THE DAILY EXAMINER.

SEPTEMBER 4, 1896.

CLOSING OF THE BAR.

THE closing of the bar of the House of Commons will gratify temperance workers. Certainly the honorable gentlemen who purpose to promote prohibition in the country cannot, with any show of consistency, permit intoxicants to be sold and drank within the purview of the House. We may, perhaps, indulge the hope that neither will they—as some Provincial promoters do—take refuge in their clubs and give to a debased appetite there that which they are compelled to publicly renounce.

PRECEPT VS. PRACTICE.

IT is announced that the Government have consented to the House adjourning from Thursday evening until Tuesday morning, so as to allow of members attending the Toronto Exhibition and for the due observance of Labor Day. This, added to the evidence afforded in the long trades and useless discussions of Mr. Carneron, of Huron, and others of its members, may be taken as conclusive proof that the Government Party have no intention to prorogue Parliament within a month. In this, as in other matters, they say one thing, and do another and very different thing. When in opposition they preach economy and promise to practice it. But when in possession of the public offices they "run them for all they are worth."

THE HARVEST.

THIS Province has, perhaps, the best all-round crop in its history, and the greater part of it has been secured in good order. A larger acreage of wheat than usual was sown and the yield is above the average,—so that if we can have only very low prices for oats and other products, we shall be compelled to pay out less money than usual for flour.

As to the prospects of the markets, it is impossible to judge with accuracy. The harvest in the Northwest is large, though the acreage under crop was not so great as that of last year. From Ontario there come many reports of injury to the wheat crop on account of winter-killing drought and grass hoppers, while the condition of the oat and barley crops is stated to be only fair.

SERVING TWO MASTERS.

WE have in our midst an ingenious and enterprising gentleman who is attempting to serve two masters. Mr. W. C. Hobkirk is at once an esteemed member of the staff of the Registry Office under our Provincial Government and an official of the Dominion Government in the service of the Department of Marine and Fisheries. His status in the outside service of Canada has not yet been announced. Whether he takes his orders from the indomitable Mr. Perry, who rejoices in the high office of Fishery Inspector for P. E. Island, or whether he is under the sole command of Admiral Spain in the fishery protection service, or whether he obeys the dcitates of his own sweet will and reports directly to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, will be known only when the blue books come down. Nor does it yet appear what salary he receives or how he manages to do his work in the Registry Office while he is engaged in capturing lobster traps and trout fishers out of season. All that we know is that he is active and influential at election times, and that he now serves both the Dominion and the Provincial Governments. Far from eating the one or despising the other, it is said that he heartily loves them both and is as ready to serve the one as the other—particularly at election times. His feats in the last two political campaigns will not, indeed, soon be forgotten by some of the residents of classic Rustico and Tracadie. His reward too was not—as in the case of some other workers for the Party—delayed. True his promotion to a second office in the public service, so soon after his notable achievements in the field of political battle, cannot be made to square with the Premier's declaration that the present administration desires that officers of the Government shall be non-political. If it be right to dismiss an officer for merely giving utterance to his political opinions, it is surely wrong to appoint to office one whose active services in the elections were such as those of Mr. Hobkirk. The Hon. Mr. Davies was, moreover, not following the Golden Rule when he appointed to a second office in the service of the public one who carried confusion into the camp of his opponents and at the same time inspired the courage and exhilerated the spirits of his supporters. But we must not expect perfect consistency or Christian charity on the part of politicians, even though they are Elevators of the Standard and leaders in the battle for Economy and Reform. It is true that Mr. Hobkirk's last appointment is somewhat "fishy." But we must give both him and his appointees a fair chance to prove their worth to the public,—which foots the bills. If Mr. Hobkirk should be able to demonstrate that he can faithfully serve both Dominion and Province, he will earn the right to be regarded as a marvel of ability as well as an official anomaly.

—A fact that has a bearing on the recent election is contained in the following paragaragraph from the St. John, N. B, Sun: "The two leading Liberal papers in Montreal give statistics showing that only 68 per cent of the people of Quebec over ten years of age can read and write. The proportion in the rest of Canada is 85 per cent., and British Columbia ranks next to Quebec in illiteracy. The Halifax Herald remarks that whatever the Herald and Patrie intend to prove they have succeeded in showing that the grit majorities come from the places where fewer people can read."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—W. W. Ogilvie, the millionaire miller, who has just returned from England, says that British capitalists will touch very few American securities, but that Canada is away up in the estimation of British investors.

—St. John Sun: Mr. A. C. Bell, M. P. for Pictou, whose first speech in the House of Commons is much commended, was a member of Sir John Thompson's Government of Novv Scotia. He was for a time leader of the opposition in the Nova Scotia legislature.

—Toronto Globe: There can be no question as to the propriety of Lord Aberdeen's course in the matter. Our constitution is flexible, and if the straining of its provisions is ever justifiable it is when carrying into effect, not when frustrating, the clearly expressed will of the people.

—The London Standard, in its editorial column a few days ago, said: "William Jennings Bryan, the democratic candidate for President of the United States, seems to possess the quality which Americans call magnetism, and it may be anticipated that the republicans will have no such easy victory as expected."

—The Christian Guardian, of Toronto, in its last issue, makes international arbitration a special feature. It has an open letter to the Canadian Parliament urging favorable action on the subject. It quotes from Lord Russell's speech at Saratoga, from Cardinal Gibbon's article in the Independent of last May and the resolution passed by the Methodist Episcopal General Conference, and says they represent very fully the feeling of the Methodists of Canada.

—A contributer to The Methodist Review claims to be "a Methodist Catholic Christian." Then there are, The Independent supposes, Roman Catholic Christians, Orthodox Greek Catholic Christians, Presbyterian Catholic Christians, Baptist Catholic Christians, Christian Catholic Christians and Quaker Catholic Christians. It is a wonderful mixture, and confusion of titles if not of tongues, must continue until we all come to be simply Christians,—Christians at Rome, Christians in the United States, Christians in Russia, etc.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL QUESTION.

Opinions of the Press.

The Hamilton Spectator says:—

"Canada cannot afford to allow the partisanship of the Earl of Aberdeen to go unchecked; she cannot afford to have it said that the Queen's representative in this country inquires into the party politics of those recommended for office by the Government, and consents to the appointment or rejects it as the man may be a Grit or a Tory. Canada cannot afford to allow her Governor-General to overrule the constitution and arrange the political complexion of the Dominion Senate to suit himself. Why should a Governor-General know how many Tory senators and how many Grit senators there are in the Upper Chamber! Why should a Governor-General of Canada object to the presence of four more Tory senators in that chamber? What "friction" could the addition of four to the present number of Tory senators produce? What cause is there for any alarm in the appointment of four Tory senators, which cause could be removed by the appointment of four Grit senators? What right has the Governor-General to inquire into the political proclivities of a man recommended by the Government to the high office of judge? Has the Conservative party in Canada so arranged the appointment of judges that there need be any fear on the part of His Excellency that the late Government would recommend the appointment to the bench of improper persons? It is unfortunate for Canada that the Governor-General's office has fallen into the hands of a man who cannot free himself from the yoke of party. It is unfortunate for Canada that the person who represents the Queen in this country allows his partisan feelings to govern his public actions."

The Toronto World says:—

"Sir Charles Tupper has exhibited clever statesmanship in his negotiations with the Governor-General. He has not only all the argument on his side, but he has 'drawn out' the Governor-General and got his views on record so that there is no running away from them. He has so arranged the negotiations as to give the public a brief of the whole case. Sir Charles never appeared to better advantage than in his recent official negotiations with the Governor-General. The position assumed by Sir Charles will be generally approved by the people of Canada."

SITUATION IN TURKEY.

A telegram from Malta reports that the battleships Ramilies and Trafalgar, flagships of the British Mediterranean squadrons, and 22 other British warships, have started for the Levant.

From Constantinople comes the news that a detachment of British marines who were marching from the British guardship on Sunday last, clubbed and beat back a Turkish mob who were maltreating a number of Armenians in the street. The Porte made a complaint against the conduct of the troops to the Minister of British legation, who replied that the marines had a perfect right to protect the Armenians if the Turkish troops did not see fit to do so.

The Embassies were not illuminated on the anniversity of the Sultan's accession to the the thrown, owing to the recent massacres. Ambassadors while congratulating the Sultan upon the anniversary to the throne, express deep regret at the recent outrages. There is no longer any doubt that the massacres were organized by the Turkish authorities, and it has been ascertained that orders were only given to the Bashibazouks to cease massacring the Armenians after the bloody work had been going on thirty hours. It is also a fact that hundreds of Turks were brought over from the Asiatic side of the Bosphorous in order that they might take part in the massacres, and many Armenians were put into boats, which were then taken out to sea.

The number of persons killed in Sunday's rioting at Hasskein is estimated at 200. The owners of the houses which were looted in that town are returning and have succeeded in getting some of their lost goods returned to them. Much of the plunder was found in Jewish houses. Over one thousand persons were massacred in the Desmatra district, three hundred Armenians having been dragged out of their houses and murdered by one Khan alone. The Kurdish porters in the Constantinople Custom House killed their Armenian comrades during the late rioting and horribly mutilated their bodies. The foreign families residing there continue to hang from their windows the flags of their various nationalities. Baron de Calace, the Austrian ambassador, has had several interviews with the Sultan, who repeats his assurances that ample measures have been taken to insure quiet. The Porte will have a large amount of indemnity to pay to foreigners whose houses and offices have been broken into and looted by the mobs. The success of the police in regaining control of the city and maintaining order has been rewarded by the payment of their arrears in wages.

The opening services of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada took place at Holy Trinity Church, Winnipeg, on the evening of the 2nd inst. The church was filled with high church dignitaries, clerical und lay delegates from all parts of the Dominion. The Lord Bishiop of Nova Scotia preached the opening sermon and among those who took part in the service were Bishops Baldwin, Dumoulin, Hamilton, Sullivan and Dean Carmichael. The business sessions of the synod will begin to-morrow.

The Popular Science News is authority for the announcement that "sensitive persons who are annoyed by the sharp, incisive sound of the electric bell will be glad to know that a French electrician has produced a bell which gives a continuous musical sound. The note is very soft and sweet, although penetrating, and is said to be an exaggeration of that obtained by rubbing the edge of a glass with the finger. Instead of a bell with a hammer and a spring interrupter, a steel bell is used, which is its own interrupter."

The Russian laws dealing with religious Nonconformists have recently been revised, and in many particulars they have been made more stringent. Thus, with reference to the Roman Catholic Church, it has been decided that members of the Roman Catholic Church must transact their affairs with the Curia at Rome only through the Russian Minister of the Interior, and that papal Bulls and similar documents can be promulgated in the Empire only after this has been permitted by the Czar on the basis of an examination by his Minister.

PARLIAMENT OF CANADA.

Mr. Hackett Pleads for Tignish

Another Constitutional Question

AID FOR THE PARK ROADWAY.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.

The House of Commons bar has been closed.

Mr. Hackett notified the House yesterday of the total destruction of Tignish, P. E. Island, and read some particulars of the catastrophe. He recalled the action of Parliament in voting relief for the suffering people of Hull some years ago, and appealed to the Government to grant at least $3,000 at once.

M. Laurier said that as soon as Mr. Hackett laid the full particulars of the fire before the Government, the case would receive consideration.

On the motion to resume consideration of supply, Hon. Mr. Foster took the floor and showed that the action of the Government during the recess in obtaining money before the issue of the Governor-General's warrant, was an illegal usurpation of the power of Parliament and in direct violation of the stand taken by Sir Richard Cartwright and Messrs. Mills, Davies, Blake and other Liberals when they were in opposition. Mr. Foster turned the Liberal guns on their present position with telling effect. In conclusion he moved in amendment to the motion to go into supply a lengthy resolution setting forth, in substance, that the issuing of the Governor General's warrant for large sums of money during recess was in contravention of the principle of parliamentary control, and an abuse of the powers of the government.

Sir Richard Cartwright replied, admitting the gravity of the charge, but defending the government's action as necessary for the proper conducting of public affairs in an emergency brought about by the late administration. There were several other speakers, and the House sat till 1.10 this this morning.

In the Senate, in answer to Hon. Senator McDonald, of P. E. Island, Sir Oliver Mowat said that it was the Government's intention to ask parliament to grant aid in the construction of a roadway from the western end of Kent Street, Charlottetown, along the front of Government House farm to Fort Edward in Victoria Park.

Replying to the temperance delegation, Mr. Laurier said that no legislation looking to the promised plebiscite would be introduced this session, but the matter would receive attention at the next session of parliament.

THE IRISH NATCINAL CONVENTION.

Mr. Blake Makes a Sensation.

Healyites Will Not Accept Him as Leader.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

Hon. Edward Blake created a sensation at the Dublin convention and excited the greatest enthusiasm when he was speaking of the self-restraint with which the Irish party remained silent under the reckless charges of T. M. Healy, who had shown the bitterest animus against Mr. Blake. Then, raising himself to his full height, and turning towards his old political opponent, Hon. Mr. Costigan, who sat next him, Mr. Blake said: "When, years past, in Canada, I was unable to agree with members of my party on details of policy, I retired from public life rather than inflict a stab from behind on his colleagues." At this the audience rose and cheered heartily.

Mr. Blake's part in the conference has led some persons to suggest him as leader of the Irish party, now that John Dillon is willing to retire. But the Healyites would never consent to seeing him occupy that position.
