snarls Traffic

HALIFAX (CP)—The season's first snowfall snarled highway traffic in much of Nova Scotia Friday.

The Halifax weather office reported a depth of four inches in the Annapolis Valley and Cape Breton, three inches in the Truro area.

Other districts got lesser amounts, some none at all. Heavy rain fell along the south and eastern shores. New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island had light snow.

RCMP highway patrols dealt with a rash of accidents, most of them involving minor collisions or cars sliding off slippery roads.

CAR-TRUCK CRASH

Mrs. Sylvia Hall of Prince's Lodge near Halifax was seriously hurt in a car-truck crash at Mount Uniacke, 25 miles from the city. She suffered head injuries.

Traffic was stopped on hilly streets in some Annapolis Valley towns until sanders could get into action. Children brought out sleds and toboggans.

Little Hope For Any Ghost Ship Survivors

SUVA, Fiji Islands (Reuters)—Marine experts here believe 25 people missing from the "ghost" launch Hoyita put to sea on a raft built of timber and oil drums after an explosion and fire aboard their vessel. Little hope is held for survivors.

The 70-ton launch was discovered Thursday drifting off the Fiji Islands. She had been missing five weeks after leaving Apia, Western Samoa, on a two-day voyage to the Tokelau Islands.

The captain of the Fijian vessel, Oregan, which is towing the Hoyita to land, radioed that the cabin of the launch was badly charred and there was no trace of empty oil drums and 2,000 feet of timber she was known to be carrying.

Planes of the New Zealand Air Force searched the southwest Pacific Friday, but failed to find any trace of the missing passengers and crew.

R. C. M. P. Rookie Touches Off Huge Drug Seizure

MONTREAL (CP)—Persistent inquisitiveness of an RCMP rookie, while crack narcotics experts of two nations finecombed a French Line cargo vessel, was credited Friday with uncovering the biggest drug seizure ever made in North America.

The end of a 96-hour search came as the 7,300-ton St. Malo moved slowly into Montreal harbor late Thursday night.

While narcotics police swarmed all over her, a cache in the ceiling of a tiny cabin disgorged 31 pounds of pure heroin. Official estimates of its value on the illicit drug market ranged from $3,000,000 to $10,000,000.

THREE MEN HELD

Five men were taken from the ship. Three were still held Friday by the RCMP but only one was identified. He is a 30-year-old fireman, Robert Bianchi-Maliverano of Plainfaing, Vosges, France.

The search began four days ago. When the ship, inbound from Bordeaux, France, reached Father Point—where ships stop to take on St. Lawrence river pilots—officers clambered aboard.

They were officers from the RCMP headquarters narcotics squad based in Montreal, officers of the U. S. federal bureau of narcotics of New York—branch of the famous FBI—and agents of the U. S. treasury attaché's office in Montreal.

Just in case something was dropped overboard," said the RCMP. While the investigation is still under way, the name of the rookie RCMP constable who discovered the heroin was not disclosed.

The young officer was said to have become intrigued with the walls and ceilings in the crew's quarters. In one cabin in particular he detected slight markings he believed unusual.

The ceiling boarding of the cabin was ripped off. The heroin, a derivative of opium, was found in 14 one-kilogram bags, each wrapped in plastic to protect it from dampness.
